Paths of Service

We thank Thee, Lord, Thy paths of service lead
To blazoned heights and down the slopes of need;
They reach Thy throne, encompass land and sea,
And he who journeys in them walks with Thee.

Foreword

R. Rickard

MRS. J. FOUNT TILLMAN
President, Woman's Division of Christian Service

DURING this past year the theme, "The Spirit of Christ for All of Life," has echoed from reports of woman's work in Methodism all over the world. We have known the inspiration of oneness in Christ as increasingly we have realized the greatness of the task.

There has been progress during this first year of the 1956-1960 quadrennium—a progress due to dedicated concern and continuity of effort in every Society and Guild. For a number of years the problems of unification and organization were major responsibilities. Now there is study and evaluation of what has been done in order that we may meet the needs of increasing numbers and develop a program suited to life in a changing world. In Proverbs 16:9 (RSV) we read, "A man's mind plans his way, but the Lord directs his steps." We would make our plans from year to year, yet pray that daily our steps may be directed by God as we follow the various paths of service which "—lead to blazoned heights and down the slopes of need."

As you read—and, I hope, study—the pages of this Eighteenth Annual Report of the Woman's Division of Christian Service, you will find paths which have led us geographically to serve with others in thirty-two* countries, including our own and the outposts of Alaska, Hawaii, and Puerto Rico. You will discover how extensive is the range of our endeavor; chronologically to include all ages, sociologically to reach all groups, and spiritually to comprehend all of life.

Organized woman's work came into being from missionary motives. This motivation continues today though often currently expressed in terms of community, whether of families in a neighborhood, of members in a church, or of Christians in the world. There is increasing interest in woman's status in this community because of outstanding contributions and growing participation in economics, politics, education, theology; in fact, in any and all areas of human enterprise. How are we fulfilling God's purpose? For one thing, what is being done through our organization is evidence of spiritual power released through consecrated, united efforts of hundreds of thousands of Methodist women.

Let us turn, then, to our statistical record. Reports at the close of the fiscal year 1956-1957 showed 1,805,599 adult members of 31,028 Woman's Societies and 5,472 Wesleyan Service Guilds. The total income was $11,052,900.21. The amount in pledges, which represents the basic underlying support of our program, is $5,563,053.20. The total increase in giving over the previous year was $491,533.01. We say we have "approximately two million" members, yet we fall short of that number by 194,401. How long must we continue such a misrepresentation? We should concentrate on the unreached women in our churches and communities not just to "put us over the two million mark," but to fulfill our responsibility as evangelists of a great movement inspired to share its purpose and program with those who are not aware of this challenge.

There have been many problems this first year of the new quadrennium with a great turnover in leadership. I would recall a statement of Mrs. Frank G. Brooks in the Foreword of the Seventeenth Annual Report, "Let us remember that if we forget the greatness of yesterday, we are not likely to find the glory of tomorrow." This may be what one has called "the age of analysis," but such analysis should result in the perpetuation of what is good from the past with the integration of what is good in the present in the hope that we may continue the climb toward "the glory of tomorrow."

This program of ours is not just an "organizational busy-ness"; it is a community of spirit, it is a united endeavor of Methodist women to obey God's will and to fulfill His purposes. May we rejoice in our opportunities and testify through our witness in word and deed that the Spirit of Christ is for all of life.

Sadie Wilson Tillman
President, Woman's Division of Christian Service

* Because of world conditions, reports are not received from China, Bulgaria, and Poland.

The substance of missions is found in the words of Jesus, "I was an hungered and ye gave me meat: I was thirsty and ye gave me drink: I was a stranger and ye took me in: naked and ye clothed me: I was sick and ye visited me: I was in prison and ye came unto Me." These words set the goals for missions. The paths to attain these goals take varied forms. The path of education is studded with understanding. The path of social welfare and health is paved with love. The urban path, though crowded, is lighted with human concern. The path in town and country is lined with faith and encouragement. And the workers who journey in them walk with Thee.

Commission on Deaconess Work

MARY LOU BARNWELL
Executive Secretary
Commission on Deaconess
Work

IN 1903, when deaconess work in the Methodist Episcopal Church was fifteen years old, Bishop James M. Thoburn, on furlough from India, made speeches across the United States in which he deplored the fact that "there are still church members who do not understand the program of deaconess work or even know that there are deaconesses in the Methodist Church." How familiar these words sound in 1957! There are still many members of The Methodist Church who do not understand the program of deaconess work, and some, even yet, are surprised to learn that there are deaconesses in The Methodist Church.

Nevertheless, deaconesses are continuing to make a significant contribution to the church. There are 804 deaconesses in The Methodist Church. Of this number, 482 are in active service and 322 are retired.

Since its beginning in the United States, deaconess work has been extensive and inclusive in its scope. Unlike the movement in European nations, it was never confined chiefly to nursing services. From the start, there was recognition of the role women could play in social welfare of all kinds, in the local church, in education, and in other community services. The work actually began with services for "underprivileged" people in crowded areas of Chicago.

The variety of work done by deaconesses has been one of the strengths of the movement. At the same time, it has contributed to the lack of understanding, for one cannot define deaconess work by describing one category of service.

Although it is difficult to report accurate statistical records because of changes in appointments, the record for 1956-57 indicates that 246 deaconesses were employed in projects of the Woman's Division of Christian Service and 236 were in other agencies. The largest number in any one type of work were found in community centers. Next in order were the local church, educational work, hospital work, rural church and community work, children's homes, homes for the aged, homes for deaconesses and other employed young women; ten were serving as supply pastors. Others were found in connectional agencies, interdenominational agencies, conference, district, and city boards, Goodwill Industries, and other special services. One was "on loan" to the Department of Work in Foreign Fields, serving for three years in Pakistan."

Figures and Facts

Since unification in 1940, there have been 332 deaconesses received through commissioning, reinstatement, and transfer from other relationships. During the same period, there have been 262 withdrawals (151 for marriage); 29 active deaconesses died; four transferred to foreign service, and 336 retired.

In presenting these figures, some interpretation is necessary. It should be pointed out that large numbers on the rolls at the time of unification were not actually engaged in deaconess work. As the rolls were cleared, retaining only those persons serving as deaconesses, the losses appear to have been heavy. The loss of church workers was, in fact, small.

It should be pointed out, also, that the peak of retirements has been reached, but will be maintained at about the present level for approximately twelve to fifteen years. However, the removal of a compulsory retirement age is reflected already in the number of annual retirements. In two years, the number decreased from 25 to 16. The lower number can be expected to prevail not more than five years. Then the higher level of retirements will be resumed and maintained.

The removal of the compulsory retirement age has made it possible to retain trained workers in positions which might otherwise have to be filled by untrained and, sometimes, even older people. At the same time, it has lifted the average age of deaconesses to 51 years. Fifty-eight per cent of the active deaconesses are over 50 years of age. The average age of the retired deaconesses is 75 years. Nine are past 90 years of age, and 76 are between 80 and 90.

A study of conference relationships reveals some facts which should be of vital concern to all conferences. For example, from 20 conferences no deaconesses have been commissioned since unification; only 4 conferences have had as many as 10. They deserve special mention: Baltimore, Central Kansas, North-East Ohio, and Western North Carolina. In addition to these 4, only 17 conferences have sent out 5 or more since unification. However, of all the deaconesses now in active service, the largest number—35—have come from the Ohio Conference. This is the conference where the German group was strongest, and, because of the Bethesda group, this is the conference where the largest number are now serving. Twenty-nine deaconesses claim Central Kansas as their home conference. In 24 conferences no deaconesses are serving at present. Only 38 conferences, including the provisional and mission conferences, have 5 or more deaconesses serving projects within their bounds. Ohio, Rock River, Southern California-Arizona, and Texas have more than 20 each. The New York Conference reports 19; however, 9 of these are employed in the offices of the Board of Missions.

Among the retired workers, there are 48 who were in active service as deaconesses more than 40 years. Last year, one died after having completed 50 years of active service. Retirement is an adventure for these devoted women. In a volunteer capacity, they are rendering extensive service to the church. One has written, "I believe the most effective work I have ever done has been my work with the Woman's Society of Christian Service in my local church since my retirement."

Retirement

The Woman's Division of Christian Service provides three homes for retired deaconesses and missionaries—at Ocean Grove, New Jersey; Pasadena, California; and Alhambra, California. A fourth one will be built in Asheville, North Carolina. Sixty-five retired deaconesses now reside in these homes. They participate in church and civic affairs wherever they are.

Pensions for retired deaconesses are administered by the Woman's Division of Christian Service. To meet the obligation during the past year, the Council on World Service and Finance provided $45,000 (which is its annual contribution for the quadrennium); the Harris Trust Fund provided $23,494; deaconess assessments provided $1,508; and the Woman's Division of Christian Service provided $178,660. Under the pension plan which has been in effect since 1953, the pension provisions for most deaconesses have been increased almost 100 per cent. Six years ago, 81 per cent of the retired deaconesses received less than $50 per month. During the past year, the average pension was $75 per month, and fewer than 9 per cent received less than $50 monthly; of course, these few served as deaconesses only a short time.

Many retired deaconesses write, "I now have more money than I've ever had before. It is wonderful to be able to make gifts of money, as well as service, to my church." Having begun their work for as little as $8 monthly, and never having received more than $25 or $35 monthly (as is true in many instances), the pension seems a large amount.

Recruitment

As pointed out previously, recruitment has not yet "caught up with" retirements. Although the difference is only four, it is obvious that vacancies caused by retirements must, at times, be filled by noncommissioned workers. In addition, there are vacancies created by withdrawals, adding heavily to the problem of recruitment.

An enlarged staff for the Joint Committee on Missionary Personnel is not the answer. The present staff, with its secretaries, field workers, and office personnel, should be adequate for the Board of Missions. It could easily handle its task if Commissions on Christian Vocations were active in all local churches. Unless a local church is concerned about the program of service around the world, its young people are not likely to respond to a call to witness and decision.

Sixteen young women were commissioned as deaconesses in January. Eight of these had been U.S.-2's. Two other U.S.-2's were commissioned at the same time to serve in foreign fields. It is recognized that this short-term service is a valuable method of preparation for life service as a deaconess or missionary. But this is not sufficient. There are many young women who should make earlier decisions for life commitment.

Why are there 20 conferences from which no deaconesses have been recruited? Why are there only 4 from which as many as 10 have been recruited in 17 years? Better ways of bringing together the dedicated abilities of the youth and the opportunities within the church must be found.

Deaconess Emphasis Week

In February, the Commission sponsored "Deaconess Emphasis Week" on the campuses of National College for Christian Workers, Kansas City, Missouri, and Scarritt College for Christian Workers, Nashville, Tennessee. A team of six deaconesses, including the executive secretary, spent several days on each campus, interpreting to students and faculty the program of deaconess work. The team included a representative from educational work, one from a business girls' home, one from an urban community center, one from rural church and community work, and one from a local church.

The more serious aspects of the program were interspersed with fellowship and fun. There were formal presentations; questions and answers; small "buzz" sessions; personal conferences; social hours; prayer groups; informal chatting at mealtimes and during leisure moments; and there was a dramatic presentation of "Where Are the Nine?"—a playlet written by two deaconesses, Betty Ruth Goode and Mary F. Smith.

On each campus, the details were planned by a committee composed of faculty members (including deaconesses) and students. Following the emphasis week, these committees met to evaluate the program. In general, each committee reported that Deaconess Emphasis Week was one of the best programs of that nature which had been on the campus. Both colleges requested that it be repeated every two years, and that similar programs be taken to other college campuses, as feasible.

Three candidates, who were approved in May, attribute their decision to the influence of Deaconess Emphasis Week. Others have expressed deepening of interest and appreciation for a better understanding. The extent of its value cannot be determined in a short period of time. The program should be repeated at least once or twice before making a final decision regarding its frequency and permanency.

Enlarged Jurisdiction Deaconess Associations

Instead of holding a national convocation during this quadrennium, enlarged meetings of deaconess associations will be held. These will be, in fact, smaller convocations on a jurisdiction basis. One of these, the Western Association, was held in February. It included a United Nations Seminar led by Mrs. C. A. Bender, official observer for the Woman's Division of Christian Service at United Nations and a member of the staff of the Department of Christian Social Relations. Other associations are working out plans for their enlarged meetings.

A subsidy is provided by the Woman's Division of Christian Service for the enlarged meetings so that a more extensive program may be developed. As a means of maintaining a degree of unity among these small convocations, a committee from the commission works with the jurisdiction committees in formulating plans. The initiating and major responsibility, however, is placed upon the Jurisdiction Deaconess Associations.

The next National Convocation will be held in 1961. A committee is now at work trying to find a suitable time and place. It was voted earlier that it be held on a college campus in the North Central Jurisdiction.

Exchange Program

The Deaconess Exchange Program has created enthusiastic interest in this country and others. It is a plan which has great possibilities for enrichment and for adding significance to the total program of deaconess work as it spreads to different countries around the world.

Names of possible candidates for the exchange were submitted by the Jurisdiction Deaconess Associations after their spring meetings. In the meantime, negotiations had been undertaken with Germany and England to determine the country, the specialization, and the opportunities for such an exchange. After thorough consideration, it was decided that the first exchange should be with England and that each country would select a deaconess engaged in social work. Miss Rosamond Johnson, head resident of Wesley House, Atlanta, Georgia, and president of the Southeastern Jurisdiction Deaconess Association, was selected to represent the Methodist deaconesses of the United States. The name of the English deaconess has not yet been disclosed.

There was not sufficient time to make necessary arrangements for initiating the program in the fall of 1957, as anticipated. It will begin, however, in the fall of 1958. This is another venture which has been undertaken to strengthen the bonds of Diakonia around the world.

International Fellowship

Membership in the International Federation of Deaconess Associations will have increasing significance for Methodist deaconesses. The first meeting held since the Commission became a member will be in Strasbourg, France, in September, 1957. The executive secretary is the official delegate from Methodist deaconesses in the United States. Five other deaconesses, who will be vacationing in Europe, also plan to attend the meeting.

With the assistance of Miss Ruth Bartholomew, former president of the Southeastern Jurisdiction Deaconess Association, a deaconess training program has been started in Southern Rhodesia. A teacher at Paine College, Augusta, Georgia, Miss Bartholomew is on sabbatical leave for a year teaching in a Woman's Division school at Old Umtali in Southern Rhodesia. Fortunately, she could be there at the time the deaconess training program was being initiated, and she helped greatly in determining the courses which should be included in the training program.

Plans have been worked out for Miss Grace Thatcher, a rural worker in Kentucky, to spend next year in Korea, working in conjunction with the five social centers of the Woman's Division. She will work with Korean social workers and other leaders, encouraging and helping them in many ways.

Another deaconess, Miss Evelyn Keim, has been loaned to the Department of Work in Foreign Fields for a three-year special assignment in Mexico. She will be associated with Mexican deaconesses in social centers and in their training school.

The love gift, presented at the last Convocation to enable a young woman from Japan to study at Harris Memorial Training School in Manila, is being used by Miss Michiko Tonegawa, a graduate of Aoyama Gakuin in Tokyo. Miss Tonegawa comes from a Christian family and is a devoted Christian, herself. She is rapidly making a place for herself in the life of Harris Memorial. The deaconesses may well be proud of their investment in her.

The broader fellowship—interdenominational and international—gives depth to the spirit of deaconess work, breadth to its opportunities, and height to its hopes. It banishes any sense of isolation or "aloneness." It develops a sense of unity in a world church. It presents unlimited opportunities for understanding the fullest meaning of Diakonia, a term which has been held sacred in some churches but used rarely in The Methodist Church.

But Why Be a Deaconess?

This is not an unusual question. Deaconesses answer it in many ways. Here are some of their answers:

"Why be a deaconess? In crystalizing my thinking as I was making my decision to become a deaconess in The Methodist Church, it was not why be a deaconess; but why not be a deaconess? There was no reason. Already I was finding an unlimited opportunity for service as I worked in one of the agencies of the church, but something was missing—that feeling of 'belonging.' As I looked at my life, I knew that God had given me but one life to live and it was dedicated to Him."

"Since becoming a deaconess, I have felt a sense of belonging to a fellowship of Christian workers whose purpose is to witness through one's vocation. This fellowship and relationship to the church undergird and give impetus to the missionary program at home because people trained for a task are dedicated to the cause of Christ. This sense of fellowship is not limited but crosses the boundaries of The Methodist Church and links itself with deaconess movements of other denominations and in other parts of the world."

"As a deaconess, I feel that my local church is more certain of my sincere commitment than before I was commissioned. They have always been most gracious, but since my commissioning, seldom a Sunday passes that someone does not introduce me to a guest, saying, 'I want you to know our deaconess.' And they say it with real pride, as if it meant a great deal to them to have one around."

"Why be a deaconess? One of the reasons is to let your people know you are in 'dead earnest' about this business of building the Kingdom."

"Why be a deaconess? Because, being a deaconess of The Methodist Church leads to channels of service which must surely have been in the mind of Jesus Christ when He said, 'Inasmuch as ye have done it unto the least of these, my brethren, ye have done it unto me.'"

It matters not whether "paths of service lead to blazoned heights or down the slopes of need." The deaconesses who journey in them "serve neither for reward nor gratitude, but from gratitude and love." Their reward is that they may serve.

Scarritt College for Christian Workers, Nashville, Tennessee. During the past year Scarritt College enrolled 275 individuals from twenty countries. In March, 1957, the college Board of Trustees instructed the faculty to move toward an exclusively graduate program. The undergraduate degree is being changed from a professional degree in religion to a liberal arts degree with a major in religion. Only mature, delayed students or junior college graduates of B average will be accepted in the undergraduate program. The junior year of work will be taken largely at Peabody College, Nashville, Tennessee. Six fields have been designated as areas in which to carry a minor. It is expected that the senior year of college work will largely be integrated with graduate prerequisites for those people who have not had an undergraduate major in religion.

National College for Christian Workers, Kansas City, Missouri. The college continued to grow during the 1956-1957 school year, bringing to young people an ever-improving program for Christian service. It can look forward to meriting full academic accreditation as a liberal arts college in the near future.

The college has been accepted as a member of the North Central Association Study on Liberal Arts Education, and admitted to the National Council for the Advancement of Small Colleges.

For the first time, courses were offered in an evening division. College credit is offered and is a valuable service to the community.

Total enrollment for the school year reached 132. The graduating class numbered twenty-two young men and women, of which nineteen entered full-time Christian service or continued their preparation for it at the graduate level.

A major step forward was taken when the permanent Board of Trustees of the new Methodist Seminary meeting on the campus of National College reaffirmed the decision of the provisional board to locate the new seminary on or adjacent to the college campus.

Paine College, Augusta, Georgia. In October the George Williams Walker Science Building was dedicated. Modern in style and equipment, it greatly improved the facilities. It also added to the memorial list another distinguished name representative of the life and significant place of the college. Dr. George Williams Walker, scholar, teacher, minister, great humanitarian, served as president of Paine from 1884 to 1911 and transmitted to it those qualities of character which distinguished him as a Christian gentleman.

The dignity and simplicity of the inauguration of the eighth president, Dr.

E. Clayton Calhoun, added dimension to the color and pageantry of the occasion. Seventy-five universities, colleges, and church agencies were represented in the academic procession. The word of the faith of those who founded and fostered this college has been reported with dignity and force across the South and across the nation. The response has come back in the same tone and the same spirit, a deeply moving antiphonal. The litany continues. The final "amen" is not yet.

Bennett College, Greensboro, North Carolina. The inaugural year (so-called because of the beginning of the presidency of Dr. Willa B. Player) had as its theme "New Vistas in Higher Education for Women" with a year-round emphasis.

The enrollment increased from 442 students to 478. There were twenty-seven states represented in the student body, and in addition, students enrolled from the District of Columbia, the Bahamas, Bermuda, the British West Indies, Korea, the Virgin Islands, Nigeria, and Sierra Leone. A new trend is noted in that twenty-five members of the freshman class planned to major in science.

The Mid-Winter Student Leadership Conference, planned entirely by the student leaders, stressed individual responsibility in leadership. To help the students to greater insight, four significant trips and exchanges were scheduled:

1. Participation in an integration workshop by eight students at Monteagle Highlander Folk School in Tennessee.
2. Student Leadership Tour by eight students visiting six Eastern colleges.
3. Three students exchanged with students from Sarah Lawrence College for about two weeks.
4. Student exchange with Ohio Wesleyan University, with six students participating.

To further broaden the instruction, the development of collaborative programs with universities has been initiated. The first agreement has been established in nursing with Wayne University in Detroit, Michigan, whereby Bennett students will take four years of a pre-nursing curriculum at Bennett and will enter Wayne University the summer immediately after graduation to begin their nursing education.

Pfeiffer College, Misenheimer, North Carolina. The total enrollment for the past twelve months (including extension courses and summer school) has been close to 1,000 students, the highest on record. A class of fifty-eight, the first in the history of the college, was graduated with A.B. and B.S. degrees in May. The trustees have approved an increase for the regular term to 1,000 students, but this cannot be fully realized before 1959.

Construction is progressing on four new faculty homes and on the new science hall. An extensive program of renovation and repairs is now under way.

Ferrum Junior College, Ferrum, Virginia. Ferrum Junior College served 185 students during the 1956-57 session. More than half of these young people could not have had an education if Ferrum had not provided the opportunity to study in a church college. Approximately 15 per cent of the students on the Ferrum College campus were studying for some phase of full-time Christian work. More than half of the students participated in the work program of the college and thus earned a substantial portion of their fees.

The outstanding achievement of the year was the decision of the Virginia Annual Conference that Ferrum College should stay in the area where it is currently located because this area needs the influence and advantage of a church school.

Another outstanding achievement which indicates progress at Ferrum Junior College was the adoption by the Board of Trustees of a development program which will permit Ferrum College to double its enrollment and render a far greater service to the young people of Virginia and of the church.

Sue Bennett College, London, Kentucky. The completion of the remodeling job of the girls' dormitory, Helm Hall, and its attractive furnishings made a tremendous impact on the community. It gave them a new interest and a sense of pride in the college that was stimulating to the staff.

The enrollment of Sue Bennett exceeded that predicted by a survey made by the State Department of Education. There was also an increase in the requests for workships for necessitous students as many of the students came from homes where little or no financial aid could be given them. There was also a larger group receiving scholarship awards for tuition as they were the highest ranking students in their high-school class.

While Sue Bennett has been integrated in spirit for years it was only last year that there was an enrollment of students other than white. Two London Negroes enrolled as students and participated in all phases of college life.

Sue Bennett College carried its usual responsibilities for providing services for community activities by cooperating with the University of Kentucky in an extension program; with the state insurance board in a similar project; with civic groups in town; and with the Methodist Men's group in furnishing a place for special dinner meetings.

Wood Junior College, Mathiston, Mississippi. Religious emphasis was again at the core of the year's work. Religious thought pervaded nearly all areas of instruction, but received its primary emphasis in the humanities and social sciences as well as in the formal courses in religion. Off-campus speakers who participated in the weekly worship services were inspirational and stimulating as well as scholarly. Religious Emphasis Week was observed with the Rev. Prentiss Gordon of Wesley Methodist Church, Columbus, as guest speaker. The vested chorus added dignity and beauty to weekly worship services and special religious observances. A new feature of the religious life was the workshop on Alcohol Education under the auspices of the Mississippi Council of Alcohol Education, and promoted by the student denominational groups.

In the 1957 North Mississippi Junior College Speech Festival, Wood took a number of firsts and placed second for the entire event.

Methodist Student Center, Louisiana Polytechnic Institute, Ruston, Louisiana. With the dedication of its new chapel on Sunday afternoon, September 30, activities began at the Methodist Student Center. As usual, students from the Student Center participated in the intramural sports; this year winning the basketball tournament. Another event was the Annual Spring Banquet, honoring the seniors. For Valentine's Day—an "I Love You Tea" was given for the Methodist faculty at Tech. In April, the Center was entered in Sing Week, an annual event at Tech; the choir sang its theme song, "Kum Bah Yah" (Come by here, Lord) and "Glory Be to God the Father."

One of the most interesting additions is the supper club idea. These are "clubs" composed of groups of students who plan and prepare their supper at the Center.

Methodist Student Center, East Carolina College, Greenville, North Carolina. Paths of service radiate from the Student Center to the campus, the community, the state, and to the far corners of the earth. They mount up the heights of prayer and worship from the Little Chapel, as individuals find a quiet moment, where groups meet for prayer, where the Holy Sacrament is administered every second Sunday at Vesper.

They lead through study to a deeper understanding of the Scriptures, as the counselor interprets to the class of students in the Sunday school the call of God to His "Chosen People" and the call of God to the Church of today. Plays and dramatic services of worship lift up the conflicts of life and point to the solution through Christ who is the Way.

For some students the path of service has led into special summer work with the church: two in Youth Caravans; one in Methodist Drama Caravan; one in Mexican Work Camp in the Rio Grande Valley; one in an interracial, inter-faith camp for underprivileged children; three as counselors in the Conference Youth Camp; two to the Scarritt House Party sponsored by the Woman's Division. Some are finding that the path is leading them toward life service through a church vocation; others are finding the way to live committed lives, dedicated to Christ in the common pursuits of daily living.

The group walked the path of understanding in race relationships through the way of friendship with a Negro family, as they visited in the home, provided material necessities and assisted one of the daughters to complete work for the B.A. degree at Clark College, Atlanta, Georgia.

Eliza Dee Hall, Huston-Tillotson College, Austin, Texas. Huston-Tillotson College opened its 1956 fall term with beautifully equipped new dormitories for men and women. Eliza Dee Hall was available, therefore, for young women attending the University of Texas. Members of different races and nationalities were invited to live in Eliza Dee Hall, but a distinct service was rendered to Negro students who were among the first to be admitted to the state university.

The homelike atmosphere of Eliza Dee Hall was shared by more than fifty graduate students during the summer term of 1956, and by twenty-six regular-session students in the fall. The dormitory program was designed to promote wholesome living, to foster Christian character, and to develop a sense of social responsibility. The group was interracial on a small scale since a student from the School of Social Work chose Eliza Dee for her residence. The social work student participated in the life of the dormitory on a peer basis with the other students and was accepted by them. Her wholesome friendship and loyalty to the group made a fine contribution.

Elizabeth Ritter Hall, Tennessee Wesleyan College, Athens, Tennessee. On October 22, 1957, Tennessee Wesleyan College completes 100 years of service as a Methodist institution. Related originally to the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, the college became the property of the Methodist Episcopal Church following the reorganization of this branch of Methodism in Athens, Tennessee, June 1-5, 1865.

In an effort to serve the South, President Spence rejoiced in 1891 in the decision of the Woman's Home Missionary Society to establish Ritter Hall. The catalog for that year declares, "The plan of instruction will be modeled after the best features of the world-famous Mount Holyoke School, founded by Mary Lyon, the most eminent teacher of her age."

The dreams of the founders of Ritter Hall have come to rich fruition during the years, and currently Ritter Hall is serving more young people than at any point in its history.

Boylan-Haven School, Jacksonville, Florida. The superintendent describes the paths of service thus:

"Many times as we have walked in and out and up and down in our errands of service to the girls in our school and to the little children in our kindergarten, we staff members have said something like this: 'I should like to have a record of our doings each day!' It would be interesting, indeed, to hear the many varied things we say, to see the things we do, to have a pedometer strapped to our feet or to have a map of the steps we take in the course of a day's doings!

"It would be as great a task to portray accurately such paths of service as it is to seek to capture such service in terms of the written word. For instance, there is the dietician and her helpers whose feet begin to tread the 'lowly paths of service free' before daybreak in order that all may have breakfast on time; the house-mothers who begin almost as early to walk from room to room to get the girls up and ready for the day; the teachers whose scheduled work begins at 7:45 A.M. and goes ceaselessly throughout the day; the office folk who meet and care for countless problems—all of these giving gracious, consecrated, loving service, and seeking to find the treasure in young hearts along the way.

"This year there were 177 young girls enrolled in our junior and senior high-school department, and 40 children in the kindergarten. There is evidence, however, of awakened social consciousness in those of our girls who attended the monthly meetings of the Council on Human Relations, or who gave of their time to the Red Cross or the Tuberculosis Association. We saw evidence also of spiritual growth and willingness to assume responsibility as they planned for the various worship services or participated in the Methodist Youth Fellowship meetings and became concerned for the welfare of others. The teachers and students together support a Chinese orphan, and the girls gave of their time to make cupcakes to sell in order to make a larger contribution toward his support.

"Three of our girls gave time and thought to create an interesting skit depicting a day in their lives at Boylan-Haven. They presented this at the annual meeting of the Woman's Society of Christian Service of the Florida Conference, Southeastern Jurisdiction, at Sarasota.

"A number of our girls joined the young people of the churches of Jacksonville to participate in the interracial youth meeting sponsored by the Chain of Missionary Assemblies, and one of our girls had the privilege of introducing a speaker. The report of this meeting given at chapel service thrilled us all with the insight, appreciation, inspiration, and challenge our girls brought to us.

"Perhaps the crowning event of the year occurred when one of our seniors, Gloria McKnight, who was our high honor student, announced her intention of giving her life to Christian service—of going to Bennett College, then to medical school and to Scarritt College, to become a medical missionary to India if accepted by our church. She looked realistically at the long years of preparation ahead and set her feet in this path of service with these words: 'I used to think I'd be happy if I could do some glamorous thing' (she loves dramatics and creative dancing), 'but now I know I shall be happy only if I am doing God's will and doing something to help others. It will be a long road, but with God's help I'll do it!'"

Sager-Brown Home and Godman School, Baldwin, Louisiana. One hundred and eighty-four children enrolled during this period, with fifty in the dormitories. Taking care of this number created a crowded situation in the dormitories and classrooms. We had to turn away children for lack of space.

Those who lived in the dormitories came from broken homes; some were placed through Child Welfare Departments. Others lived in the dormitories because their parents worked and had no one to care for them during working hours.

The school also touched the children in the community through the church and church school. The community church has given opportunity for the children in Sager-Brown Home to participate in all its activities, with special emphasis on the prayer service, the choir, and the Methodist Youth Fellowship. The annual Vacation Bible School, Boy Scouts, participation in the St. Mary Parish Achievement Day, Singing Tours, and dramatics have been a part of the year's program.

Conference groups have visited the home and school almost monthly to see the work in action; as a result supplies and gifts increase, better understanding and fellowship have been developed.

Harwood Girls' School, Albuquerque, New Mexico. Many special opportunities for the staff and girls to work together in promoting Christian fellowship were provided. The South Central Jurisdiction held its annual conference in Albuquerque, and the girls were hostesses at a tea for the delegates and guests. Thus the women saw the school in action, and the girls became acquainted with some of the leaders in the work.

During the summer of 1956 a group of young people from the Kansas Conference made a very real contribution to the school through work and fellowship while they lived at Harwood for four weeks. Their example of giving so generously made a positive impression upon the girls and staff.

Harwood has continued to offer opportunities for pleasant interracial and intercultural experiences for both students and staff. The school was founded upon principles of Christian brotherhood and has promoted integration in such a way that interracial relations are natural and unaffected.

The alumnae organization has become more active, working very closely with the school. Thus, through the parents and graduates, Christian leadership is being developed in all areas where Harwood girls are living.

Holding Institute, Laredo, Texas. Since the devastating flood of 1954, the institute has carried on for two years in the new school building which includes the four classrooms and "cafetorium." The enrollment had to be limited to 115. A visit from a consultant of the Texas Education Agency assures the institute of early accreditation. Twenty students who participated in the "self-help" plan did most of the maintenance work of the school and farm. It will be remembered that the new facilities are provided for through the Week of Prayer of 1956, supplemented by the Building Fund of the Department of Work in Home Fields.

George O. Robinson School, Santurce, Puerto Rico. This year the Robinson School is beginning its fifty-first year of service in its present location and under the Robinson name. From an orphanage for girls only it has become a school from kindergarten through a four-year high-school course for boys and girls.

At present the enrollment numbers 381 with a staff of 30. There is good prospect of receiving accreditation from the Middle States Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools as a result of the visit of the Evaluation Committee.

In addition to this school program, Robinson maintains and supervises fifteen extension schools which meet in various Methodist churches. In this way the crowded conditions of the public schools are somewhat relieved and the children of our church families have an opportunity to begin their education in a Christian atmosphere.

An opportunity for publicizing the school came when the International Y.W.C.A. Conference met at Robinson.

This year sees a change in superintendents. Miss Helen Aldrich, who has been serving devotedly for eight years, takes her sabbatical year. She leaves many warm friends who will never forget her willingness to work in every way for the Christian development of the youth of Puerto Rico.

The new superintendent is the Rev. John E. Shapell, who served for fifteen years as a missionary in a similar school in Callao, Peru. His knowledge of Spanish, of the Latin American people, his friendly personality and that of his wife and small daughter will aid him in his new work.

Browning Home and Mather Academy, Camden, South Carolina. In spite of the sudden loss of the superintendent of Browning Home and Mather Academy in October, 1956, and a shortage of teachers due to illness and other reasons, spirits were high and the program as planned moved along to a happy and successful climax at commencement.

"Students need great lives about them so that it will be easy for them to be good. Our staff of workers served well guiding the bewildered student, helping the struggling one, comforting the troubled, and giving the heart-hungry student a little bit of loving."

Religious Emphasis Week was a success. Boys and girls gave their hearts to God. Many others renewed their faith in Him. The Rev. W. T. Brown, pastor of the High Street Methodist Church of Greensboro, North Carolina, was guest speaker for the week.

A group of students represented the school at the Woman's Society of Christian Service conference held in Aiken, South Carolina. They were in charge of one of the devotional services.

To build into each student's life an appreciation for the beauty of nature, an all-school project to beautify the school grounds was launched.

Through the physical education program, each student gets a chance to participate in the activities of his choice. Through the efforts of all concerned, the boys' basketball team won district and state championships this year.

Allen High School, Asheville, North Carolina. "The purpose of the school is to give a thorough, practical, Christian education," wrote Miss Alsie B. Dole, the first superintendent. Today the same thought is expressed in the current Allen bulletin in these words, "Allen seeks to prepare its students for an intelligent, successful, Christian performance of life's duties and at the same time it fulfills the state requirements of college entrance." Accredited by the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools, Allen continues to serve in a mountain area where Negro girls otherwise find it difficult to attend high schools that adequately prepare them for college entrance.

During the past school year the Allen student body, by folding letters and stuffing envelopes, gave service to the local community in the Christmas seal, the Heart, the Easter seal, and the Cancer Campaigns. Allen girls took an active part in the new interracial youth organization, The Greater Asheville Youth Congress, sponsored by the National Conference of Christians and Jews. On several Sunday nights small groups visited homes for the aged and presented a service of singing, poetry, Scripture, and prayer. Another group made dresses for the children in a family that lost all its possessions in a fire.

Navajo Methodist Mission School, Farmington, New Mexico. Each year sees more graduates of the Navajo Methodist Mission School completing college or other advanced training that enables them to render vital service to their own people and to others. This year, among those who have added their names to this list, are three outstanding Christian young people who received their college degrees with majors in education and will be serving in public schools of New Mexico which are attended by both Indians and whites.

Vashti School, Thomasville, Georgia. At Vashti, the girls from eight states and Cuba and Mexico became a community of citizens working to prepare themselves to go out and serve the present age.

One of the largest senior classes, sixteen in number, finished school and went out to work, to further education, or homemaking. One of our seniors, an Indian, has been given a scholarship to National College in Kansas City and will be trained to return to Dulac Indian Mission to work among her own people. She was the outstanding member of the class.

Erie School, Olive Hill, Kentucky. Increasing provision has been made for the accommodations for faculty members. The new duplex apartment building is most welcome, while Rose and LeMaster Cottages as well as Walker Neighborhood House have continued to be used by faculty and by staff members. The superintendent and the principal did valiant work, but the latter was called into the service.

The President's Committee on Education Beyond the High School states:

"That role (of education) is to develop human beings of high character, of courageous heart and independent mind, who can transmit and enrich our society's intellectual, cultural, and spiritual heritage, who can advance mankind's eternal quest for truth and beauty, and who can leave the world a better place than they found it. Only by pursuing these paramount goals of education can we insure a free society and a sane and peaceful world in which all individuals may live in greater dignity and achieve greater fulfillment."

Social Welfare and Medical Work

EMMA BURRIS
Social Welfare and
Medical Work

WHAT does the community expect of the church in the field of health and welfare? This was an important question discussed at the Conference on Policy and Strategy in Social Welfare sponsored by the National Council of Churches in May, 1957. Dr. Marion B. Folsom, U. S. Secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare, stated that the community expected leadership and inspiration in this field. The Social Welfare and Medical Work projects have been vigilant in making self-evaluations and improving staff and facilities to render a more effective service.

Children's Homes

Is It Well With the Child?

In the fourteen children's homes of the Woman's Division there are more than 200 staff members who are devoting their time and energy—their very lives—to the care of other people's children. Who could assume a more responsible task? Great are the opportunities for Christians who have skills and training adequate to meet the needs of children in institutions as administrators, house parents, case workers, counselors, dietitians, or secretaries.

There is perhaps no other field in social welfare in which a period of change is so definite as in the field of child care. Because of the changes, new opportunities and challenges are present.

A smaller percentage of children who must live away from their own homes are cared for in institutions in this country today. In the past thirty-five years this decrease has been from fifty-seven per cent to thirty-three per cent. Rapid social changes, economic conditions, and improvements in health and welfare have been contributing factors, as well as an increased upsurge in the interest of childless couples in adoption, and the recognition of those involved in child welfare that every child needs a home in which to grow to maturity. Children's homes must be maintained for those who are not ready to be placed in private homes.

Each summer an institute for staffs of children's homes is held in cooperation with the Board of Hospitals and Homes in an effort to improve standards. The Standards and Goals of Methodist Children's Homes, published in 1956, was used by the Rev. Edward Peterson, as one of the requirements for his Doctor of Education degree at New York University.

Cunningham Home, Urbana, Illinois, has many strengths and values. The head resident, Mrs. Merle N. English, aptly expressed the policy of the Woman's Division of Christian Service: "Nothing less than the best policy and performance is good enough for church-sponsored agencies giving twenty-four-hour day care to troubled boys and girls." Here sixty-two children—the majority being teenagers—benefit by group living in homelike cottages. The program of replacing large dormitories by cottages is continuing—one new cottage was recently completed. Staff training and improvement are important in the up-grading of the program.

Epworth School for Girls, Webster Groves, Missouri, has had forty-eight years of service in helping to change unadjusted, upset girls into purposeful, useful members of society. The staff strives to help each girl gain a feeling of security, to further her education, to stimulate her ambition, and to promote a stronger faith in God and man. A remedial school is maintained for those who will profit more from this type of training than from the public-school program.

David and Margaret Home, LaVerne, California. During the year a total of ninety-seven children received care in this home. The average number at any one time was much lower. Thirty-one of the children were returned to the home of a parent and eleven others left the home following high-school graduation or for other reasons. Case-work services assist the children in making these changes helpful rather than hurtful experiences. The staff has sought to use both work and play to meet the individual needs of children, helping to instill respect for the dignity of all honest work.

Mr. Edward Odom, a former staff member, returned to the home after receiving his degree in Social Service Administration and succeeds Mrs. Cleta Terrill as the administrator. Two members of the staff, Mrs. Frances L. Turner and Miss Margaret Miller, have served as president of the Progressive House Parents Association of Los Angeles County.

Four of the teen-age groups joined the Methodist church. Encouraging church attendance and membership is typical in all the homes for children.

Jesse Lee Home, Seward, Alaska, will have the Rev. Thomas Rutledge, a recent graduate of the University of Tennessee School of Social Work, as its new director.

Elizabeth A. Bradley Home for Children, Oakmont, Pennsylvania, has made many improvements in its building and program under the leadership of Mrs. April Schell.

Ethel Harpst Home, Cedartown, Georgia, has served 147 children during the year. The average number is approximately 100.

The Rev. Keith Loveless, the administrator, reports that cooperation with the public school has been exceptionally good. A class in remedial work has been taught in the home. Students, faculty, and members of the school board have been entertained at meals. A number of high-school graduates have entered college.

The material from the old McCarty Center was salvaged by the maintenance staff of Harpst Home and used for building a staff cottage, a granary, and a tool and tractor shed.

Community Centers

McCarty Center, Cedartown, Georgia, moved into the unused classrooms of the Harpst Chapel building in September, 1956. Splendid cooperation was evidenced in many ways. Community leaders cooperated with a committee from the Woman's Division of Christian Service in making a survey to find the best location for a center.

The special feature of the Center program was the kindergarten. Through working, playing, sharing, and praying together under the guidance of Miss Helen Carter, the director, young lives are being directed in the right way. How naturally they are led to pray. Timmy's prayer one day was "Dear God, help me to be a good boy and not hit the other kids, and stuff like that."

Lavinia Wallace Young Community Center, Nome, Alaska, continues its services to Eskimos and other people of the Nome area. Miss Esther McCoy, director, befriends those who participate in the group work and recreation program, as well as those who may need warm clothing or food in an emergency situation during the long cold winter months.

Rural Work in Hawaii. Miss Martha Almon has served in the rural area on the island of Oahu among people of Oriental and American background. Japanese adults expressed a desire to learn English and a class was organized. The Christian witness is a vital part of each class meeting. In cooperation with the churches, the staff is endeavoring to reach the youth for Christ, to make the churches all inclusive and to work toward a united Protestant strategy in the area.

Houchen Settlement—Day Nursery, El Paso, Texas. In addition to the full group work, recreation, and day-care program, the settlement has opened a toy lending library. Dolls, trucks, and other toys are loaned for a week to children. They learn to care for them and return them in good condition.

Residences for Young Business Women

More Rooms Needed

The need for low-cost housing is ever increasing. The twenty-eight residences of the Woman's Division of Christian Service make it possible for approximately 1,000 young women to have a place to live in comfortable residences at low cost. In each residence social rooms and recreation facilities make it possible for the young women to entertain guests and enjoy the homelike atmosphere.

The larger residences are self-supporting or nearly so. Efforts are being made to increase the capacity of present residences.

What is it like for a young woman going to the city to take a job—possibly her first? Nellie Pierce, of Esther Hall, Salt Lake City, Utah, tells what she thinks: "It is really a pleasure and lots of fun to live at Esther Hall! The homelike atmosphere is great, and I enjoy very much the close association with the other girls and with Miss Jones and Mrs. Foreman. It is especially nice to come home after working eight hours in an office and have a delicious well-planned meal waiting for you. For a girl who is away from her home and parents, living at Esther Hall is very nice."

Esther Hall, Ogden, Utah, is serving young women and at the same time giving a Christian witness in the community.

Alma Mathews House, New York City. During the year it was possible to purchase a building adjacent to the Alma Mathews House, thereby almost doubling the capacity. Thus the income from the residents will more nearly cover the expense.

Business Girls' Inn, Shreveport, Louisiana. Ninety young women have lived at this residence during the year, fifteen have married, and twenty-six have moved to other locations. Who can measure the influence of this Christian work?

At the Eva Comer Home, Birmingham, Alabama, a new building will replace a portion of the plant that is no longer usable. Even with inadequate facilities, eighty-eight girls were served. More than this number made application, but could not be accommodated. High standards are a challenge in this area.

Mary Elizabeth Inn, San Francisco, California. Many years ago, Mrs. Lizzie Glide, a wealthy Christian woman of San Francisco, asked a young lady who had her first job in the city what she would do if she had a great deal of money. This young woman replied that she would build a big house where working girls could have a decent place to live. In memory of her own two daughters, Mary Elizabeth Inn was built by Mrs. Glide for the Woman's Missionary Council of the former Methodist Episcopal Church, South.

Since 1914, hundreds of lives have been influenced for good by the deaconesses who have directed this work. Mrs. Ellis Shook, an active church woman, now chairman of the board, became a resident of Mary Elizabeth Inn when she arrived in San Francisco to take her first job. She says that she is sure that she would not be in church work today had it not been for the Christian atmosphere of the Inn. The influence for good is long lasting and ever widening. Young women of many national backgrounds are among the present residents.

Gum Moon Residence is located in the Chinatown of San Francisco. The young women of this residence are of Oriental backgrounds.

Recently a former resident of Gum Moon, now married, said to Miss Fae Straley, the director, "I did not think I needed vespers when I was here. Now, I know how much they could have meant to me. I want to go to church but my husband will not go with me, and I am too shy to go alone. May I go with you?" She goes to church regularly and finds comfort and strength for her life.

"The Bible class is still my greatest joy," Miss Straley reports, "you get very close to the girls when you are studying God's word, thinking seriously about your life and its problems and opportunities."

Iowa National Esther Hall, Des Moines, Iowa. By converting some space into bedrooms, this residence has a capacity of eighty-five. During the year, 175 young women lived at Esther Hall in addition to 262 transient guests. Many names appear on the waiting list—more rooms are needed.

Mrs. J. W. Hopkinson, the director, believes that group living furnishes an atmosphere in which girls can develop emotionally, intellectually, and spiritually. Growth is taking place in the lives of those who live in this lovely setting.

The board of directors has been of invaluable assistance. Mrs. Hopkinson states, "The democratic method of arriving at decisions has been very gratifying. The willing cooperation of the officers, the chairman of committees, and every member of the board has lessened the heavy responsibility of the director."

Susannah Wesley Hall, Newport News, Virginia, opened in 1943, provides comfortable and attractive living rooms and recreation near offices where young business women are employed. Happy adjustments to a better way of life have been made by young women living in the hall. Counseling, group life, and community resources benefit the residents.

Mrs. Herbert Chenoweth, director of Esther Hall in Chicago, had a prospective resident say to her, "My parents say that I cannot come to Chicago if I cannot stay at Esther Hall." Another who had been a resident for three months said, "How was I ever fortunate enough to find this place?" Every effort is made by the Rev. and Mrs. Herbert Chenoweth to surround the girls with a wholesome Christian atmosphere.

Retirement Homes

A New Home Established

A dream came nearer fulfillment when the Woman's Division voted in September, 1956, to purchase property at 29 Spears Avenue, Asheville, North Carolina, for a new home for its retired deaconesses and missionaries. The wonderful offering contributed by Woman's Societies of Christian Service across the country at the 1954 Assembly started the dream on its way. To this was added funds from the Departments of Work in Home and Foreign Fields and a number of special gifts.

The three-story residence on the five-acre site has been repaired, refurnished, and made ready for eight guests beginning in the summer of 1957. Deaconesses Dorothy Dodd and Addie Greely were hostesses during the early months.

Plans are being developed by a special committee of the Woman's Division for the building of the first new unit, which will consist of a dining area, kitchen, bedrooms, lounge, and infirmary. Later plans are for apartment units, which may be purchased by those eligible for the home. The name chosen for this home is the Brooks-Howell Home in honor of Mrs. Frank G. Brooks and the late Miss Mabel Howell.

Two New Infirmaries

Robincroft Rest Home and Thoburn Terrace are located in the adjoining communities of Pasadena and Alhambra. Each needed an infirmary. Cooperative work on the part of the boards and staffs of the two homes and the Woman's Division, and the pooling of funds made it possible for an infirmary to be built. A site on the Robincroft grounds was selected for this twenty-bed infirmary. Especially designed for the care of elderly patients, it is modern and functional. Thoburn Hall as it is named, was dedicated on June 14, 1957. It is filling a long-felt need for those in the two homes who must have medical care and attention.

Robincroft Rest Home, Pasadena, California. Miss Mabel Metzger, who completed twenty-five years of service in this home, has seen it grow from a home for eight to a home for eighty retired deaconesses and missionaries. Most of the staff members through the years have been deaconesses. Miss Metzger will be succeeded by Miss Cynthia Brooks at Robincroft when she becomes the first superintendent of the new retirement home in Asheville, North Carolina.

Those who live in this home continue to be active in church and community life as long as health permits—their lives of service do not end when they enter a retirement home.

Thoburn Terrace, Alhambra, California. To catch the spirit of this lovely retirement home for thirty-four guests, Miss Mildred Hewes, the director, states, "One has to live with it day by day to know it. One must hear the whistled hymn, the strains of music from the piano, the mingled laughter, the give and take of conversation. One must share the devotional and prayer times. One must walk by the rose garden and breathe deeply of its perfume. One must eat several meals in the delightful dining room. One must live in one of the spacious rooms. Life at Thoburn Terrace is not spectacular but it is full. The past has been rich, the present is joyous and the future will be the consummation of the two." To see an elderly woman accompanying Miss Dennis Smith—97—to church on Sunday morning and to catch the radiance of their faces is something long to be remembered.

Bancroft-Taylor Home, in Ocean Grove, New Jersey, is another retirement home for forty-six women who have served in the home and foreign mission fields through many years and are now enjoying well-earned retirement. They continue, however, to give service as they are able. Five members of this family have gone to their heavenly home during the year.

A new eleven-bed infirmary addition with treatment and auxiliary service rooms is being built. What a blessing this will be in the care of those who are ill. With approximately $4,000 from the bazaar, a project of the home, additional furnishings and needed equipment were purchased. Miss Blanche Kemp, the director, makes sure that the life at Bancroft is rich and full.

Medical Work

The hospitals related to the Woman's Division in Alaska are Maynard-MacDougall Memorial, Nome; Seward General, Seward; and Seward Sanatorium, Bartlett.

Seward General Hospital is owned by the city, but is operated by the Woman's Division of Christian Service. A new modern hospital building was erected during the year to replace the old remodeled school building that had been used since 1930.

The Seward Sanatorium and rehabilitation center has continued its fight against tuberculosis and in helping those who have been handicapped to find a richer, fuller life. The pastor of the Seward Methodist Church is chaplain of the hospital.

Maynard-MacDougall Memorial Hospital in Nome, Alaska, serves the people of the entire Seward peninsula and the islands between Alaska and Russia. It is a well-equipped hospital and fully accredited.

On the mainland are Sibley Hospital, Washington, D. C.; Brewster Hospital, Jacksonville, Florida; Bataan Memorial Methodist Hospital, Albuquerque, New Mexico; Newark Maternity Hospital and Freeman Clinic, El Paso, Texas; Methodist Hospital of Southern California, at Arcadia; and the Medical Mission Dispensary, in Boston, Massachusetts.

The Methodist Hospital of Southern California has moved from Los Angeles into its modern new plant at Arcadia. The spacious grounds and well-equipped hospital and school of nursing are now in a position to render a more effective service.

Sibley Hospital is progressing with plans for a new plant for its hospital and the Lucy Webb Hayes School of Nursing to be located on the American University Campus.

Brewster Methodist Hospital in Jacksonville, serving a large Negro population, is doing much to raise the health standards. Nurses are trained at Brewster in cooperation with the County Educational Department and the Welfare Board. A new hospital unit especially designed for chronic diseases is planned.

Bataan Memorial Methodist Hospital, Albuquerque, New Mexico, continues to maintain high standards and to improve the quality of patient care. The local board is working to procure individual gifts to add a new wing to help meet the patient demands for beds.

Week of Prayer Projects

Peek Home for Children, Polo, Illinois, will have an opportunity to improve its child care facilities with funds from the 1957 Week of Prayer and Self-Denial offering. A new building will allow a more desirable grouping of children and a more effective program. Case-work services help in upgrading the work of this home.

A new day-care center and residence hall in Cincinnati, Ohio. Problems and inconveniences can be a blessing and an opportunity for improvement. In the city-planning program of Cincinnati, new and better housing will replace blighted areas. A new freeway makes it necessary for Friendship Home and Mothers' Memorial Center, with its day-care program, to find new locations. With funds from the 1957 Week of Prayer and Self-Denial, a new center will be built plus a residence hall designed to house more young women than can be accommodated in the present Friendship Home and Esther Hall. An International House type program is planned. With the increased capacity, the cost of operation will be covered by the fees from the residence, thus releasing present appropriations for mission projects that are not self-supporting.

Methodist women have an opportunity and an obligation to give leadership and inspiration in the field of health and social welfare.

EMMA BURRIS

Town and Country Work

CORNELIA RUSSELL
Executive Secretary,
Town and Country Work

IN TOWN and Country Work paths of service are individuals labor in more than a hundred projects. And no two paths (or projects) are just alike. The worker treads many well-worn paths as she seeks to inspire youth, teach children, and challenge adults to accept responsibility, but many times she must chart a new trail as she stumbles along over blind spots, hazards, or obstacles. Some paths lead to crossroads, where youth stand in need of direction.

Analyses of their jobs by two rural church and community workers illustrate the variety of the paths; and these are typical, though details would differ. "The churches of M. Circuit are similar in that each is located in a small rural community, approximately the same distance from the county-seat town. But one community is losing population, one gaining, while one is remaining relatively stable. The membership of one is primarily young adults and youth; one is made up of older adults and a few youth, with no young couples; another has a large number of children but few adults who will accept leadership.

"In the church with young adult leadership the program is most effective. The church whose leadership is mainly older adults is reluctant to accept change. The one with a large crop of children recently organized a church school, presenting a definite need for leaders. Some have responded, but many of the church members have a deeply ingrained feeling of inferiority. Only time and constant leadership development will eliminate this. Education is needed concerning church finances, the importance of good music, and the church's responsibility in the support of world missions. During the past year the people, the pastor, and the rural worker have become increasingly aware of what they can accomplish as they work together."

Another U.S.-2 is more specific: "In any of our four communities it might be difficult for a visitor to distinguish the rural worker from the rest of a group. At the Woman's Society or perhaps at a Youth Fellowship, she would be sitting, probably, in the audience listening to Mrs. Jones or Susie present the program. At other times, she may play games with a group of children, lead singing, bandage a bruised knee, teach a church-school class for an absent teacher, help fill out report blanks, check to make sure Betty has a way to camp, visit a bereaved father, encourage Billy to join in the fellowship of the MYF, help Frank prepare a program, or operate the film projector. She may even be consulting with the school principal about the provision of free lunches for some needy children. She is not doing things for people, but helping them to do the job themselves. She believes the most significant accomplishments can be summed up in the change of attitude from 'I can't do that' to 'Why, that wasn't hard at all! I'll do better next time.'"

Quotations from other workers illustrate the variety of opportunities enjoyed by the Town and Country worker: "Two unusual but thrilling activities were speaking at the county high school to the Tri-Hi-Y Club on rural work in the county and to five different physical education classes on personality development from a spiritual angle."

When young people who should be thinking about college are not being encouraged in that direction the rural worker may step in. One worker took six youth in her car to a nearby Methodist college where they were given the promised red-carpet reception. They were introduced to students and teachers, given a good meal in the dining room, and taken on a tour of the campus. Interviews with the dean and personnel director followed, with the result that all were impressed and enthusiastic and some are making definite plans to go to college.

A worker in a less privileged section of the country quotes a teen-ager who since coming to the community center is questioning "things as they are": "In other places boys and girls don't live together without being married. Why doesn't somebody do something about it here?"

"There are numerous opportunities here," writes a worker in the Southwest, "but the opportunities are not without problems. In every direction there is need of one kind or another. And the people are so lovable. Abject poverty and unbelievable illiteracy are found in a few homes, though there are many high-school and some college graduates in the area. A deep hunger seems to be in the hearts of at least some of the people which hasn't been satisfied by the churches, and one feels awed by the task of trying to do something about all the needs one sees."

Ten small, struggling churches with a weak program and a weaker witness for Christ have undertaken a new venture in cooperation by forming a group ministry. The chance to cooperate with nearby churches and still maintain full independence in running their own church affairs appeals to the rugged individualism that is common among these people in the Northeast.

"It has been interesting," writes the deaconess. "to watch the growing fellowship among the members of the group ministry council and to see that they have really become friends and fellow workers. This is an area of economic depression, with declining population, fewer services, and fewer good jobs available. The churches have been going downhill for years, with less lay leadership developed and less professional leadership available. Through the establishment of the group ministry some fine ministerial leadership has been attracted and more funds have been invested in the churches by the conference board of missions.

"The people have been stimulated as they have learned that voluntary cooperation can strengthen the individual churches and give them an opportunity to practice Christian sharing of leadership and resources. Leadership training schools, workshops with church-school teachers, the use of better literature, and the discovery of new teachers and leaders show some results of the first year. During the summer an extensive vacation church-school program was carried out for the first time in several years, using many of the people who took part in training sessions."

Several workers report new or reactivated Woman's Societies, with resulting increases in pledges, some being doubled. One small Society of Indian women increased its pledge from $5 to $25.

The Methodist Youth Fellowship receives a great deal of attention from Town and Country workers. Many workers are instrumental in the organization and training of district and subdistrict groups. The realization is dawning that, as one worker put it, religion is "not just for grandparents." A young man, now serving in the Air Force, became greatly interested during his last two months at home in the newly formed MYF. Every Sunday evening he went about the community in his car picking up young people for the meeting, which meant so much to him that he was willing to forego his baccalaureate service for it. It had helped him find God and his place in the church as he worshiped, studied, and had fun with other youth. The deaconess is sure his experience with the MYF will help him both in the service of his country and the service he will render for his Lord and Master.

Kindergartens, vacation church schools, and study classes are features of our work in rural areas as well as in community centers. A teen-ager working with a kindergarten group in vacation church school was excited when the rural worker invited her to her home to plan together for the class. Later, however, something else claimed her attention and she was reluctant to give the time. When the worker showed her how to develop a lesson and to plan activities for the children, she was thrilled and surprised. "We never planned like this before," she said. "We always just played with them." As an outgrowth of planning one worker took a group to the nearest city to purchase supplies. When for the first time they visited a Cokesbury Bookstore they became enthusiastic about the materials available and began using Methodist literature.

One tiny vacation church school had only eight children, but the deaconess felt that her contacts that week were among the most worth while of the summer. "Forces in the community are working against the church," she writes. "Even if they should eventually tear up the organization, these children have had a taste of a better way of life. I felt that we had some periods of real worship."

Study Classes

"Study classes can open eyes and change attitudes and can make learning a pleasant experience," writes a U.S.-2. "A woman in one group said she enjoyed these courses so much she wished she could go to one all the time. And these are women so wrapped up in their homemaking and farm work they barely read a paper."

Another group of hard-working women who had never read much formed a prayer group and a reading circle after completing their third study for the year. Members of this Society also decided they would have their own Woman's Society library in the church.

Civic and school as well as church leaders participated in the study on "Youth in a Responsible Society." In one county the school authorities asked to keep the written statements in which pupils had given their own ideas of their needs. The young people on the panel in the final session kept the two adults on their toes and on the defensive, but both age groups profited. The point was stressed that if families spent more time together much misunderstanding and impatience would be resolved. Participation was so enthusiastic that "we never could close in the hour and a half set."

Workshops for those who teach children in the church school proved to be a new approach in one area. At the close of one on ways of teaching the Easter story to various ages the remark was made, "Let's do this again. It's good to find out other people have problems, too, and what they do about them."

The three local women who were asked to lead discussions for the vacation church-school workshop were reluctant. "If this were just my own little church," said one, "I wouldn't mind, but for all the churches—I don't know." Finally all agreed to do it. After it was over one commented, "Well, it's like swimming—once you get started it isn't so bad!" Another said, "You know, I had a good time. I'll be ready to help the next time you do something like this."

"As a result of our study in churchmanship we took a look at our church buildings," writes a rural worker in a mining area. "By means of 'work bees' three have been painted and otherwise improved. One church was given two coats of white paint; and then a maroon drape and an altar covering were added, making a lovely sanctuary where mouse holes and dirt had been anything but worshipful."

"Interest in appearance did not stop with beautifying the church. One Saturday eleven Girl Scouts started at one end of town with rakes and pronged sticks and went clear through, picking up all trash. When a day or two later they saw someone throw out some paper they were indignant. While one of the churches was being cleaned a woman said jokingly it was too bad to wash all those dishes and never use them. (The members did not believe social affairs should be held in the church.) I said, 'Why not use them for a family supper?' Beginning with New Year's Eve, therefore, they have had monthly get-togethers at the church, with supper, games, and singing."

Clean-Up Campaigns

One of the community centers has gone a step further in clean-up. Gradually in this small mining town a community spirit is developing. After much "sowing of seed" by the workers a Civic Improvement Association was formed. It began with the most apparent need—garbage collection. The health officer was invited to a meeting and the association appointed a committee to get the signatures of those who would support garbage collection at $1.50 per month. A large percentage of the people signed. Boy Scouts began to clean the hillside where tin cans and debris had been thrown. Girl Scouts and 4-H'ers stenciled "Help Keep Our Town Clean" on trash barrels. Now the association is beginning to cooperate with the sheriff in breaking up the gambling parties prevalent on payday, and a committee has been formed to start a "moral clean-up."

People in foreign-speaking communities are apt to be skeptical about public-health inoculations. Through community center programs many parents, whose children would otherwise have gone unprotected have become educated to the point where hundreds of Salk vaccine shots, for example, have been administered.

Economic problems are factors in the work both in rural areas and in communities where we have centers. Country lanes have become commuters' highways as rural people go to and from newly established factories when income from farms is inadequate because of poor crops or lack of market facilities. While these employment opportunities have advantages, one of them being the added income which makes it possible for families to have more of the necessities and a few of the luxuries of life, there are disadvantages also. Many workers report that women compose the largest part of the labor force, which often means children are left alone. Family life tends to disintegrate and for the lack of leadership church and community groups become less effective. Many youth, too, who are unable to find employment in the home town after high school follow the path to the city. Not only is leadership in the local church drained off, but often the youth, not prepared for city life, become confused and lose touch with the church.

In various ways Town and Country workers give economic help, either directly or indirectly. Used clothing sales are a part of the regular program in many community centers and in communities of Indian Americans. Crafts are taught, sometimes with markets provided for the products. And often the worker is instrumental in putting people in touch with agencies that can help them in a variety of ways.

Rural Development Program

It seems incredible that there are a million and a half farms in the United States today with total sales under $2,500 a year, or a net income under $1,000. And this does not include a million "residence" and noncommercial farms. The government-sponsored Rural Development Program, started in 1955, is a broad-scale community improvement project encouraging local leadership in low-income farming areas and other depressed communities through the organization of county rural development committees. Spectacular results are already reported, and the movement is spreading. We have workers in at least six of the areas which are receiving concentrated attention as "pilot" counties or areas. One of these workers writes: "This has been a good year to be working in W. County, for we have begun to see some of the changes made through the Rural Development Program. Before it began the ministerial association was enlarged to include all the ministers of the county. This has helped lay the foundation for greater cooperation. The association sponsored pre-Easter revival meetings and Holy Week services in a theater at noontime, climaxed by a county-wide Easter sunrise service. The Lord's Acre program has been initiated in several of the churches and it is hoped eventually a county-wide Harvest Festival will develop.

"Leaders in the Rural Development Program have been encouraging new industries to come to this area so that at least some of our young people will not have to go elsewhere to work. An electronics plant has been in operation for two years, and women are employed in a garment factory. Ministers say that already the effects of the extra cash income can be noted in the support given their churches.

"Evidence of the effectiveness of the program is seen in provision for wholesome recreation for young people, new church signs, and the beautification of roadsides, but perhaps one of the most significant developments has been in the area of race relations. Three Negro ministers have become active in the ministerial association and are helping build the fine spirit that prevails. At a union service one of the Negro ministers preached, and the music was furnished by a mixed choir. Negro children play on the community playground and adult softball teams play each other. I have helped organize a Home Demonstration Club in one of the communities, where it is the only organization other than the churches. I am called on more and more to participate in community affairs."

Similar but more acute economic and social problems arise among the Indian Americans who because of the Government Relocation Program or through individual initiative are leaving their old homes to find work in towns and cities. A conflict, for instance, arises in the mind of a young mother reared in a home of Indian ceremony and habit patterns when she accepts the customs of the larger community. Her conscience tells her that she is being untrue to the teaching of her childhood days. Here Christian friendliness and love can become a stabilizing influence.

The Welfare Workshop arranged by representatives of the Council of Churches was probably the first of its kind. A group of Indian women toured the government agencies which have special concern for the Indian people. Over an hour was spent in each one, learning about the many services available and how to proceed in obtaining them. The women were able to discuss with the officials any case in which they had not been granted these services. They agreed enthusiastically that the tour had been most helpful and planned to visit other agencies.

A deaconess serving on an Indian reservation reports the organization of a Homemakers' Club. "Programs have dealt with such subjects as the care of new fabrics, pressing, soaps and detergents, cutting meat, and hooked-rug making. The members are collecting wild rice and game recipes for inclusion in a mimeographed book. I have been asked to serve as chaplain of the group. A 4-H Club also has been organized, with the help of the county farm agent. Through the Homemakers' Club we have a few adults to serve as project leaders. Both these groups have brought me in contact with folk I might not otherwise have met."

Providing classroom facilities for a small group of mentally retarded children is a new service of one of the community centers, in cooperation with the state association. With specially trained teachers, the class meets three times a week. The children, formerly isolated, are learning to play and get along with others, and the parents, who have become aware that they are not alone in facing their difficult problems, welcome the free time, though there are always some who attend class, helping and observing.

Others also tell of progress in interracial relations. A deaconess serving in the "deep South" has been cited by the County Cooperative Parish for her effectiveness in "extending the spiritual horizons of the entire parish" and for working "without showing discrimination as to race, class, or creed, in churches, schools, and Scouting." She spoke at a quarterly Youth Rally of the Christian Methodist Episcopal Church, challenging the group to heed the call into full-time Christian service. During national Girl Scout Week the Girl Scouts of the Negro school gave a banquet for all community leaders.

A Negro worker who recently was added to the Anglo and Latin American staff of a community center has been well accepted by the clubs of young people that come to the center for recreational activities. At another community center it was an integrated group of twenty-five people who came together to discuss civic betterment and formed the Civic Improvement Association previously described.

One hundred Mexican men, women, and children picked strawberries in an area where many of the local people had never seen a person with a skin darker than theirs. Some were actually afraid. The worker believes it will be possible next year to prepare the people for the coming of these laborers, as well as to plan a program to minister to them.

The most outstanding accomplishment of the year at a rural center serving a minority group in an isolated community was the completion of a hall for movies, entertainment, and games. "Not only did the youth and others donate labor, but they succeeded in raising most of the money for the materials used. This hall and the 'lighted field' which the youth worked for years to make a reality for evening sports, have become a real community center. Although many are leaving this area, the girls to find jobs in the city and the boys to join the Service, those who remain seem restless and more than ever in need of what we can offer socially, educationally, and religiously. With the prospect of more and more youth moving out to face the prejudice of the world it seems imperative to build a better background—and quickly."

"Five-year-old Jimmy is my next-door neighbor," one worker concludes her report. "Sometimes, but rarely, his grandfather takes him to Sunday school. During one of his visits Jimmy saw a small print of Sallman's 'Head of Christ' on my table. Longingly he said, 'I wish I had a picture of Jesus at my house.' His wish was granted. Next day he returned.

"Do you know what?" he said, 'My mother put my picture of Jesus in the frame with a picture of an old boat.' On my next trip to town I got a frame for Jimmy's picture. A few days later he announced: 'You know what? Jesus is in the middle of our living room now, on the TV!'

"After Jimmy left I thought, what a glorious opportunity—to help place Christ in the center of hearts and homes! Such is the opportunity of a rural church and community worker."

Yes, Town and Country workers have opportunities many times, in numerous ways, to help place Christ in the center of hearts and homes as they follow the paths of service open to them. And the rural church and community worker, who is an ex-officio member of the Town and Country Commission of the annual conference, has the added responsibility of interpreting her work to the total church, as well as alerting the church to the over-all needs of the rural and small town areas.

"WHAT I like is the friendly welcome. It just makes my heart full to know that I am wanted," says a senior citizen. A high-school boy expresses it, "Bethlehem Center is like a second home to me and my family. Everyone seems interested in our progress. I feel I am welcome."

Any agency that generates "a friendly welcome" and a feeling of "being wanted" is indeed expressing Christian love in a practical way. Home mission social work today is done "with people" as against "for people" in the past. Christ called fishermen and other common folk to be with him as his disciples. Therefore community centers and settlements can also draw on that creative power as neighbors, board, and staff work together for the betterment of neighborhood life.

What is a community center or settlement house? An agency, with a program planned and carried forward by a dedicated staff and board to meet neighborhood needs, serving all people—men, women, youth, and children. Broadly speaking the program has two aspects: (1) recreation and informal education expressed in clubs, classes, and interest groups, often termed "the group work program"; and (2) social action which sparks a concern for improving the neighborhood and community.¹ The latter may vary from securing better garbage disposal to working for a playground, clinic, or other physical improvement which is the concern of all families.

The main focus is on people—all people of all religions, all colors, all classes. Those who walk through a settlement-house door are often not ready to enter a church door. But dedicated workers are always alert and able to give spiritual guidance, referring the individual to the church of his choice for there is no competition or duplication in settlement and church programs. Settlements are an arm of the church.²

In the Line of Duty

New dishes on the playhouse tea table inspired a group of kindergarten children on the Mexican border to act out a wedding reception. Were not lovely dishes worthy of such use? Nice equipment encourages children to play together in friendly ways. Would broken, bent, or faded dishes have produced such imagination and child planning? Every woman who gives to Supply Work for kindergartens can chuckle over this picture.

The Mothers' Club gave the Bethlehem kindergarten in Richmond, Virginia, an easel. Gerard had drawn a doorless house many times—plenty of windows but no door! He stepped up to the new easel and painted a big house—no door! When asked why he never included a door he said, "Mama comes through the window because Daddy locks the door." The mother explained, "Oh, yeah, I forgot my key once and had to come in through the window." Since that talk Gerard has painted many houses. And they all have big doors! Because—his home environment has changed for the better.

Some incidents are funny. The Scoutmaster at Bethlehem Center, Fort Worth, Texas, found an umbrella when he inspected the campers' bedrolls. Upon asking for an explanation the reply was, "Sir, did you ever have a mother?"

² See "Spiritual Values Found in Neighborhood Houses and Community Centers," February 1956 issue, The Methodist Woman.

Bethlehem Center in Nashville, Tennessee, lists as its objectives: (1) helping people to live together harmoniously; (2) enriching the lives of individuals by providing experiences through which their interests and abilities may develop; and (3) enabling members to strive for better neighborhood and community living conditions. Translated, one senior citizen expressed it thus, "Since I joined the Golden Age Club I don't experience as many times of loneliness. There is something to look forward to each week of my life."

Statistics showed that the percentage of tuberculosis in the neighborhood of one Bethlehem Center was higher than for the city as a whole. Therefore the County Tuberculosis Association in cooperation with the center held an X-ray clinic especially for adults. Just before time to begin, a staff member rode through the neighborhood broadcasting, "Come just as you are in your work clothes." Almost four hundred came!

Groups meeting in a community center often become interested and concerned about needs in other parts of the world. One such club at Open Door Community House in Columbus, Georgia, gives regularly to a doctor in India who once did summer work at the center. Their Christmas offering was used to purchase Braille Bibles for Korea. Other reports indicate children's groups have given to UNICEF.

Two thousand years ago the Master said, "I am come that they might have life and that they might have it more abundantly." These words personify the settlement movement. It came into being to help people understand and work for an abundant life that would mean good health, satisfying work and play, decent clothing and housing, happy family life, and personalities growing in favor with God and man.

Hard-to-Reach Youth

One of our common nationwide concerns is the teen-ager who is termed "hard-to-reach" by church and social workers: a challenge gladly accepted by settlement houses. In Columbia, South Carolina, our Bethlehem Center helped organize a Youth Guidance Council as a result of the concern of neighborhood youth leaders because of lack of wholesome recreational facilities for Negro youth. An effort is being made to extend services in the public parks and to make the Y.M.C.A. available. The need for a survey of recreational facilities and the type of places frequented by Negro young people is indicated. A committee is working with colleges in the area to interest professors and students in helping make this survey.

Wesley Community House in Key West, Florida, provides facilities twice a week for a youth center which was created for teen-agers. It is sponsored and supported by the Community Chest. Six counselors help provide activities that will aid in the growing-up process. The program is guided by a board of directors, which meets at Wesley House and on which one of the staff members serves.

Lee Calhoun, 1956 Olympic winner, returned to Campbell Friendship House in Gary, Indiana, to tell basketball league players about his experiences. He advised the boys to take full advantage of new opportunities which did not exist when he attended Friendship House. The thrill came after the meeting in watching more than three hundred folks, young and old, crowd into the lounge to talk to Lee and in seeing the pride on his mother's face.

Another agency tells of being encouraged by a worker from Children's Court who attended a recent staff meeting. He stated that a lower rate of juvenile delinquency in the neighborhood had been noted especially since 1950 when the agency enlarged its facilities, staff, and program.

Most teen-agers coming to Homer Toberman Settlement House in San Pedro, California, are Mexican Americans and Negroes from low-income families. They are caught between the conflicting standards and mores of Anglo culture and that with which their families are identified. They are also extensively susceptible to pressures from their own peer group. Delinquency is common. Theft runs the range from shoplifting to car stealing; vandalism, from carving names to burning furniture; violence, from gang fights to assault with a deadly weapon.

These youngsters' needs are not always easy to satisfy. To find just one adult who cares, who forgives, who understands, who is loyal—this may well be the turning point in a life. They need to find controls within themselves. They must learn to find relaxation and fun in wholesome activities. To meet these needs Toberman uses one full-time and three part-time people who run a variety of clubs, trips, projects, and special events.

Cruising in a staff member's car provides an ideal atmosphere for confiding fears, guilt, and worries. "I've been kicked out of school. What'll I do?" "Do you think the cops know about what happened?" It may become necessary to accompany them to the police station, to juvenile court, and even to visit them in jail. Then parents who are moaning, "Why did he do this? We always gave him everything," must be comforted.

Say these staff members, "We will absorb and even overlook things to help a youngster with a major problem. We cannot afford to be shocked. We cannot lecture or preach. We can only live as we want them to live and love them."

The year's forward steps in teen-age programs at Toberman might be listed as: (1) more youth being contacted in fifty per cent more clubs than before; (2) cooperation with the Los Angeles County Probation Department making contact with a growing number of Negro youth; and (3) increasing use of highly skilled volunteers with even difficult groups. But these achievements are secondary to the things happening in individual lives: a gang taken off the streets and formed into a club; the hoodlum who helps a sick leader down the steps; the fifteen-year-old marijuana "pusher" who compliments a leader on his new shoes. If the church of Christ is to touch lives such as these, it must be done by many, many agencies such as this one.

Improvements Community-Wise

A true community center is a social welfare agency working with all members of the family in their own neighborhood to improve neighborhood environment as well as individual and family life. This definition comes from Linnton Community Center in Portland, Oregon.

Garbage thrown in streets, unsightly vacant lots, and disorderly conduct soon help a neighborhood to deteriorate. Parents mutter and complain. Gangs start roaming the streets. Nothing good happens. "You'd think somebody would do something," a citizen growls. Should this continue the area will become a depressed area or so-called slum. What should the community center's role be? Can it help? Indeed, yes. The center can be the focal point for leadership in the neighborhood, bringing people together to think and plan what they "would like our street to be."

An agency staff member can help them carry through their plans. Witness the Clean-up Campaign conducted with the help of a large number of citizens over the past four years under the leadership of Bethlehem Center in Augusta, Georgia. McCall's magazine has already given them an Award of Achievement for progress made. About sixty people worked as leaders; about one thousand participated in the opening parade led by the mayor. Boys' groups cleaned yards for elderly and ill people. Others cooperated by planting flowers. Some repaired fences to protect the flowers. City housing officials also cooperated. But the most important campaign results cannot be seen with the eye: pride in one's community; cooperation with others to get a job done; and sharing with one's neighbors.

Sim's Alley, four blocks away from Bethlehem Center in Spartanburg, South Carolina, was surveyed by their Committee on Community Improvement and Social Action. They reported the bad housing to the city's Committee on Urban Renewal. A reporter prepared a feature story with pictures. Several of the center's board members attended City Council meetings where the issue of urban renewal was being decided. The result was passage of a bill, after great opposition from some landlords, that calls for greatly improved housing conditions, though it does not go far enough yet. A number of houses on Sim's Alley, unfit for habitation, have been torn down. The City Park and Recreation Board is exploring the possibility of putting in a park or playground. An unsightly junkyard has been moved. The center's committee has taken other problems to the city manager who promises to investigate: the need for street lights and garbage collection in Negro areas.

Urban Renewal Plans

Urban renewal plans are geared to prevent slums and remove causes of blight and decay in our American cities. Some two to three hundred projects have been approved for erection now by the Federal government. Many are in earlier planning stages. The basic idea is to reclaim or redeem certain sections before they become depressed or slum areas and to provide for demolishing of buildings, when necessary.

This physical planning is good, but too often the human element is overlooked. Too much planning has been done for and not with people. Yet a government official says, "Rehabilitation and housing need citizen participation to be successful." Moral values and human welfare are at stake. Experience has demonstrated that leading citizens plus settlement workers can find ways to bring social planning to bear upon such changes. But all must work cooperatively and constructively with city planners, landlords, and urban renewal officers.

While urban renewal is the new tool for ultimate betterment of the community, we must not lose sight of immediate hardships. Where can families relocate? Some are termed "lost families" because they move into one- or two-room flats already occupied so that ten or twelve may live in one room. Others resist leaving old dilapidated buildings which represent the familiar corner grocery or candy store. They may be hostile. Some do not know how to live properly in modern apartments. Here again the settlement can help families to understand and feel "at home" in new neighborhoods.

This is a pioneer Home Mission task which must be done within the next five to ten years or our cities will be lost to the cause of Christ. The following examples illustrate the problems, questions, and changes facing many of our projects today.

Newberry Avenue Center, Chicago: Plans for relocating the center and initiating a program for neighborhood redevelopment are major concerns at present. Consideration is being given in these plans to the need for continuing service in the deteriorated half of the neighborhood as well as expanded services for unreached families in nearby housing units.

Methodist Mission, Harrisburg: The Redevelopment Authority schedule calls for demolition of part of this area in November, 1957, the whole slum clearance program to be completed in four years. The neighborhood is changing rapidly.

Fall program plans are tentative. There has been an increase in discipline problems involving destruction of equipment, lack of respect for others' property, and disappearance of money and other articles. Adjustment of new families to the city is difficult.

Calvin's family came from a small rural community. He had been severely burned in an accident. His arm and hand are wrinkled and disfigured. He walks with a limp. He came to club a few times but could not relate himself to the group. He seemed restless and sad, as though he carried a burden too heavy for one so small. "Can we bring him laughter through our program?"

Wesley Community House, San Antonio: As the result of a neighborhood survey, greater stress has been placed on working with the entire family. English, citizenship, and literacy classes, a girls' gym group, and a Y-teen club were added to the program which also includes general, pediatric, and dental clinics. This center is affected by new highway, redevelopment, and urban renewal plans, with a move to another location projected. A special committee is keeping in close touch with city planners and other officials, while the daily program continues apace.

Wesley Community House, Atlanta: The neighborhood around this center changes daily. Out of conferences with city planning and settlement house leaders a philosophy for guidance and tentative plans for beginning work with new neighbors as well as extension work in adjacent neighborhoods have developed. New frontiers of service and spiritual experience lie ahead. The challenge of the future must be faced with faith as we "press forward toward the mark of the high calling of God in Christ Jesus."

The changes that cities are facing today and will continue to face during the next ten years are almost beyond imagination. Dallas, Kansas City, Omaha, Harrisburg, in fact any large city, can give innumerable examples of the impact of increased population, rezoning, intensified industrialization, highway planning, housing projects, urban renewal and redevelopment plans.

New Buildings and Improvements

To meet the needs of the immediate neighborhood a new Day Care Center, adjoining the Methodist Community House in Grand Rapids, Michigan, was built and dedicated during the winter of 1956. The work here is interracial.

Work with many more of the boys in the community is beginning to take shape because of the new gymnasium at Rebecca Williams Community House, Warren, Ohio, which was dedicated in June, 1957. The old building has also been completely remodeled.

The new Wesley House in Memphis, Tennessee, "is just like a castle," according to one small boy, and a very fitting way indeed to celebrate the fiftieth anniversary of the beginning of this work.

Last spring Bidwell-Riverside Community Center, located in an interracial neighborhood in Des Moines, Iowa, dedicated an addition to the old building which had also been remodeled.

On a somewhat smaller scale remodeling, renovations, and repairs were done at a number of centers: Bethlehem Center, Fort Worth, Texas, enlarged the recreation room and added some clubrooms; Bethlehem Center, Jackson, Mississippi, made extensive renovations because a city ordinance would not permit an addition; Wesley Community House, St. Joseph, Missouri, enlarged its building for recreational and group meeting purposes; Wesley Community House, Phoenix, Arizona, added a carport, workshop, and enlarged playground space; and Wolf Settlement, Tampa, Florida, remodeled its program area.

A new recreation building was erected at the camp run by St. Mark's Community Center outside of New Orleans, Louisiana.

Changes in Work

By request of the conference Woman's Society support of the Helping Hand Mission in Sioux City, Iowa, has ceased.

It was decided to terminate the work at Beaufort, South Carolina, and Have-lock, North Carolina, among servicemen's families. The character of the program has changed so that it can be carried on locally.

Speaking From the Heart

Eleven-year-old Mary tells what Bethlehem Center means to her, "You seem to understand us and really like us. You don't laugh at me or make fun of me like they do at home. And when you tell us something, we know we can depend on you. You don't go back on your word!"

A teacher of Navajo Indians writes, "My two years at Bethlehem Center brought me face to face with the physical and spiritual needs of my people and most minority people. It prepared me for service to another minority group—the American Indians."

A Chicago attorney says, "The eight years I spent at Bethlehem Center were just about the happiest years of my life."

Quite often mothers make statements such as this, "I learned all I know about cooking and sewing and many life attitudes at Wesley House when I was a girl. I'm so glad my children can come now."

"You know, I might have been a convict and wound up in Sing Sing like some of my friends. There was only one thing that saved me—the settlement house on my block. I was kind of dragged in by the neck and put into a play against my will. That gave me my chance and kept me on the right road," writes a Broadway actor.

Whether the Christian witness of our community centers and settlements is weak or strong depends on three factors: staff, board, and budget.

The Staff

To those involved in the areas of human behavior and of community development, there is no doubt that the community served by Marcy Center in Chicago is a most challenging one. But if Marcy is to successfully meet this challenge, it must maintain a staff that can do the job. The key to any effective settlement program involves a dedicated, trained, experienced, and stable staff that will remain with the agency not just one or two but three or four or even seven years.

The Board

Each year the board members of a community center arrive at decisions which affect the lives of hundreds of men, women, and children taking part in the program. Their role is to determine and provide the conditions under which "we may render effective and high quality service." Therefore the board's function in relationship to staff calls for working together as a team. There should be equal dedication. For only by "planning and working together can we fully realize the significance of this work in the enhancement of God's kingdom." And there should be the same amount of orientation and in-service training.

The Budget

Intensified work needs to be done by all agencies and communities with groups of teen-agers who are rebelling against society and with families needing counseling. This demands a much larger budget than we now have. The lack of increased giving among our Methodist women in meeting this challenge is serious.

There are too many community centers with well-qualified directors but insufficient staff. "If we are to meet the needs of Negro youth in this neighborhood where there are no recreational facilities open to them, we absolutely must have a boys' worker." Another director, who has served many years in a large city, says, "Unless we can have some financial help and a staff, I have no heart to go on." Appropriations are not large enough to allocate additional funds to meet these needs.

And there are constant emergencies and nonrecurring items of building repairs and improvements to be met. One center reports termites which will mean a heavy expenditure for renovations. Recent storms in the Mid-West caused heavy damage to the roof of a large modern building. There are requests for new kindergartens in Latin American neighborhoods all over the country. Because of increasing population, centers operating in small buildings are clamoring for and even demanding additions for recreational purposes for teen-agers, family nights, and community affairs.

All these factors add up to a country-wide challenge to us as Christian women concerned in Home Mission work. The answer depends upon each individual woman as she makes her pledge as to whether the Woman's Division follows Christ's command to bring love, fellowship, and understanding to those in need of it. Dare we stop now? The world is moving on. To fail to go forward would be a catastrophe—even sinful.

Can we ignore a challenge like this one? "It is a great, big, wonderful world, full of opportunities for all people. We rejoice that Campbell Friendship House is able to help folks realize more fully their potentialities in making this a better world for all of us."

Africa and Europe

Europe

Visit to Europe

RUTH LAWRENCE
Executive Secretary,

IT WAS a great privilege for me to spend two months in Europe and North Africa seeing something of the work of The Methodist Church in ten of the European countries and getting acquainted with members of the conference boards of missions, as well as with leaders of the Woman's Societies of Christian Service. I attended the European Methodist Conference in Stockholm to which delegates and visitors came from fourteen European countries including England and Ireland. This Conference is a unit of the World Methodist Council and this was the first meeting since August, 1939, in Copenhagen, Denmark. Among the delegates were officers of the conference Woman's Societies of Christian Service from Austria, Denmark, Finland, Germany, Norway, Sweden, and Switzerland. At one of the sessions Mrs. Ferdinand Mayr from Vienna, Austria, expressed appreciation for the assistance Sweden had given in helping to care for the refugees in Austria. Mrs. Walborg Sandberg of Norway led the morning devotions on the second day and Mrs. Ernst Scholz, president of the World Federation of Methodist Women, spoke one evening. It was my privilege to extend the greetings from Methodist women in the United States at the first public meeting.

This conference was preceded by a short Conference on Missions at which problems regarding recruitment, training, and administration of missionaries were discussed. For many years the Board of Missions in the United States has been cooperating with the European Boards of Missions in sending European missionaries to different fields. It was most fortunate that Rev. C. Melvin Blake, the new executive secretary for Europe and Africa of the Division of World Missions, and I could be present at the conference and join in its discussions.

One is impressed by the interest in missions evidenced by the Methodist churches in Europe. Today, for Africa alone, there are twenty-one European missionaries of the Woman's Division, six of whom are new, and nearly all will be going to the field within the next two years.

When we realize that there are only 282,100 Methodists in Europe as compared with the 9,422,893 in the United States of America, and that they are providing one-fifth of the missionary personnel of the Woman's Division for Africa alone, we realize what a great part the Methodist women in Europe are taking in the common task of making the Christian witness in Africa. While in Europe I had the pleasure of meeting with a number of Woman's Societies and getting personally acquainted with their members and officers.

Two of the high points of the trip to Europe were the visits to Poland and Yugoslavia. It was my first visit to Poland since the spring of 1949 when all the American missionaries were transferred to other fields. Already news had come of our work there through churchmen who had visited Poland recently, especially this current year, and through Polish delegates to conferences in Europe during the last months.

It is estimated that there are 15,000 Methodists in Poland today—sixty congregations, thirty-six ministers in full connection, and eighteen supply pastors. Of the work of the Woman's Division, there remain two deaconesses who are doing a splendid work in an orphanage near Warsaw making a happy home for twenty-two girls and helping to prepare them for useful living. The home has a capacity for thirty-five girls. It is hoped that we shall be able to repair the present building and provide funds which will enable them to accommodate another fifteen girls. We are sending funds to help support the deaconesses and the orphanage and are expecting to receive estimates for the cost of much needed repairs.

The English Language School, Warsaw, in which I worked for several years, is continuing with much success. During the past year 6,000 have registered for its afternoon and evening courses, though only 3,000 have attended regularly throughout the year.

Since last October there is a new spirit in Poland; the people walk, feel, think, and speak differently than they did a year ago. Although much building is being done everywhere the standard of living for most people is still low. The people of our church are glad to have contacts once more with the world-wide Methodist Church. Their greatest needs are for strong leaders and increased material resources.

It was most interesting to visit Yugoslavia and to meet the devout leaders of the Methodist Church there. In this fervently evangelistic group of several thousand members there are only three fully ordained ministers. Before the war, there had been nineteen ministers but most of them were of German origin, so it was necessary for them to leave the country. Today, much of the pastoral care is given by lay men and women who serve respectively as "helpers" and "community sisters." Several young women are taking full responsibility for congregations since no minister is available.

Since the untimely death of the superintendent, Rev. George Sebele, two years ago, a new superintendent who works among the Macedonians in the south and Mrs. Paula Mojzes, who lives in the north, a former "community sister" and secretary to the late Mr. Sebele, have had to take full charge for the work in all of Yugoslavia.

In the northern part, the present work is young but growing. Since there is not a single minister, most of the church work is done by women helpers called "community sisters." Mrs. Mojzes, aside from being the secretary for the entire mission, visits eighteen congregations, holds quarterly conferences and meetings of stewards, conducts funerals, performs marriage ceremonies, baptizes, administers the Lord's Supper, and conducts training institutes for the lay helpers.

Although the Woman's Division is not participating directly in the work in Yugoslavia, it does help finance the training institutes through its contribution to the Joint Committee on Christian Education which provides funds for this project.

North Africa

One of the most difficult areas in which The Methodist Church is working today is North Africa. It is a part of what we call the Muslim world, which is made up of those countries where Islam, the religion of the followers of the seventh century prophet Mohammed (Muhammad), is dominant. North Africa belongs to the area we term the "Middle East" stretching from the Atlantic Ocean to the eastern borders of Iran. It includes Morocco, Algeria, Tunisia, Libya, Egypt, the Sudan, Saudi Arabia, Iran, Iraq, Turkey, Cyprus, and the Bible lands of Syria, Lebanon, Jordan, and Israel.

The only part of the Middle East in which the American Methodist Church is working is Algeria and Tunisia in North Africa. Since this comparatively small area is quite distinct in race and culture from the other parts of Africa, and since most of the people of this region are Muslims and thus culturally related to the people in the Middle East, it is customary to include the study of North Africa in the interdenominational mission study course on the Middle East.

Inasmuch as the "Middle East" is the subject for study next year, 1958-1959, I am devoting a large part of this annual report to our work in Algeria and Tunisia with the hope that it may be useful as resource material for the study.

The missionary work of The Methodist Church in Algeria and Tunisia dates from 1908. Its beginnings are described in the Methodist Overseas Missions—1956 Gazeteer and Statistics as follows:

Methodist delegates to the World Sunday School Convention in Rome in May, 1907, stopped at Algiers. From that visit the conviction grew that the Methodist Episcopal Church should start work in North Africa under the guidance of Bishop Joseph Crane Hartzell. Fifty thousand dollars was subscribed and work was opened in Algeria and Tunisia in 1908.

The Methodist Mission was organized in 1909 with Rev. Edwin F. Frease as superintendent. In 1913 Bishop Hartzell organized the North African Mission Conference which included Algeria and Tunisia. In 1928 Bishop Blake organized the North Africa Provisional Annual Conference.

In 1891 Miss Emily Smith and in 1893 Miss A. Dora Welch, English women representing a small independent organization, began to work in Algeria. In 1908 they joined the Methodist Episcopal Church and transferred their work to its care. In 1909 the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society assumed the support of the two women and in 1910 appointed them as missionaries. Later other European women were added to the staff. The first missionaries from America under the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society were Miss Edith Gwendoline Narbeth, British citizen at that time, and Miss Martha E. Robinson, who arrived in Algeria in 1922.

Due to the financial crisis of the 1930's and World War II, both missionary and North African staffs were seriously cut and work programs were curtailed. The Home for Girls in Tunis was closed and activities among Muslim girls and women there ceased until 1952.

During the years that followed the war, the mission painfully and slowly, with greatly reduced personnel, endeavored to carry on as much of the former program as possible. In 1952 two missionaries of the Woman's Division were sent to Tunis to open a Christian Social Center for women and girls.

By 1954 when the movement to gain independence from French rule became pronounced in Tunisia, The Methodist Church was working in Tunis, the capital of Tunisia, and in six places in Algeria: Algiers, Constantine, Oran, Fort National, Il Maten, and Les Ouadhias. The Woman's Division was participating in the work in all of the points except Oran.

In the last five years North Africa has been the scene of rebellions and political changes. Both Morocco and Tunisia have gained their independence from France, but in Algeria the struggle of rebellious groups against the French rule and the pro-French people of the country continues without much hope of an early victory for either side.

How does this affect our work at the present time?

Tunisia

Since Tunisia was recognized as an independent nation there has been a marked tendency for social reform and freedom from narrow religious and linguistic nationalism. Already plural marriage and easy divorce have been abolished and women are to be given the right to vote. Government leaders have given the assurance that the government has accepted the principles of religious liberty laid down in the United Nations Declaration of Human Rights.

In December and January, Dr. W. A. Visser 't Hooft, general secretary of the World Council of Churches, visited the leaders of the various religious communities in Algiers and Tunis: "In Tunis, where on January 1, the new legislation took effect which abolished the special Muslim courts and the practice of polygamy, he discussed questions of religious liberty with a number of government leaders and was assured that the government accepted the principles laid down in the U.N. Declaration of Human Rights."¹

The following report from Miss Marjorie Lochhead indicates progress in the development of the program of the Christian Social Center for women and girls and children: "During the past year we have tried to make various contacts to introduce the Center to more Tunisian women and girls.

"In September we had a 'camp' at the Center for young Arab girls. Seven or eight came from Bizerte and joined the same number of girls from Tunis. It was quite a new enjoyable experience especially for the Bizerte girls who are more strictly shut in, on the whole, than those in Tunis. Our Arab pastor's wife helped with the preparation of meals as did two of the Arab Christian women—one from Tunis and one from Bizerte. We had Bible stories, hymns, games, and sewing.

"We have visited a number of homes and continued to teach a Christian Arab woman who works for us to read.

"More women and children (about fifty at the present date) avail themselves of the bathing facilities at the Center—especially those who come from two small nearby villages where there is no running water in their houses.

"Endless small things take our time and thought such as preparing daily feeding for the baby of a young mother who comes regularly to the Center and to the Arabic service on Sundays, but who has no facilities and no aptitude to care for the baby herself; putting eye drops in children's and women's eyes; cleaning small sores or cuts and putting clean bandages on them.

"The Sunday school has grown slowly; we now have about twenty children—some of whom come regularly—others more or less so.

"In the hot summer weather we have taken some children and a few mothers to the beach.

"In spite of the political situation, we are able to carry on. It is only now and then that parents or older brothers forbid the children to come. They drop off for a time and when things are calmer, they return."

Algeria

Due to the fighting in the mountainous regions, where our three rural stations are located, it was necessary to close the work completely in Il Maten and curtail it in both Fort National and Les Ouadhias. All missionaries of the Woman's Division were moved to Algiers. Two have returned to Les Ouadhias to resume the medical-evangelistic program there.

Although doors were closed at these stations, others were reopened in Algiers, where due to the shortage of workers the program of the Woman's Division had been temporarily stopped. Missionaries who were moved to Algiers have rendered valuable service in visiting the families who fled from villages near our station of Il Maten; in opening a hostel for young women; and in a social-evangelistic program for children and young girls.

The following translation of a letter from Miss Laura Chevrin, R.N., who was moved from Il Maten to Algiers describes her work among the village people who fled to the city for refuge, "During May, 1957, I spent six days in Bougie revising the Laubach literacy lessons in the Kabyle language with Mr. Sears and Mr. Young (missionaries of another denomination). We made the lessons much shorter. I have received the first proofs of the Gospel According to Saint Matthew in Kabyle from the London Bible Society.

"We have begun the language school in Arabic and I think we shall make great progress during these three weeks. Our instructor is a young Arab lady who makes us engage in much conversation.

"We have just had the regional conference (for Arab and Kabyle Christians) which replaces the former big Conference of Tizi-Ouzou. There were a number of Arabs and Kabyles and the spirit of the conference was very good. The subjects considered were timely and interesting: 'Christ and Human Suffering' and 'The Christian in Time of Trial.'

"My medical work consists of taking women to the hospital and to the doctor for consultation. Often I give injections. There are many occasions for counseling the women.

"In spite of the fighting, the attitude of the Kabyles has not changed toward the missionaries whom they know. They ask me to visit them and they listen to the reading of the Word of God with interest. The indigenous people know well those who love them and wish them well."

In Constantine both the Home for Children and the Social-Evangelistic Center for Girls and Women continue to minister to ever-increasing numbers. Muslim parents eagerly seek to place their children in our Home where they may be safe from the confusion and dangers rampant in Algeria today. Because of the political situation during the past three years it has not been possible to have our usual camps for children and young people. This year, through cooperation with the French Reform Church in Constantine, one of the missionaries took a number of our children to a camp in France.

The missionaries of the Woman's Division as well as the Division of World Missions see many evidences of a growing confidence in the Methodist Mission on the part of the Algerian population. The masses are confused and longing for peace and security. The young people are seeking some meaning and purpose in life. The doors are opened wide to all forms of social and medical work. It appears to be the moment of opportunity if we can secure more missionaries with sufficient knowledge of the language and culture. It is our hope as we offer various types of social and medical service, that we may be able to pervade these with the evangelistic spirit and win many to Christ through our witness to Him.

Africa South of the Sahara

Of special interest in the reports from the different stations in Africa south of the Sahara is the increase in the number of girls in the boarding departments of the schools. Many dormitories are filled to capacity and more girls can be received only when additional funds are available. It is a hopeful sign for the future in Africa that more and more parents wish to educate their daughters.

Progress in Education of Girls

Miss Sarah King from Southern Rhodesia writes: "We are really thankful for the new Dorcas House building and are finding use for all of it. We hope that staff can be found to start a training course for teachers of domestic science. The Protestants have no such school in this part of Rhodesia and it would meet a real need.

"For the first time the average daily attendance of girls eligible for boarding grant, from the government, is over one hundred. For many years we have had more than that number in the boarding department but many were in the lower classes and no boarding grant was paid for them. In our upper primary, teacher training, and secondary schools, where so many of the Woman's Division missionaries teach, boys outnumber girls two to one and more than that in the upper classes. For example, in our Standard VI (8th grade) only sixteen of the eighty pupils are girls although in accepting pupils from Mtoko and Nyadiri Districts, in fact from anywhere, we give preference to girls if their school records show any likelihood that they will be able to do the work. Comparing the year we had two girls in Standard III, with the present sixteen in VI, eleven in Lower Teacher Training, five or six in Secondary, more in Nurse Training, and one or two, I think, from Nyadiri in Higher Teacher Training is encouraging. But when one remembers that those first two in Standard III are now grandmothers, the progress seems pretty slow."

Developments in Educational Programs

There are two significant reports showing new developments in educational programs in Africa which must be taken into consideration as we plan for the next few years. The following report from Miss Edith Parks, Southern Rhodesia, describes the government's new plan for education and the opportunities it offers us: "A former missionary in Rhodesia, Mr. Garfield Todd, who is now Prime Minister and Cabinet member for both African affairs and African education, announced last year a bold 'Five-Year Plan for African Education.' In 1955 more than 90,000 pupils were enrolled in first grade but in the same year only 5,000 completed eighth grade. Of 8,500 teachers in 1954, 4,665 were untrained. Therefore, the purpose of the plan is to train 4,000 primary teachers by the end of 1960, to change the percentage of trained teachers from 36 per cent to 75 per cent. Also it is hoped to train 1,000 more teachers for 6th-8th grades. Further, it is hoped to develop more upper primary schools in the villages, to develop technical schools, and more high school courses.

"What does this mean to our own Methodist Mission in Southern Rhodesia?"

"This year (1957), we opened a section of Lower Teacher Training at Nyadiri which will grow year by year. At Mutambara in January, 1958, we will open another class of Lower Teacher Training. At Old Umtali there will be no new first-year classes of Lower Teacher Training but only the two second-year classes to complete the course. But a Higher Teacher Training course is beginning also. Then, too, at Old Umtali the Secondary School will have two sections each of 9th and 10th grades and will add a new 11th grade, and in 1959, will add the 12th grade to complete the Secondary Course. In Secondary, the enrollment has grown from 22 in 1950 to 124 in 1957, and 180 is expected at the peak in 1959. This year we expect to have 61 completing the course while in the past five years the school has had only 65 complete the course.

"The village schools are expanding also. In 1944, we still had only one class of 8th grade at Old Umtali. In 1955, one was added at Nyadiri; soon after, 8th grades opened at Mutambara and Nyadiri. Now we have two village schools with 8th grades and expect to open another in 1958. Also in 1958, we expect to open a 6th grade in four more schools, with the plan of adding an extra grade each year.

"All this is great expansion in education; but here, in a way uncomprehended in the United States, is an expanded opportunity of evangelism. Each student has Bible lessons three times a week, is a member of a class for church membership training, attends church, Sunday school, Methodist Youth Fellowship, and many other religious services. Teachers do personal work with students to develop Christian character. This great expansion demands more teachers. Africans are coming out in numbers to help, but it also demands more missionary teachers. 'Who will come and help us?'"

Miss Lorena Kelly of the Belgian Congo, Central Conference, presents the opportunity missionaries and pastors have in giving religious instruction in the government schools. "Within the last two years, four State schools have been opened in the city of Lodja. In all these schools our Mission is responsible for the religious instruction. The State prefers that these courses be given by missionaries. The schools are: Primary School, Teachers' Training School, Professional School, and a School for Europeans and Africans together.

"With limited personnel, it was most difficult to find someone who could take on this extra work. Finally, an African pastor was located to teach in the Primary School and the Teachers' Training School. After some changes in personnel in our station schools, the way opened for me to teach these courses in the other two schools.

"I meet two classes in the European School twice during the week and one class in the Professional School twice. In one of my classes in the European School I have three African boys, all from one family. In the other class, I have a European girl and an African boy, both lovely children. All have shown real interest and I have enjoyed teaching them.

"Thirty-eight students were enrolled in my class in the Professional School. These boys have finished at least the fifth grade as a prerequisite for entrance into the school. All are Protestants, having been educated in our schools. Until we were able to begin this work, they seemed to feel like orphans, and were very sad. The Catholic teacher was there every day for the Catholic students, but no one for the Protestants. Finally we were able to begin.

"Both these groups of students present a real challenge. As we seek to develop the indigenous church, we need good, strong lay workers. This Professional School gives us a chance to strengthen these Christian boys and to help them develop into fine Christian business men.

"It seems only normal that African children who have the best training that the colony offers would eventually be real leaders in their country. If we can hold this opportunity and get these minds and hearts well fastened upon Jesus and help them to grow in His likeness, we shall have rendered them and their country a great service.

"It is a rich experience to teach in an interracial school with children playing and working happily together. We are grateful for this wonderful thing which the Government is doing over the Congo in opening up such schools. It is a golden opportunity for our mission.

"Next year we shall have the two classes in the European School and an additional class in the Professional School. One missionary should be able to devote half-time to the religious instruction in these State Schools. It may be that as the State takes over more and more of the primary schools, our Mission should shift its emphasis to the religious development of the children as such. Certainly a new day is being ushered in; we need to study the new conditions to see just what is the strategic work which our Mission should do. One of the acute problems just now is personnel. For the sake of the children, and for the sake of the Protestant church in the Congo, we are almost compelled to carry this responsibility; but we must have someone to do it. We must not lose this opportunity."

Changes Bring Opportunities

Miss Catherine Parham of the Belgian Congo, Southern Conference, sends this interesting information about new opportunities which changing living conditions in Elisabethville offer: "During the year 1956-1957, many families of our students moved into suburban homes of their own. Four huge new cities have been built on the circumference of the old city and the people have been able to get good loans from the government to buy homes. This scattering out increased our opportunities manyfold, for, whereas the school population in our old situation has remained about the same, we now have, in addition, five other church and school centers in the city of Elisabethville. All these new places are in need of youth work and social work along with the church and school programs."

African Women Advance

The report of the Woman's Conference in the Belgian Congo, Central Conference, 1956-1957, sent by Mrs. Joseph M. Davis of the Division of World Missions shows progress. "It is encouraging to see how the work among our Atetela women in the Central Congo Conference is progressing. The spiritual and mental growth of our women is especially noticeable when they attend our annual Woman's Conference. This was the third year we have had this conference. The three days with missionary and African women working, playing, eating, and worshipping together were profitable and inspiring days.

"This year two missionary delegates and four African delegates from each district besides the African and missionary conference officers attended the conference at Katako Kombe. Next year the conference will be held at Wembo Nyama. This year we received 4,533 francs ($90.66) from the World Day of Prayer offerings. One-half of this offering was sent to Leopoldville to help with the salaries of the City Bible Women. The other one-half remained in our own conference to help with the Woman's Conference travel expenses. For next year, 1957-1958, the women voted to send one-half of their World Day of Prayer offerings to the Bible women in Leopoldville and the other half to the World Refugee Fund for Hungarians. This money will be sent through our Board of Missions.

"One-half of the monthly offerings in their societies throughout the conference for the year is being sent to Miss Helen Rosser in Pusan, Korea, to help with her work in Boys' Town. Miss Rosser appreciates this help from our African women and our women are being helped by 'giving out' some too and not just receiving all the time.

"The reports at the Woman's Conference from each district were encouraging and uplifting. The women have more poise and are taking a bigger part in discussions when we meet in committees. They are beginning to realize that the church we are trying to establish here in the Congo is an African church and that they, as African wives and mothers, have a place to fill and a task to perform in their church in this Land of Decision."

Medical Work

The following paragraphs describe the critical situation of our medical work in Mozambique: "At the Leprosarium there are more than 200 patients. Entrance is voluntary, therefore some leave whether they are ready or not to return to their homes. Some whose behavior is not acceptable are asked to leave. In the two years since Dr. Charles Stauffacher, now deceased, turned over the work, eighteen have been released as arrested cases.

"The work is directed by a committee of missionaries and African pastors. Mr. William F. Anderson is in charge of the property, buildings, gardens, and feeding. Clara Bartling is responsible for the medical care of the patients. A very faithful African nurse who has been working here fourteen years is nearing retirement and we are hoping to get another nurse to help her. A man who had some first aid experience in the mines at Johannesburg dresses sores. The young men patients are assistants.

"Due to the shortage of missionary nurses, Clara Bartling who lives at Kambini, twenty-five miles away, can spend only two days at the Leprosarium, which is not really sufficient. No doctor helps us here.

"The very fine pastor of the Maxixe circuit is the spiritual leader with a former patient as the evangelist and overseer of the camp. Another fine Christian young man is director of religious education. There is a school in Portuguese for the children, classes for learning to read and write in Tswa and classes in Bible and preparation for church membership. There are ninety full members of the church in the group and several others baptized. Most of these were not Christians when they came.

"Mrs. Max Kemling who was in charge of the clinic at Kambini is at present home on furlough and Clara Bartling is the only missionary nurse for that station. She must spend two days at the Leprosarium; a great deal of responsibility must rest on the nine African nurses.

"We are responsible for the health of nearly a thousand school children, forty families in the pastor's training school, and families of the staff and missionaries, as well as people who come from outside the mission. We have out-patients clinic, a few beds for hospitalization and a thriving maternity department; but the buildings are inadequate.

"So much of our time is spent in caring for patients that there is practically no time for the equally important health education. If it were not for Mrs. Borje Alfred Persson who keeps our books, orders supplies, and supervises the laundry and linen supply, it would be impossible to do even what we are doing. The government doctor comes for an hour each Saturday morning for consultations."

Two nurses and one doctor are preparing to serve in Mozambique as soon as government and education requirements are met.

New Buildings

During the year a number of buildings such as schools, dormitories, homes for both African and missionary staff members, and new wings to hospitals have been built while social centers, and more hospitals, schools, and residences are under construction.

On May 19, 1957, an additional building, the central unit of the Methodist Hostel for Girls, Monrovia, Liberia, was dedicated by Bishop Prince A. Taylor in the presence of President W. V. S. Tubman of Liberia and many distinguished members of the government and of the community. It was named Marion A. Gibson Hall in honor of a Liberian woman who was a granddaughter of the late James S. Payne, a former President of Liberia.

Personnel

Opportunities for advance in Africa increase each year, but we cannot take advantage of many of them because of the lack of personnel. Since June 1, 1956, twenty new missionaries have either arrived on the fields or are studying languages in Europe enroute to their stations. Thirteen of them are fully commissioned missionaries and seven are going out for a special term of three years. Three of the commissioned missionaries are from Europe. We are grateful that these have heard God's call to serve in Africa and we pray that many more may find their field of service in this great land of missionary opportunity.

National Leadership

LUCILE COLONY
Executive Secretary,
India, Pakistan, and Nepal

THE year 1956-1957 was momentous for the Methodist Church in Southern Asia. In October some 5,000 Methodists, from the two countries of the subcontinent, along with delegations from the American Methodist Church, came together for their centenary celebrations. The significance of this occasion grows as one sees it in the context of the national development. Admittedly, the Methodist Church is small when compared to the great population of the land, 600,000 among several hundred millions. It is not without strength and unity. Most important of all, the effect of the centenary has been a renewal of spiritual confidence. God has guided the church in an amazing way through a century. He will continue His work through the church.

The fine national leadership of India and Pakistan is matched by the national leadership of the church. Following the centenary celebrations, the Central Conference of the Methodist Church in Southern Asia convened in Lucknow. Among the 148 voting delegates only fourteen were foreign missionaries. This group had the responsibility of electing two bishops to succeed Bishop J. W. Pickett and Bishop C. D. Rockey, who were retiring. Dr. James K. Mathews, associate general secretary of the Division of World Missions, was elected by an overwhelming majority. Under God's guidance Dr. Mathews renounced this high honor. It was his conviction that only Indians should constitute the episcopacy of the church in India today. Clearly his decision was right. Within a democratic republic, where nationalism is normally strong, the church takes pride in knowing its leaders are Indian. Two fine men were elected bishops: Bishop Mangal Singh and Bishop Gabriel Sundaram.

Throughout the earth Christians are today recognizing, more than ever, the ecumenical nature of their faith. In India and Pakistan this has been a natural part of their Christian inheritance for they have not been involved with the differences which produced the various denominations in the West; they have been brought together in close cooperation through the National and Regional Christian Councils over a long period of years; their central allegiance has been to Christ, not to a denominational tradition.

It can scarcely be expected that the general public could understand this position of the church. Continued cooperation with Christianity in the West is looked upon as an undesirable allegiance. International relationships, being what they are, give cause for fears of Western domination through the church. Christian Indian leaders, however, maintain that a close cooperation between the Indian church and the churches in other lands is needed now as never before to demonstrate that Christianity is a universal faith. Said one, "We must forget to think in terms of national missionaries and foreign missionaries. If Christianity is to be preached in India only by Indians, non-Christians have won their point that Christianity is nationalistic. We must join hands together all the more closely. We must stand up as fellow Christians."

The Place of the Missionary

Due to pressures against the church in several sections of the country, such as aroused by the Niyogi Report produced by a commission appointed by the government of Madhya Pradesh to study the activities of missionaries, there has been vigorous thought on the part of Christian men and women as to the place of the missionary in the church today. It was a moving and humbling experience to listen to discussions on this subject in each of the annual conferences of the Methodist Church in India. The tributes paid to missionaries by their Indian co-workers and the valid reasons for the continuation of this relationship were inspiring.

By way of summary, it was pointed out that the Christian task in India has only begun. Not more than 3 per cent of the total population is Christian. It is a task too large for the limited resources of the Indian church. Inasmuch as the Indian government calls in "technical missionaries" to help during this critical period of national development, the church, in an equally critical period, should not be denied help from overseas. Just as the nation maintains its integrity and sovereignty while calling in those of its own choice, so the church should have a like privilege. Personnel from America must come as co-workers, called to do a certain job, not as persons to dominate the situation. It was reiterated that a sense of call and mission is the important matter. If God calls a person to go as a missionary, he must be obedient.

Bishop Sundaram expressed the opinion that the church as a whole strongly favors missionaries. This was shown by the vote of the last Central Conference. The church wanted to give several missionaries the highest position when they tried to elect them bishops. Ultimately it is a matter that must be left to the missionaries. Some missionaries feel that the spiritual tone of the church is so low, they should get out and let the church rise. Some feel they are not wanted. "If missionaries have a call, they will come to India. No matter what happens they will come because of obedience to this call. Unless we strengthen the church through missionary personnel, there will be a setback. If there is further reduction of missionary personnel, harm will be done to the church," concluded Bishop Sundaram.

The number of missionaries continues to decrease. In 1955 the Woman's Division had one hundred in India. At the moment there are seventy-two. Only four new ones were sent this year. It is difficult to secure visas for those who apply. This could be interpreted as meaning that the government does not encourage the admission of missionaries; or it can be interpreted as a way of putting pressure on the church to be more Indian and to develop its own leadership. Only persons with high qualifications for work for which an Indian is not available are given visas. It is perfectly evident that the number of missionaries urgently invited by Indian Christians cannot be sent at any one time. It is also clear that the cooperation of American Methodists with Indian Methodists may be best achieved through financial assistance and through avenues the Holy Spirit will open to us as we undergird the Indian church with prayer.

An exciting feature in obedience to the guidance of the Holy Spirit is the amazing variety He introduces into what otherwise might be fairly routine work and conformity to pattern. In general, Christian service falls into the three categories of medical, educational, and evangelistic work, but in actuality there is such a variety in the way these ministries are given that no two projects are alike. All that can be done here is to lift up a few projects in the hope that something of the magnitude and excellence of the work, along with the problems involved, may be realized.

The Path of Medical Service

It is common knowledge that there are two union Christian Medical Colleges in India, and yet one feels impelled to present them in a report on Christian service in India. It has been no small achievement to build, equip, and staff these schools and their hospitals. One is located in the south at Vellore, the other in the north, near the West Pakistan border. Both were medical colleges for women, with years of service to their record before a united effort, on the part of many mission bodies, was made to lift them to a higher academic rating and to make them co-educational. Maintenance funds are still insufficient, many buildings remain unbuilt for lack of funds, and there are personnel needs yet to be supplied. In spite of inadequacies the staff makes a fine ecumenical witness, coming from a number of lands and denominations.

The importance of these two medical training institutions may be more fully understood if one glances at the shortages of doctors, nurses, and health facilities in India. If one doctor is to be available for 1,500 people, 185,000 more must be trained. There are now only 70,000 doctors. Nurses are insufficient in number by 740,000 if one were available to every 500 persons. At present there are about 800. Midwives should number 100,000 if one were available for every 1,000 births. There are now about 26,000. Hospital beds number 125,000. These should be increased to 2,000,000 if one were available for every 125 persons. On the occasion of laying the cornerstone for the new hospital, opened in May, 1957, India's beloved former minister of health, the Honorable Amrit Kaur, stirred the hearts of her audience when she said, "We have seen what God has wrought in sixty years. (The period Ludhiana was a woman's college.) As in 1894, so today, the challenge to faith comes. India desperately needs you—consecrated, trained doctors and nurses."

Ludhiana doctors and students go out on the road, into the villages, to the leper colonies, and to city health centers, extending the services of the college over a wide area. The college is pioneering in public health, with a skilled specialist who is adapting modern ideas in preventive medicine to local conditions in India. The Department of Preventive Medicine is conducting a series of controlled experiments in the villages. This is today one of the most significant projects in public health being undertaken in India and has won recognition from the Government. Ludhiana ministers to more than 60,000 patients yearly.

Vellore is renowned for restorative operations and the rehabilitation of lepers, for training chest surgeons, for developing a psychiatric center, for its excellent public health projects, for roadside clinics, and a steady Christian witness in all its ministries.

The medical work in Buxar is a dramatic venture. Dr. and Mrs. Karl Langner from Germany and Miss Meriel McCall, R.N., of the Woman's Division, together with a little core of Indian boys trained as they serve, are carrying an amazing medical work. Stories of the doctor's skill and his devotion to God have traveled far. They have built up tremendous confidence in him as a doctor. Multitudes come for treatment so that he can scarcely find time to eat or sleep. Many mornings find him still in his office at 4:00 A.M., having worked throughout the night. Small wonder the Maharaja of the area has become his friend and is doing much to encourage him. Out of friendship and consideration for the welfare of his people, the Maharaja has given twenty-three acres of land, in the center of which is a small lake. This is the location for the Methodist hospital that we are pledged to build in this district.

Even though a description of the work of each project cannot be given, this report should at least include the names of all our hospitals, dispensaries, and schools of nursing education in India. They are: Clara Swain Hospital, School of Nursing, School of Laboratory Technicians, dental clinic, chest unit, School of Hospital Administration, occupational therapy training, Bareilly; Community Hospital, Landour; village medical work, Almora; Creighton-Freeman Hospital, School of Nursing, public health and extension service, Vrindaban; Fisher Memorial Hospital, Pakur; Theodori Mission dispensary, Pakur District; Madar Union Tuberculosis Sanatorium; Methodist Hospital, School of Nursing, School of Laboratory Technicians, Nadiad; Classon Memorial Hospital, Sironcha; Suvarta Hospital, Dhulia; Bowen-Bruere Hospital, Puntamba; public health work, Gujarat Conference; Methodist Hospital and School of Nursing, Bidar; Crawford Memorial Hospital and public health work, Vikarabad; Nur Manzil Psychiatric Center, Lucknow; Fales Health Center, Belgaum district; Ellen Thoburn Cowen Memorial Hospital and School of Nursing, Kolar; Chamnall Health Center, Shorapur; Sirwar Center, Raichur; Yellari Dispensary and public health work, Yellari; and Holston Hospital, Yadgiri.

The Path of Educational Service

Supported, in part, by the Woman's Division there are 169 educational institutions in India. All of these receive local support from fees and government subsidy. In addition there are several hundred village day schools supervised by our district workers. The central schools, mentioned in the first sentence, range from the primary level to arts, science, and professional colleges. All of these are vastly popular and considered by the public to be above the average in excellence. Universally the desire for an education has been intensified a hundredfold since India's independence. Now parents plead for the admission of their daughters into classrooms already filled to the limit. It is one of the hardest tasks a principal faces, to refuse admittance to these who come too late but with such confident expectation that their daughters can be given a place.

Educational policies have changed radically over the past few years. These indicate that the day of private schools is passing, though slowly. This possibility confronts Christian educators with questions such as the following: Does the responsibility of public education belong to the state? And can we dispense with the private school in the future? What is the peculiar function of Christian schools? Should religious instruction be the responsibility of the school or does it belong in the hostel, the church, and the home? How far can a Christian school accept regulations which interfere with the administration and maintenance of its specialized program? In what ways can Christian schools pioneer in the field of education today?

Dr. Gerald Harvey, a specialist in Christian education, spent half a year in India for a conference with our Christian educators about these and other problems. His wisdom and counsel have been a great asset at a critical time. Everything must be done that the decisions reached by the groups with whom he met may be put into action.

The Stanley Girls' High School, Hyderabad, claims the largest enrollment of any of our schools in Southern Asia. There are more than 1,700 students. Even so the percentage of Christians is high and the atmosphere is Christian. For two years it has achieved the almost impossible distinction of 100 per cent passes of all its seniors in the difficult government final examinations. Local newspapers gave publicity to this success and high praise to the school, the staff, and Miss Chanda Christdas, the principal. Since 1946 the property at Stanley has been almost doubled in size, through the purchase of adjoining lots; and the Woman's Division has provided funds for several new buildings, including a beautiful auditorium-classroom building and a dormitory.

Lal Bagh Higher Secondary School, Lucknow, is another thrilling institution, with excellent achievement and popular local admiration. Its home economics department, in the Junior College, has been a "show place" for the local Department of Education. Every department is excellent. One of these is a nursery school, under the supervision of one who as a Crusade Scholar studied at the National College of Education, Evanston, Illinois. In addition to supervision of the nursery school she heads an excellent training school for nursery school supervisors in a beautifully equipped and arranged new nursery school building. The kindergarten and primary school constitute another splendid department. A junior high school, senior high, and junior college complete the departments. Throughout there are five staff members and the principal, Miss Violet Stephen, who were Crusade Scholars and have master's degrees from American universities. We are justly proud of this, our oldest educational institution in India.

Located at Arrah is a primary and junior high school, the Sawtelle Memorial Girls' School, which exists primarily for children who come from village Christian families. This year there was such an influx of village girls that dozens had to be refused admission and a new primary school for them begun in Buxar. The famous School for Brides is fast becoming the highest section of an important new school. It is a new day, long worked for, when girls can be released from responsibilities in village life so they may be educated in a Christian school away from home. As one evangelist put it, "We have tried all these years to persuade the parents to permit their girls to go to school. Now that they are willing, can we say no?"

Thousands of bright young faces rise in one's thoughts when thinking of all these schools in which women are giving the most creative and devoted service. No record here can attempt to appraise the meaning of the years of fun, disciplined hours of study, learning in fellowship with girls from every type of home and religious background, which is the experience of all these girls in our schools. We know the results are good. These schools give to India a womanhood prepared for service to country and to God.

Paths of Service in District Work

Dr. Akbar Abdul Haqq, Methodism's young evangelist, challenged his Delhi co-workers with these words:

The purpose of the Church is to bring others to know God through Christ. It is the command of the Master to go and win disciples. It is important to explain to non-Christians why we are Christians. The Church as a whole is slumbering. It is doing everything except evangelism, the essence of the whole enterprise. There is an India-wide hunger for Christ in every class of people. Even in the terms of the present-day opposition there is a hidden desire for Christ. The Spirit of God has gone abroad on His own. He is anxious that Christians stand up and tell them of Christ. A great problem is that people want to accept Christ, to be baptized, but the Church doesn't know how to accept them. It has no appetite for converts! The basic need is for an India-wide revival in the Church.

This task of evangelism within the church itself is a very real concern of every evangelist. Literacy among groups who have recently joined the village church that they may learn to read the Bible and hymnal is one goal every evangelist strives to realize. She has night schools for adults, day schools, wherever possible, for children. But there are thousands still who must be classified among the illiterate.

A new school for brides was opened this year by Lois Biddle, at Bulandshahr, that young village wives who know nothing of the Christian faith nor the better standards of life may learn these essentials. After a few years' training they return to their villages transformed and prepared to keep their homes well and to serve in their communities. Essential for the development of a strong rural church is a good Christian home program. This experiment of schools for brides, being tried now in two districts, is being watched with interest. It seems to offer an excellent method that will be useful in all districts.

Another valuable experiment in district work is the village center program through which many rural problems pertaining to education, health, economics, housing, and religion are attacked in constructive ways.

Our most serious difficulty in rural work is due to the loss of personnel through the retirement of missionaries and to the fact that Indian women have hesitated to take up this kind of work. In the past it was more difficult for them to tour the villages alone in safety and without public criticism than for missionaries to do so. But today, when the door is open to women to enter every field of public service, we trust there will be many Methodist women who may be called into village service.

There are approximately 10,000 members of the Woman's Society of Christian Service in India and Pakistan. Their last national convention was held in Lucknow on the occasion of the Centenary celebrations. Mrs. S. K. Mondol, the gracious national president, and Mrs. John M. Pearson, chairman of the Department of Work in Foreign Fields, addressed the hundreds of women assembled. Mrs. J. R. Chitambar, elected in 1939 as the first all-India executive secretary of the Society, was present and challenged the women to deeper consecration.

Each of the ten conference secretaries reported their programs and achievements. In cities and villages these women join together to support mission work in Nepal, the Baby Fold in Bareilly, and to promote the work of temperance throughout India. Local goals included: providing scholarships for needy village boys or girls; the support of a village pastor or teacher; the support of a village health worker; medical aid to a needy family; daily family worship in the home of each Society member; the instructing of women for church membership; teaching illiterate members to read; organizing at least one new Society in the district each year. In one Society a speaker spoke on the meaning of the Woman's Society of Christian Service, saying that the initial letters stand for W—worship; S—study; C—cooperation; and S—service. Her summary is correct. No other organization in the church has a more helpful program designed to cooperate with the pastor in carrying on the work of the church, especially among women and children.

"What if St. Paul had not written his letters?" asked Bishop Sundaram of a Methodist seminar considering the problem of finding persons gifted in writing. It is of utmost importance to increase the production and distribution of literature for the literate members of the church. Their number is growing each year. Methodists are fortunate in owning an up-to-date publishing house, operated by Dr. W. W. Bell and a group of expert printers. New equipment, in rather large amounts, has been added during recent years.

Miss Eunice Sluyter, director of literature for the total church, together with her staff and special persons in each conference, giving time to the production of Christian literature, have done a remarkable work in stimulating the production and distribution of good literature. In addition to locating suitable manuscripts, thinking up ways to make people want to buy what is available, finding authors, and seeing materials through the long process of production, Miss Sluyter and her co-workers are responsible for a Hindi Bible Correspondence Course. Men are being won to faith in Christ in this way.

In the two-year-old Urdu Bible course begun by Bishop Sundaram in Hyderabad, a few months ago there were 3,953 correspondents with an enrollment of twenty new correspondents per day. During the two years approximately fifty Muslims had become Christians through this course. Farther south, the courses in the Tamil language, inspired by Dr. John Piet, were being studied by 61,651 persons. How great an instrument of evangelism the printed word is!

Pakistan

The church in Pakistan is unusually fortunate in the freedom with which it is able to make a witness for Christ. Unquestionably, in no other Muslim land is there the religious tolerance or an established church such as is found in West Pakistan. In this situation Christian work could be greatly enlarged and strengthened if churches in other lands saw the opportunity as it is. Small, conservative Christian bodies and the Roman Catholic Church apparently are aware of it and have been able to send in many missionaries with supporting financial aid. The major Protestant denominations are not so fortunate. For our work this is tragic.

For the time being Christian expansion in Pakistan must be done mostly by missionaries, as far as the work of the Woman's Division is concerned. Unmarried Methodist women, with the training and experience needed, are not available at present. In this connection, consider the missionary personnel shortage. In Karachi, Pakistan's largest city and the nation's capital, there are two missionaries of the Woman's Division—Earline Hart, ready for her first furlough, and Wynell Jordan, a three-year term missionary, within a few months of the completion of her work—and we are at the moment of launching a large new project!

No one is located in Multan, Khanewal, Raewind, Stuntzabad, Mian Channun, or Bhawalpur, the smaller towns between Karachi and Lahore, in which the Methodist Church has many members. Only Anna Buyers is on the field with specific assignment to a combination of public health and district evangelistic work, and her years of devoted service come to an end in 1958, when she leaves for her preretirement furlough. In Lahore, where the largest number of Christian institutions are located, we have three missionaries, Helen Ferris, Ruth Wolfe, and Wendy Sutton (newly appointed) on the faculty of the Kinnaird College for Women; two nurses, Jean Bagnall and Irene Richter (newly arrived from the German Deaconess Association) at the United Christian Hospital School of Nursing; Evelyn Weaver and Margaret Boss (on furlough) assigned to the Lucie Harrison Girls' High School. Murden Woods, new to the field, will work in the area of literature and adult literacy for the entire Indus River Conference.

Karachi

It has taken several years of almost constant effort to reach the place where a Protestant high school for girls in Karachi is something more than a hopeful dream. Plans for the school buildings are in the blueprint stage; a well-located lot will be purchased from the Anglican Church Society within a short distance of the Methodist church on Garden Road. It is fully anticipated that within the year the first high-school class will be in session. Within the radius of a mile from this site there are 700 Protestant girls of school age who are now denied the opportunity of study in a Christian school.

The Woman's Division, in cooperation with the Division of World Missions, has built a new primary school at Drigh Road, a section of the city, near the international airport where quite a large number of Methodists live. Earline Hart supervises the school and has made it the center of service to the Christian community.

In the Methodist Institute buildings, Garden Road, another school flourishes. There are five primary classes, doing first-class work in spite of crowded conditions. These two schools are necessary to the program of educating Christian children in Karachi, but they are wholly inadequate in the face of the great need of schools.

Lahore

Since partition the Lucie Harrison Girls' High School has grown tremendously. It is highly favored by the public and claims the appreciation of the State Board of Education. Classes range from the kindergarten through high school. It is one of the few schools in the land with a well-organized library and a leisure-time reading program for all the classes. A new primary classroom building is under construction since the former facilities were far too crowded and inadequate to care for several hundred children. The compound is small and it has been a major feat to locate a new building. Most of the teachers are resident, living in the teachers' home provided for them, and more than a hundred girls live in dormitories on the compound.

Kinnaird College for Women matches the Forman Christian College for men and is located nearby. Shortly before partition these two colleges were re-established on beautiful campuses in a quieter section of the city. However, with the rapid expansion of the city, they are now surrounded by new buildings and the beginnings of industrial developments. Last year Kinnaird opened a science department which is popular. Girls these days plan medical careers and are deeply interested in practical forms of education. An auditorium is under construction at the moment. It is much needed since only the library has been available for daily chapel services or for assemblies. Kinnaird is a union college, supported by both British and American Societies.

The United Christian Hospital, too, is interdenominational and international. It began, out of necessity, at the time of partition and has been located in two remodeled dormitories of the Forman Christian College. Since the college has rapidly regained its number of students, the buildings loaned to the hospital are needed by the college. The relocation of the hospital is one of the major questions being discussed both in Lahore and by the denominations concerned in this country. Large sums of money will be needed, but all are unanimous in the opinion that this Christian hospital must continue its fine witness and service. In spite of too few doctors, nurses, technicians, and other persons, the United Christian Hospital is doing a large service, treating some thirty thousand patients annually.

The School of Nursing trains thirty nurses each year. By means of a mobile van, given by American Methodist women, a public health doctor and nurses tour the villages of the Lahore district, taking medical help to many who need treatment. A school for the training of laboratory technicians has been opened out of the dire necessity of getting technicians for the work.

Stuntzabad is a unique village, whose residents are almost all Christians. There are perhaps 1,000 people living here. In comparison to other villagers, they are fairly prosperous because they own fields. Their village is in an area reclaimed from the desert through irrigation. These people have built themselves a large, beautiful church. It took ten years to complete it and even now the floors are not laid. It will seat approximately a thousand people.

In the village is a co-educational school with classes from primary through high school. There are 500 pupils but not enough classrooms for all classes. Some are held in a temporary shed or under a tree. More land can be purchased and, when funds are found, a new building will be built.

There is also a dispensary in the village, opened a number of years ago by Anna Buyers. No missionary is available at the moment, but one is in training to be sent in 1958. In the meantime a Pakistani nurse, assisted at intervals by a Pakistani woman doctor, is doing a limited amount of work.

Mr. Richard Lockman is beginning a village extension program with Stuntzabad as the center. His purpose is to find inexpensive methods of irrigation, to demonstrate better agricultural methods, to find solutions to the innumerable economic problems of the people. His plans are carefully made and grow out of a previous short term of service spent in Technical Services.

These are the chief projects of the Woman's Division in Pakistan. All are worthy of our organization and the purpose for which we exist but are insufficient in this day, which is open for witnessing in Pakistan. Evangelists should be sent to bring Christ's message to the cities and to the villages. The rural church is woefully weak but there are too few to give it strength. In this day of revolution, people seek direction. Many thinking young people and older ones are seeking a faith that can answer their problems while we send too few to challenge them with Christ's way of life. We must not be indifferent to the opportunity God gives us now in West Pakistan. Our failure to do so cannot later be rectified. This is the hour that God calls us to be His ambassadors in Pakistan.

Nepal

The United Mission to Nepal is one of the most dramatic ventures in Christian missions in this generation. In valleys amid the highest mountains in the world, a little kingdom kept itself aloof from Christian contacts for centuries; then God used the friendship and medical skill of American missionaries on vacation treks through the valleys as the way to introduce the people here to the ministries of the church. This work began in 1953. Today there are fifty-eight Christian workers in Nepal. They represent eight denominational groups from eight countries: twenty-one Indians, of whom fourteen have Nepali origin, four Nepalese, seventeen Americans, two Canadians, and one Swiss. "We have been grateful to God that it was a part of His plan that we be a United Missions," writes the Superintendent.

A good hospital of forty-six beds occupies what once was a palace. Scenes of hunting expeditions adorn the walls, a few bathrooms and floors are of marble, and in certain wards French chandeliers hang from the ceilings! These may not contribute to the efficiency of a well-run hospital, but they are daily reminders of how great a work God has done in providing a place for His consecrated, radiant co-workers to minister to a needy people.

Like a grain of mustard seed the work continues to grow. There are now five clinics served from the central hospital in Kathmandu; three acres of land have been leased from the government on the payment of two sacks of corn annually. It is here that a second small hospital will be built. Primary education, a community development project, adult literacy work are in their initial stage; thus a mission develops.

LUCILE COLONY

Japan and Korea

JAPAN

BILLINGSLEY
Executive Secretary,
Japan and Korea

DURING the spring and summer months I had the privilege of treading the paths of service in Japan and Korea, walking with those who serve and coming in contact with those who need service. The new Tokyo Airport, one of the most modern in the world, startled me for it was such a contrast to the small shacks which served those coming and going by air just after the war. As I drove into Tokyo, the new buildings lining either side of the road made me realize that this was a new Japan.

I found Japan modern beyond my anticipation—cars and taxis everywhere, air-conditioned department stores; a marvelous transportation system with beautiful trains and efficient airplanes; many modern buildings and housing developments and the hustle and bustle of any large city or country in the world. The people looked prosperous and healthy and most of them were well dressed.

Japan is rapidly gaining her place in the world of trade and industry with new factories and industries springing up constantly. But beneath the surface I sensed an unrest—a fear and restlessness due to lack of employment and the difficulty of securing a job after completing school. A concern about the future, too, is evidenced as the population, in spite of the fact that birth control is now an accepted fact, is increasing at approximately a million people a year.

To blazoned heights. My path led to the Japan International Christian University where nearly fifty years of contemplation, prayer, and effort of Christian leaders in Japan and America reached the heights at the first Commencement on March 21, 1957. The graduating class consisted of 165 students (116 men and 49 women). In the audience on this historic occasion were the representatives of diplomatic, educational, religious, business, and political spheres showing the good will and cooperation for I.C.U. on the part of people of both the East and the West. As I looked into the faces of the fine young people prepared to go out as Christian leaders in education, to walk new pathways of service, and heard the president say, "Christianity with us is a dynamic creative principle governing and enriching us in human relations, . . . Keep on the narrow path following the light of Christ," my heart was lifted onto the heights.

Great joy was demonstrated at the Seventy-fifth Anniversary of Iai Girls' School in Hakodate, Japan. Graduates from all over the country gathered to celebrate the beginnings of this school. Honors were bestowed upon Miss Alice Cheney and Miss Dora Wagner, former principals, and many others who had contributed to the Christian program. Though we often hear today that the Christians of other countries wish to separate themselves from the American influence, it was surprising to note how the Japanese principals and teachers rejoice in speaking of their schools as "mission schools." With pride they talk of the Christian influence and the Christian emphasis.

Next I took the train for Nishinomiya where Seiwa Christian College for Training Christian Workers is located. Here again my heart was warmed as I gave the commencement address and had the privilege of talking with these girls who have completed their preparation and are going out to teach in church kindergartens, to be religious education workers, and to do social work. Their radiant faces revealed the spirit within.

Down the slopes of need. The workmen were still putting on the finishing touches of the lovely new building for Misasa Center, erected with funds from the Woman's Division of Christian Service. In the day nursery, a Seiwa graduate was lovingly bathing the children, settling their little quarrels, teaching them how to play, and also how to worship. This center, erected in the slum area of Hiroshima, will bring Christ and His way of life to the children, the young people, and the adults.

"You must come to our home and see the kitchen and dining room which the Woman's Division gave." And so riding out beyond the city lines we went into the woods to find on the hillside one of the nicest orphanages one can imagine—Keisen Ryo. Here a family—mother, father, and children—have made their home a larger home to take in forty or more children who had no home. Grandparents (a retired minister and his wife) do the public relation job while the daughter and her husband care for these needy little ones who are so happy, so free, and so full of love in this beautiful setting.

Arriving in Kagashima after a long train ride, I found the missionary waiting. She had gathered a group of women representing the different societies in the Kagoshima area. Here we have a kindergarten and social-evangelistic work. About nineteen women came to talk about their work. Soon they forgot that a visitor was present as they became interested in discussing the problems: having family worship when the father is a Buddhist; guiding their children when they enter high school and all of their friends are non-Christian; continuing church attendance when one marries into a non-Christian home; and serving as Christians in the community helping others to find the church. Faces aglow with new encouragement and spiritual blessings showed that these hours together in the missionary home had given them new strength and hope to go back to their homes, communities, and churches to carry on as God's messengers.

Then I visited the community centers in Nagasaki and Tokyo. There needy people are served and brought into an understanding of what it means to live pure, clean lives; of what it means to have a clinic where you can take your baby for physical care; of what it means to share with each other in group meetings and to find a new way of life.

Thy touch in sorrow's darkened way. My path led to Fukuoka Girls' School, well known for its strong Christian influence which continued even during the war years due to the staunch principal, Miss Yoshi Tokunaga. But when I met with the faculty, a fine group of men and women, whose main interest is guiding the girls and training them in the Christian way of life, Miss Tokunaga was absent. Then I was taken to the hospital where I sat for an hour and talked with Miss Tokunaga about her plans for the school—about the new campus where the kindergarten is the only building to date, but where within the next year it is hoped that many new buildings will be erected so that the school may move from the center of the city out into this less crowded area. Though Miss Tokunaga's body was wracked with pain due to an incurable disease, her face was aglow with plans for the future of the school and for the girls who attend this school. It has been hard for one so filled with ambition and desire to serve to accept illness, but God has been sufficient. Each day one of the school classes sent a scroll containing a Bible verse and, as Miss Tokunaga lay on her bed, she read the words which were always so appropriate, so comforting, and helpful. Since my visit there, Miss Tokunaga has been taken from this earth and in her going demonstrated the spirit of God within her life. In talking with the faculty members who visited her, she passed on to them her concern and desire that the school should always be Christian with Christ at the center. Even in her sorrow she brought a great spiritual blessing to everyone.

He who journeys in them walks with Thee. When I saw missionaries and Japanese Christians walking in the paths of service I knew they were walking with God. Dr. T. T. Brumbaugh, executive secretary for Japan of the Division of World Missions, Dr. John T. Smith of the Presbyterian Board of Missions, and I spent two days with the Japanese church leaders and a few missionaries. These men and women are concerned about evangelism; about the social and educational needs and the future of the Church in Japan. Some of the issues discussed were the use of funds from America; the desire for more support from Japan; the concern regarding pensions for the ministers who have given their lives to the church and the urgent desire for an increased number of missionaries. Other topics were the problem of reduction of aid from America and increase of self-support and its relation to emerging secularization; the special character of Christian social work in Japan and its relations to the church and the relationship of the church in Japan to the churches in America. Again, I was impressed with the quality and spirit of the Japanese Christians with whom and under whom our missionaries serve in blazing new trails for Christ.

Another day I was privileged to meet with the executive committee of the Women's Commission of the Kyodan and to hear their plans for the woman's emphasis year which is 1957. A little later my schedule took me to one of their area conferences where more than 200 women came to make plans for their area, to train leaders, and to give instruction and guidance in carrying out the women's program. How thrilling it was to see the advance these women have made in taking their responsibility in the Christian program. For the first time I saw Japanese women giving real leadership in planning and carrying out their area programs. They were demonstrating a real concern for evangelism, for providing local groups with literature, for finding answers to such questions as: (1) relationship of men and women in society; (2) ethics of the family; (3) how to remove traditions held over from the past which hamper the spread of the Gospel; and (4) finding harmony between the generations.

Seeing these women take their place in the leadership of the Christian Church I knew that they were among those who journey with God.

Certainly another group who journey in the path of service are our missionaries. Watching them at their work, I realized anew what a wonderful group they are. The contribution of a consecrated individual is beyond measure.

But—our missionary ranks continue to decline. The number retiring and marrying is far greater than the number of new recruits. Even the short-termers have decreased to one or two a year. If we are to continue to walk the paths of service in Japan, we must have more personal messengers to send.

KOREA

A four-hour flight from Japan took me to the airport just outside the city of Seoul in Korea. Flying over the mountains of Korea one could see nothing but snow and as we dropped down into the valleys a white blanket covered every house and every roadside. What a contrast after leaving Japan which looked so prosperous to come into Korea only four hours away to find them struggling and working to recover from years of war. Improvements and changes for the better could be seen but these changes have been gradual though constant. It is necessarily slow in a country as completely destroyed by war as South Korea. Dr. You Chan Yang, Ambassador from Korea to the United States, expresses well the Korea today:

Korea today is enacting a drama which is a mixture of tragedy and comedy. It is as though the Master Director had two plays in mind at the same time. The forefront of the stage is occupied by a busy set of actors who are busily engaged in the greatest constructive work in the 4,400 year history of Korea. But this encouraging scene is played against a backdrop of stark misery and threatening danger.

The theme for a discussion of present-day Korea is paradox. Just so far as the fate of the Korean people and nation is in their own hands and in the hands of their powerful allies (notably the United States) tremendous, almost miraculous progress is being made. But this is only a part of the story. For our nation remains divided; our northern provinces continue under the aggressive occupation of a brutal army of foreign communist troops; and this situation daily becomes worse—building up to a dangerous climax that could at any time bring ruin to our nation and the threat of war to the world.

War is hard on any nation but especially hard on a small nation of people who have long struggled and toiled to make a meager living. War leaves wounds and scars that last not a month but a lifetime. In Korea I saw some who were wealthy compared to what they were a few years ago, but these were not many, only a few in government positions, traders, or in the field of construction. The masses which include the orphans, the widows, the refugees, the lame, and the sick are still in dire need. There is practically no middle class. Most families can derive only enough for themselves and have nothing to help the less fortunate. America has been generous but much more needs to be done. The earnest, hard-working men and women in Korea are ever hopeful, ever courageous, not living in fear as one would expect, but looking to the future with great expectations. There is not much with which to work, but the initiative of these people is astounding. The six million people now crowded into the southern part of Korea have been forced to create their own little business activities and shops along the wayside. Discarded tin cans are turned into useful instruments. Discarded shells are melted down and remolded into ploughs. Factories are rebuilt from rusted machinery. The people are working to provide electricity and water for their cities.

In Kang Neung, far from the activities of the capital city of Seoul, I saw a green jeep station wagon just like the station wagon of the missionaries. They referred to this as their twin and told me the story. The men in the repair shop had hammered out the body of the car from tin cans and discarded metal to the exact measurement and shape of their station wagon. The engine had been put together from parts found on the junk heap of the army. This homemade station wagon serves as the only taxi in the town of Kang Neung. Such ingenuity, such perseverance, such faith in one's own accomplishments can be seen in all walks of life in Korea.

Solace for the day. Traveling by jeep, by train, and by airplane, one can spot the churches on the hillsides showing how God has touched the peoples of Korea. Wherever one goes a group of people worshiping and singing together demonstrate how in their sorrow and their burdens they have gone to the royal Throne for courage and strength. Truly these Christians have been blessed and are bringing blessings to others.

The Christian schools show the touch of God upon those who have so fearlessly gone forward with their concern to bring education to youth. In Taejon, refugees, teachers, and pupils from Holston Girls' School, now in the area under the communists, gathered in a broken down factory building where they carried on a girls' high school for three years. I sat in this crowded, dark, cold ramshackle building for the commencement exercises in March. My heart was saddened, yet at the same time I had a sense of joy over the fact that a Christian school could be carried on in such humble quarters. In May we were lifted to the "blazoned heights" when the beautiful new school building was dedicated. The women of The Methodist Church can be proud of this lovely new building where the students of Holston now gather for study and preparation for life. The teachers report that the students are doing better work, that discipline is less complicated, and that all are much happier.

Ewha High School, Ewha University, and Pai Wha Girls' School, all in Seoul, are demonstrations of the faith and courage of Christians who with the help of God and the Christian women of America have gone forward in their program of expansion. It was a thrilling experience to sit on the platform and look out at the six thousand people gathered in the new auditorium for the graduation exercises of Ewha University. Almost as large a number stood outside because there was not room inside. Dr. Helen Kim says that in another year they will have to give out tickets to the parents of the graduates so that those who should be present can find seats.

In smaller schools, Yong Wha Girls' School, Inchon; Suwon Girls' School, Suwon, and Yang Chung Girls' School, Ichon, the same Christian atmosphere prevails. Walking about the new school building and the chapel at Ichon, I remarked about this. The principal replied that when the provincial educational authorities came to see the school the head of the delegation, a non-Christian, said, "This school has the odor of a Christian school and is quite different from the other schools in the province." Again and again this school has been lifted up by the officials as an example and a demonstration of what a school should be.

Abound with love. Wyatt Baby Fold gives a home with loving care to more than thirty little ones who have no parents. A number of these children are of mixed parentage. Many have been fathered by U.N. soldiers including Americans. Seeing these healthy, happy children brings light, love, and thanksgiving to many hearts. A number of children have been adopted into homes in Korea and in America. A constant effort is made to place these children in a natural, normal home. As soon as one leaves the Baby Fold another is waiting to be taken in. The Baby Fold in Taejon and Kongju give the same attention to their babies.

Perhaps the greatest struggle is that going on among those who are trying to resettle along the border line between the north and the south. Many refugees are moving back, trying to begin life again. We traveled by car for two days through this area. Our hearts were heavy with sorrow over the needs that were pointed out to us but rejoicing came when we saw the little church filled with people gathered for worship. The church as it is being established has plans for serving this group. We were told of the seminary students who come out to hold services. Missionaries have sent young men from these villages to the farm schools for six-months' training so that they might come back and help their own village. We learned of the plans to dig a well in another village. I knew God's touch was there when we talked with these saddened people and saw the glow in the faces of many. Bishop Lew's call for Christian aid and emphasis in this area has brought results. However, the call still goes forth for more workers, Korean and missionary, who will dedicate their lives in service for these needy people.

Another group of missionaries and Korean workers serve through the community centers in Pusan, Seoul, Inchon, and Taejon. The youngest to the oldest find a place for counsel, for recreation, for a hot meal when needed, for literacy programs, for kindergarten, for religious education programs.

Every missionary home is a place where the needy come for help: medical care for one's child; a request for travel money to go to the sick bed of a mother; assistance in securing a position; or a young student may ask to be taught the way of truth; a group of young people may want a Bible class or help with church conferences or local church groups. Those who come are met with the spirit of Christ and all possible help is given to them through the administration of missionaries and Korean Christian workers.

But in the eyes of men, redeemed and free, a splendor greater yet while serving thee. Social workers from the five Woman's Division community centers gathered for the first conference to be held on social work. For two days the philosophy, the techniques, problems, and solutions were discussed and shared. In the eyes of these young people, Korean and American, was a light of splendor, as they told of their work and plans for greater service. The same light could be seen in the faces of educators in Christian schools; of the workers in the local churches; of the nurses and doctors in the hospitals, and in the consecration and service of missionaries and full-time Korean workers in the church.

Dr. and Mrs. Brumbaugh and Dr. Georgia Harkness, who was visiting in Korea, entertained the Crusade Scholars of the Seoul area. Among the twenty or so present there were educators, physicians, ministers, and religious education workers all better prepared for their tasks in the church because of their opportunity to study in America.

Again, at the Conference of the Korean Church, a number of those who had been trained under the Crusade Scholarship program took an active part assisting the bishop in guiding the work of this great conference. The three conferences of the country met together in one large group in Seoul. The large church was filled to capacity morning, noon, and night. Watching the proceedings, and noting the hopes, the faith, and the advancement of this group, I knew that I had seen the "glory like a mantle spread." But then when I saw them going back to their local churches, to their own conferences, to their rural areas and heard them pleading for more helpers, I longed that the church in America might see what I had seen, feel what I had felt, and that more young people would be led to follow His paths of service.

MARGARET BILINGSLEY

Latin-American Countries

MARIAN L. DERBY
for Latin America

THERE are times in the progress of Christian missions when in the words of the familiar hymn it is necessary to "Build the road—make straight the highway of the King." Sometimes this means clearing the way by demolition of existing institutions or pulling up by the roots the undergrowth of tradition and superstition. It may involve a real engineering feat and the importation of new materials to make a solid foundation. But far more often it is by the lowly path of service that real progress is made. Missionaries move out into new areas answering needs that they see there, making personal contacts, and getting acquainted with groups. Perhaps a Sunday school is started or the women come together for meetings of one kind or another. Perhaps a school for the children seems necessary or help along health lines can be given. Thus the pattern of work develops. One missionary or many, Christians with varying abilities and responsibilities tread the same path over and over until it becomes a hard-beaten road, beaten out of the wilderness by the sheer number of feet tramping over it. Though we talk much of long-range planning and the need for vision as we look ahead in the field of missions today, it is still the missionary, sensitive to the needs of people, who opens up new paths. In most cases the paths are still narrow rather than well-constructed highways.

Let us follow some of these paths and see where they lead.

Cuba

Were we to visit our mission work in the Latin-American countries it would be logical perhaps to make Cuba the first stop. Although the occasional tourist might be impressed with the "business as usual" atmosphere which he would find in Havana or any of the other major cities of Cuba, he would not be there long before he sensed the uncertainties and unrest in which the people live as revolutionary forces continue their year-old struggle against the present political regime. At a time like this, the church has a special message for old and young alike. Old paths become more worn and new paths are opened up.

In Herradura at the western end of the island, Miss Frances Gaby is now serving as the pastor of a rural circuit and as principal of the small primary school as well as director of the social outreach program of the Center. On the circuit is a lovely little white chapel set way back across the fields which can be reached only by a rough road in good weather. Of the group who meets in this chapel Miss Gaby writes: "It is a joy to go out there. They are such a simple, trusting people, so faithful to come, rain or shine, and so eager to hear the message and participate in church activities."

In Havana, Buenavista together with Candler College is moving out into a real highway in the field of higher education in the establishment of Candler University. It opened its doors for the first time on September 16 for registration of students in four schools, the School of Education which will train primary teachers, the School of Philosophy and Letters which will train secondary teachers, a School of Languages which will supply English and French teachers for our schools, and a School of Commerce and Economics. This is the first Protestant university in any Spanish-speaking country and as the course of this project is charted, it is with great hope of what it may mean not only to the Protestant church of Cuba but for other lands as well. For the present the classes will be held in the buildings of Candler and Buenavista. Well-trained Christian professors have been secured to head the different departments. The greatest immediate need in the new university probably is money for the library and laboratory equipment which will have to be purchased. Personnel needs include a librarian who can organize a university library from the beginning.

The University Student Center will serve as a dormitory for the new university as well as for students attending the University of Havana and will continue to minister to the needs of Methodist students in the city. In troubled times such as Cuba is now passing through, a haven of understanding and creative activities for students is an especially important part of the work. Paths of service not only lead to the university center for missionaries and Christian leaders but also lead out from the center to all parts of Cuban life as university graduates move into new spheres of influence.

In the Union Theological Seminary in Matanzas a department of rural work was opened in September of 1957. This is headed by Miss Eulalia Cook who has had many years of experience in the field of rural church and community work in Cuba. Here, too, is the Irene Toland School—an example of a well-trodden path of service, not only in the field of education but also in the development of Christian character and a sense of social responsibility.

In Santa Rosa far off the beaten path back in the sugar cane fields, an hour removed from the nearest town of Jovellanos over almost impassable roads in any kind of weather, we find a Christian community with a church and a woman missionary pastor at the center and paths of service leading out in many directions.

Cienfuegos on the southern shore of the island has long been a center of Methodist activity. The Eliza Bowman School holds a strategic position on a hill overlooking much of the city, but it is honored more for its fine educational program than its physical location. A new building completed in 1957 added more classrooms which are already filled as a larger number of students seek admittance. In the surrounding area there are thirty communities, some of 3,000 people or more, with no Roman Catholic church and only a few with Protestant churches. A Woman's Division missionary has been assigned this year to work in this area together with the Cuban pastor and a missionary of the Division of World Missions.

Camaguey, one of the old cities of Cuba, is the home of Pinson College, a Methodist school traditionally related to the Division of World Missions. This year a Woman's Division missionary has been assigned to teach in the commercial department here and help with the girls' boarding department.

Omaja is the center of the rural circuit where Miss Sarah Fernandez ministers especially to a large group of young people. Vacation Bible schools for children in the mornings and for young people at night in each of the eight missions of the circuit during the summer are typical of the paths of service leading out into each of these communities.

On the Baguanos circuit the fourteen churches and missions have been organized on the larger parish plan. A well-trained Cuban pastor, assisted by two Woman's Division missionaries and several lay people, carry not only the church services and religious education program, but also the social outreach including public health emphases, rural betterment programs, and three day schools.

The Agricultural and Vocational School in Preston is training young people to be the kind of leaders which are needed in rural Cuba. Graduates of the school during the first ten years of its existence have already shown how great a contribution we can expect from them in the future as they go out as laymen in rural churches.

As someone has said, the church in the city touches the lives of those who come into contact with it; the church in the rural community affects all of life. The influence of the Woman's Division rural missionaries in Cuba can hardly be overestimated. All over the eastern province of Oriente there are repeated opportunities for this same kind of outreach. The city of Santiago de Cuba, the second city in size on the island, offers an unsurpassed opportunity for giving a Protestant witness through a primary school in a prosperous new suburb. Can we say we must concentrate only on those paths already made when so many areas are calling to which no paths yet lead?

Mexico

The work in Mexico for the most part follows well-established paths. The effective service depends largely on the leadership available either among missionaries or well-trained Mexican Christian women.

In the city of Reynosa is a Social Center under the capable leadership of a Mexican deaconess. A new room to be added will make it possible to extend the program to other groups and to widen the field of service in this city.

In Monterrey the Social Center continues to serve as a place of meeting for numerous groups of all ages. The youth camp which is a part of its program is developing slowly as young people from Monterrey and from the United States work together constructing buildings, swimming pool, and equipment. A short walk from the Social Center is a rented house which has served many years as a home for girls coming from the country to study in Monterrey. Most of these girls are high-school students who especially appreciate the Christian atmosphere found in such a home.

In Saltillo, the beautiful, well-kept, remodeled Social Center attracts both Mexicans and North Americans to its program of classes in English and Spanish and its activities for all ages. Pleasant dormitory rooms make a home for students studying in secondary schools and normal school in Saltillo during the winter and serve as a residence for North American teachers studying there during the summer months. The church next door benefits by the activities and program of the center.

In Chihuahua, paths of service lead out from three different types of institutions. Palmore School, a primary and secondary school, is recognized as one of the best educational institutions in the city. The boarding department is being remodeled to make it a safer, more pleasant home for the eighty girls who live there.

The Christian Center located in the middle of town serves working mothers and their small children through the Day Care Center. A well-organized commercial school for young people gives many of the Mexican youth an opportunity for this type of education which they would not be able to have otherwise.

Palmore Sanatorium is a well-recognized hospital in the city and its Nurses' Training School is one of the best in the country. Its free clinic serves the needy of the neighborhood dispensing love and understanding along with medicines and medical treatment.

In Durango the MacDonell Social Center under the direction of a trained Mexican young woman and a short-term missionary of the Woman's Division is carrying on an ever-increasing program of activities. Among these are English classes, a library, a clinic for which it is hoped to have a missionary soon serving in the capacity of a public-health nurse, and a Day Care Center where small children spend happy hours while their mothers work.

Here is also the MacDonell School under the leadership of a fine Mexican principal and a dedicated staff.

In General Teran and Villa de Santiago, missionaries serving in rural communities have become a part of every agency of social uplift as well as a strong influence in the local church.

In the colonial city of Guanajuato is a small school known as Colegio Juarez. The present director is doing much to increase the prestige of the school. This year for the first time the first year of secondary school was added to the program. Here is a real opportunity for service in a community where Protestants are a very small minority.

In Cortazar is found a center of social outreach which follows paths of service into various communities in the surrounding territory and back into the mountains. Two missionaries and a Mexican deaconess with special interest in this kind of work follow these paths and bring a Christian influence into all phases of life.

The Hijas de Allende School in Pachuca is one of the best-known schools in the city. A new auditorium, now in the process of construction, will make it one of the best equipped.

In Puebla the Normal School with its primary practice school and its large boarding department is closely related to the church in its location and spirit if not in name. Its graduates are recognized as being among the best-prepared young teachers in the country.

In Mexico City the Deaconess Training School has a larger enrollment than any time during the past several years and the majority of them are regular three-year students preparing to be commissioned workers in the church. The Laura Temple Hostel with its well-equipped new building is providing a Christian home for a larger number of students who are studying in the Sara Alarcon School next door. The buildings of all three of these institutions were slightly damaged by the earthquake in the summer of 1957 but are being repaired at not too great a cost.

Miss Mary Fitzpatrick working with the Board of Christian Education of the Mexican church is responsible for editing its children's magazine as well as helping with the program for youth.

The Mexican Methodist Church has many fine leaders. They ask our help not only to continue in these paths of service but to open new paths.

Brazil

Were we to visit Brazil from the United States, probably our first point of entry would be Rio de Janeiro. Near the docks we would find the People's Central Institute. The Institute includes a well-organized primary and secondary school, a night school, classes and craft groups in carpentry, clay modeling, home economics, and drama, a full-fledged library, and year-around camping program as well as a systematized home visitation program—an encouraging pattern of community co-operation within the last year or two. The program has been a veritable highway leading out in the field of social institutions. This year for the first time, practice students from the Government School of Social Work are related to the Institute. Their work has been supervised by Miss Elsie Parker and Miss Maria Leda Resende, a Crusade Scholar.

In Rio we also find Bennett College. Quite literally, roads from all over the world led to Bennett this year as it played host to the World Convention of the Bible Society where they had as guests thirty-five people representing thirty-two different countries. On a path leading out from the school a graduate who is now on the faculty was chosen by the evangelical young people of Brazil to represent that group at the Ecumenical Work Camp in Europe.

North of Rio is Belo Horizonte where the Izabela Hendrix School plays an important part in educational and church circles and Itapina where the rural institute offers educational opportunities for the young people coming from this vast rural area. Though we have no Woman's Division missionary on the staff here at the present time, we do help with scholarships for some of the girls and are glad to know that a former Crusade Scholar is now a member of the staff working with these girls.

São Paulo, famous in recent years as the fastest-growing city in the world, is the center also of a fast-growing Methodist church. Here Miss Rosalie Jenkins works in the field of Christian education with the large Central Methodist Church and shares some of the responsibilities in the Board of Education office. A short-term missionary is proving to be of invaluable help to CAVE, the interdenominational audio-visual center in São Paulo which provides filmstrips, movies, radio programs, and other audio-visual materials and equipment for all of the Protestant churches in Brazil.

Just outside São Paulo in the suburb of Santo Amaro is the Methodist Institute where girls prepare for Christian service. A part of the program includes social group work with children and young people in the community. This offers practice opportunities for the students and is a path of service into the community which is much appreciated.

West of São Paulo, but still in the same state, is the town of Piracicaba where we find the oldest Methodist school in Brazil with almost 2,000 students in primary and secondary school and in the normal training department. Boarding departments for both boys and girls provide a home for many of the students. The Woman's Division missionary who is the principal and her fine staff have far more paths of service open to them than they can possibly follow!

In Porto Alegre, the thriving metropolis of southern Brazil, Colegio Americano continues to open up new paths. An example of this was the first home economics conference organized this year by one of the teachers under the sponsorship of the central office of the Point Four program in Rio.

In Santa Maria, Centenary College is moving out along a new path of service as it plans to break ground for its school chapel. Much of the money for the chapel has been raised locally through efforts of teachers, students, and alumni. Part of the funds were given through the Week of Prayer and Self-Denial in 1954. Also in Santa Maria we find Joy Betts working in the Methodist Orphanage. From there she also sees opportunities for beginning paths in the field of rural health work. Gladys Oberlin has been appointed to rural work in this area. In April she met with the rural pastors in a conference sponsored by the Rural Department of the Board of Social Action of the Methodist Church in Brazil to chart the course for the first path into this field.

Thus in Brazil we see the pattern unfolding—well-established institutions reaching out in service in new ways and missionaries pioneering in new areas of rural work and audio-visual programs. For all of this the cry comes oft repeated for more missionaries to walk these paths of service.

Bolivia

Just two years ago the Woman's Division of Christian Service voted to send missionaries to Bolivia. Now two years later we have three Woman's Division missionaries under appointment for work there. In one sense we might say that they have followed the trail made by the Argentine missionary from Buenos Aires who is supported by the Latin-American Confederation of Methodist Women.

In La Paz, a laboratory technician is on the staff of the Pfeiffer Memorial Hospital. Two nurses appointed to the hospital will be serving there as soon as they have completed their work in the Language School in Costa Rica. These three Woman's Division missionaries will serve in the hospital and also share in the responsibility for the Nurses' Training School. Their paths may even lead up to Lake Titicaca to help in the clinic which is directed by an Argentine missionary doctor.

In Ancoraimas on Lake Titicaca, Virginia Bunn shares the responsibility for the Girls' Vocational School with Rosita Shehirlian of Argentina. Because of deeply imbedded traditions and superstitions, the paths of service here are still poorly marked trails. Though the need of education for young women is imperative if a Christian society is to be rooted in this area, progress is slow and often discouraging. It calls for a real pioneering spirit on the part of missionaries.

Sucre is the official capital of the country and a center of education and culture. Here a Woman's Division missionary directs a student hostel for girls studying in the university and the normal school. Coming from the better homes of various parts of Bolivia these girls will go back into their home or other communities. The very fact that a Protestant church cares enough to have a home for girls while they are studying is a witness to the Christian faith which must leave its impact on their lives. What an opportunity to help provide leaders of the Protestant church in Bolivia is offered by this path of service!

The church of Bolivia in these days of special opportunity and rapid growth offers many openings for missionary work. These five are following along paths already opened. New opportunities lead in many directions. Will we have workers to lead out on these new paths?

Peru

In Peru, too, we find an area for new paths of service. In the city of Lima, Colegio Maria Alvarado, long known to friends in the United States as Lima High School, continues to hold a special place among the institutions of that city. This year as a new venture, they are offering evening classes in the field of teacher training as a part of an in-service training program for both their teachers and other Lima High School graduates who are teaching in various schools of the city.

The La Florida Social Center serves a needy community in many ways and houses, for the present, an embryonic church and Sunday school.

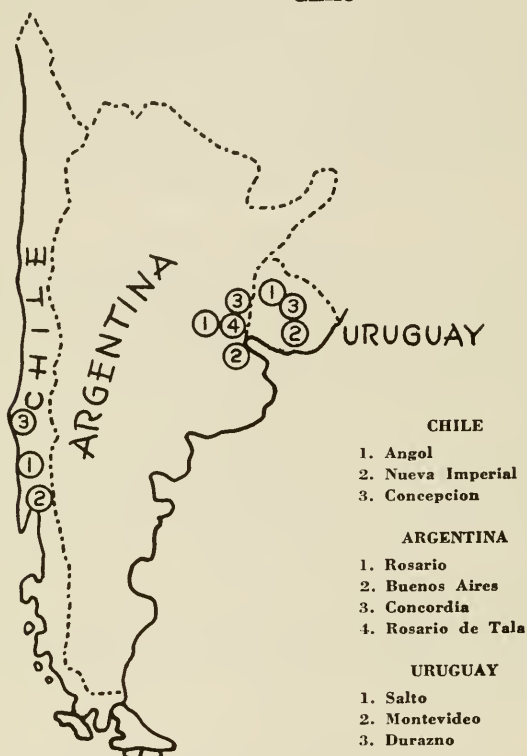

The building which was purchased in 1956 for a university student hostel and center is also housing a Bible Institute. This was begun in April of 1957, offering courses for the training of Christian lay workers, both young men and young women.

In February, our first Woman's Division missionary was appointed to the city of Huancayo where she is heading the Girls' Secondary Department of the Colegio Andino.

New paths of service? New opportunities in the training of Christian workers, contacts with Christian university students, a new path leading into the high Andes, and the ever-widening circle of the already heavily trodden paths from the Social Center and the well-established educational institutions point to some of the directions those paths might lead. The Peruvian church is setting out upon them and offers us the privilege of accompanying them in the journey.

Chile

In Chile the Woman's Division of Christian Service is helping to make a path of service through a training program on three different levels.

In Santiago, scholarships for evangelical students in Santiago College help provide educational facilities for some of the most promising Protestant girls in this outstanding educational institution.

In Angol, through the Vocational Training School for Girls at El Vergel, girls from rural areas are given an opportunity for the kind of an education which will prepare them both as home makers and wage earners in the smaller towns and rural areas of southern Chile.

At Nueva Imperial, the rural center reaching out in service to the Mapuche Indians offers new opportunities and new life through an educational and religious program along with an emphasis on health and agricultural methods.

From Concepcion comes the urgent request for help in a hostel for university students.

During the six years that the Woman's Division of Christian Service has been sharing in the work in Chile new paths have been under way. More missionaries must be found before these paths can become well defined.

Argentina

In Argentina, aid has been given in opening up paths of service to young Argentine women as well as missionaries. A subsidy to the salaries for deaconesses has helped make this possible. Money to provide all-too-inadequate rooms and equipment for social work has been given in three places where deaconesses now are opening up new fields of service. Two homes for girls studying in primary and secondary schools are directed by deaconesses in buildings which Woman's Division funds have made possible. These homes are found in Concordia and in Rosario de Tala.

The training of these deaconesses is made possible partly through contributions to the Union Theological Seminary in Buenos Aires. Statistics show that during the last ten years, 91 of the 243 students in the Seminary have been young women. During the present year, there are 28 young women in a student body of 83.

In the city of Rosario, Colegio Americano is now offering a complete secondary course as well as a primary course. The second part of its new classroom building is now under construction and the first part is already filled to capacity. When the new building is completed the school will be one of the most modern and well-equipped schools in the country.

A very special opportunity for service came to us this year when we were able to give money to buy new equipment for the Methodist Publishing House which will make it possible to publish children's books in color. Those on the staff and the Board of the Publishing House are grateful for this avenue of service opened to them. The children who will benefit from the more attractive literature will be even more grateful!

Uruguay

In the city of Montevideo, Crandon Institute continues to lead out. It has become the headquarters of a national Protestant student movement of secondary-school students. A radio program for women has been initiated by the teachers in collaboration with the Woman's Society of the Methodist Church in Uruguay. A new cookbook is off the press, the work of three years on the part of the staff of the home economics department. And graduates are continuing to move out into larger fields of service as more and more of them complete the official course of secondary-school studies.

The Malvin Social Center moved into new quarters where there is more adequate space for carrying on a wider program. A Woman's Division missionary now studying in the Language School in Costa Rica has been appointed to this work which offers many paths of service into a needy community.

Funds to help pay the salary of a deaconess have made possible the opening of a hostel for girls studying in the primary and secondary school in the interior city of Durazno. This has been opened with the cooperation of the Woman's Societies in Uruguay.

High Privilege

It is true that these "paths of service lead to blazoned heights and down the slopes of need." It is also true that "he who journeys in them walks with Thee." This is the high privilege of missionary service. The testimony of "missionaries," whatever their country of origin or place of service, is one of gratitude for this.

Southeast Asia and China

CLARA M. FRENCH
Executive Secretary for Southeast Asia and China

THIS year dates one of the most critical moments in international affairs. By the time this report is printed, conditions in the world, and especially those related to Southeast Asia and China, may be greatly changed from what they are today.

For an understanding of the Christian church overseas and our responsibility, it is well to consider some of the characteristics of the age in which we are living. How are we as Christians fulfilling our mission in the unfinished task?

The struggle for power in nations is causing rebellion, coups, and overthrow or near overthrow of governments. Technological skill and the attitudes which they engender create hatred and hostility between people. The development of science, largely centered in the West, cannot overcome the suspicion and fear engendered in the half of the earth's population centered in this part of the world.

All this dominance of power is caught in the fast-moving social revolution. Peoples are demanding new economic, social, and political structures. Radical changes are coming within Southeast Asia and this in turn will cause radical changes in relationships with the West. What then is our responsibility in the world mission of the church?

Christians in Southeast Asia are a small minority group, less than one per cent of the population. Because of the increase in birth rate, the number of non-Christians in the world is increasing more rapidly than the number of Christians. This is a part of the world where in many places the gospel has not been preached and also where there is a great revival of other religions and ideologies and a reaching out for some change. This is a time when the indigenous churches are expressing in a new way their maturity through self-determination and through a sense of responsibility for the mission of the church.

The Woman's Division carries work with personnel and funds in seven countries of Southeast Asia. It continues support in mainland China with pledges and prayers, though no funds or personnel can be sent there at present.

Mainland China

This year marks the one hundred fiftieth anniversary of the first Protestant missionary to the shores of China. It marks the one hundred tenth anniversary of Methodism in China. By 1925 there were 8,158 Protestant missionaries in that land, the peak of missionary numbers within the history of Christian missions. Both civil war and two world wars greatly affected the work of the church. In spite of this, in 1938 thirty-one Chinese leaders at the Conference of the International Missionary Council in Madras made a profound impression on the leaders of the world and on the work of that conference. In 1950 the National Christian Council showed over 900,000 communicant members, 13 Christian universities, 240 Christian middle schools, and 322 Christian hospital and medical centers.

Much more could be said of the outstanding work of Chinese Christians during those years and of what the church was able to accomplish in a nation as vast and as important to the world. Membership in The Methodist Church totaled approximately 70,000 with 800 churches.

As the Communist party took over the government, education and medicine were incorporated in the state system. Today missionaries formerly in China are serving the church on every continent.

"But the Church in Communist China carries on today, fruit of a century and a half of missionary and Chinese Christian witness, facing new conditions and problems, adding new members, suffering new trials."

Taiwan-Hong Kong

In December, 1956, the work of the American Methodist Church in Taiwan and Hong Kong under authorization from the General Conference was organized into the Taiwan-Hong Kong Provisional Annual Conference. Church leaders from three strategic centers in Taiwan met with members of the two churches in Hong Kong. Four new preachers were received on trial, three young men just out of seminary and Dr. Ortha Lane of the Woman's Division, one of the first women to take full clerical relations under the new ruling of the church.

Ortha Lane is the first missionary of the Woman's Division to be placed in Taiwan. She is helping to organize home and family life programs throughout the island and is giving special attention to the church in Taiwan where she is located.

Hong Kong continues to be a listening post and a home for an increasing number of refugees from the mainland. It is reported that 90,000 persons have been made homeless from fires since 1954. Most of these were squatters living in shacks of cardboard and plywood. There are 100,000 who sleep in the streets at night without shelter. The need for rehabilitation of these people is tremendous, and our church has undertaken a small share of it.

Wesley Village has been an outstanding example of a housing unit for rehabilitation where a Christian community center and chapel has a social, educational, and evangelistic program among these people. Much of the work is carried on by members of the two churches who volunteer their services. In Kowloon on the mainland of Hong Kong the government has built walk-up apartment houses to help meet this refugee need and has offered apartment rooftops to churches and other social agencies who will carry on a social-work program. The Kowloon Methodist Church has taken on one of these projects. The Woman's Division supports a full-time Chinese worker and has a share in her budget. This Christian evangelism through social work could be multiplied manifold if there were workers and funds. One of the greatest needs is for a well-trained social worker who can organize such programs and train volunteer workers. The following excerpt is quoted from a recent report:

These children can certainly be said to be among the "disinherited," the oppressed, the downtrodden of mankind. They are victims of circumstances. Their environment in these crowded conditions is full of bad influences and is anything but conducive to a happy childhood.

Our purpose in this club work is to make these children and their parents feel that somebody cares and to surround them with the moral influences that will lead them to be good and useful citizens of the community.

The children learn the fundamentals of reading, writing, hygiene, and arithmetic. They also have group recreation and will have some handicraft work. Church World Service has provided milk powder, so that each child has a glass of milk each day.

Our purpose, however, does not stop with the Boys' and Girls' Club. We hold Sunday schools, and we plan to have church services. We want to know every person in the building and to do personal evangelistic work. We hope that a church will be organized, with all the activities. And we are working to the end that this mass of people, with all the evil influences that they have, will be changed into a community which is founded on Jesus Christ and bears witness to His transforming love and power.

Tunghai University in Taiwan and Chung Chi College in Hong Kong are carrying on the heritage of the thirteen colleges and universities on the mainland to train Chinese in Christian higher education. The Woman's Division makes its contribution through support to the United Board for Christian Higher Education in Asia.

In September, 1956, Chung Chi moved out of its scattered, rented buildings in the heart of Hong Kong to a fourteen-acre lot in the New Territories granted to the college by the Hong Kong government. Not since the beginning of these two institutions has there been a missionary of the Woman's Division on either staff. This is one of the real needs in missionary personnel.

There is much concern today for the future of this area and for these people. As one Chinese expressed it, "There is no future, we merely exist from day to day." Perhaps no other place in the world and to no other ethnic group is there greater need to bring the gospel of hope and love.

The Philippines

The Philippines, unlike other countries of Southeast Asia, carries strong relationships with America and has an outward resemblance to our country. At the same time it is truly a part of Asia. Everywhere within the city of Manila are found American cars, American theaters, and people speaking the English language. Yet as one travels into the provinces one finds a simple rural economy characteristic of the land and the continent.

This is reflected within the church of the Philippines. Manila, the cultural center of the islands, is the headquarters and training center for its leaders.

Mary Johnston Hospital and the School of Nursing is without peer in this kind of Protestant mission work. This year the School of Nursing graduated its first class under the new collegiate program in conjunction with the Philippine Christian Colleges. Miss Librada Javalera, who has been with the hospital since its early days, returned to the school from a period of graduate study in America. Other nurses with the help of the Crusade Funds are being trained for special fields of nursing work.

Four other Crusade Scholarship women have returned to the Philippines and are doing outstanding work in four centers—Harris Memorial School, the Social Center, the Literature Office, and the new Student Center in Tuguegarao.

A new Student Center building is under way in Tuguegarao. The program is being enlarged to meet an increasing demand by the students in that area.

The Methodist Mobile Clinic under the direction of Miss Cabanilla reports a steady increase in service to the people. For years this project of the Woman's Division has made an outstanding contribution in medical service and in evangelism. Doctors and nurses hold clinics during the day and conduct evangelistic meetings in the evening, making use of religious films whenever possible.

Both the Federation of Christian Churches and The Methodist Church in the Philippines have extended programs of evangelism through audio-visual aids. In a strongly Catholic country such as the Philippines just as in a Muslim nation, people will listen to the gospel in an open-air meeting or over the radio when they dare not enter a church edifice.

The island of Mindanao is a wide-open door to the gospel. The lack of missionaries has prevented the Woman's Division from carrying out medical and social work which has been planned over a period of years. This is one of our great needs in missionary personnel. However, Filipino deaconesses are working on this island with the pastors and missionaries of the Division of World Missions.

Deaconesses scattered throughout the Philippines have been one of the strongest forces in the Christian home movement and in relating homes to the churches.

Again this year the Harris Memorial School in Manila has been forced to turn away many applicants for deaconess training. Harris is the only Deaconess Training School of the Methodist Church in Asia. This year one of its graduates was a Chinese from Malaya who has returned to her own country after three years of study in the Philippines. Two other students from Malaya are in the school and negotiations are being made for a student from Japan and a student from Taiwan to enter Harris.

In other ways Harris Memorial School is reaching out into other parts of the world. After their baccalaureate service it has been customary in the past few years to have a sacrificial meal when the graduates and students of the school give their offering to some work outside of their own land. This year the offering from this sacrificial meal was sent to the Medical Center in Kapit, Sarawak.

Interest in Sarawak as a mission field for Christians in the Philippines has caused two well-trained nurses to volunteer for work in Christ Hospital serving both Chinese and Iban workers. This is only the continuation of the vision which was seen in the Philippines more than three years ago when Miss Filomena Natividad was sent by the Woman's Societies and the Youth Fellowship to Okinawa. This year marks the furlough period for Miss Natividad, and plans are under way for her to spend one year in America for study.

Sarawak

Sarawak, one of the four lands of decision, is only now becoming known to the outside world. It is the last stand of colonialism where the Methodists have work in Southeast Asia. The Methodist Church largely carries the responsibility for presenting Protestant Christianity to these people.

Within the past year the new Christ Hospital, a joint project of two Divisions of the Board of Missions, was opened in temporary quarters. When it was known that the doctors and nurses had arrived, patients started coming even before these temporary quarters were prepared for them. Fannie Dewar, transferred from the Philippines, has taken her first clinic trip to the longhouses. The ministry of healing is only one of the ways in which Methodist Christians are bringing to bear the Spirit of Christ to all of Iban life in Sarawak.

In a letter from a Chinese nurse coming from Malaya and working with these Iban people this story is told:

I have just returned from a trip upriver. It took one and a half days' journey by longboat. We stopped at a longhouse for the night and then proceeded to Belaga. We gave medical treatment to the people in this longhouse and how they need the treatment! No doubt they have a traveling dispensary, but it takes one year to visit each longhouse.

Belaga is smaller than Kapit. The people here are not Ibans but Kenyas and Kayans. They speak Malay very well. We visited many longhouses to give needed medical treatment. So many of the people are ill and so much can be done for them. They are quite isolated for many of the rivers are full of rapids. The Methodist Church has been asked to send missionaries to that area but there is nobody to send.

In the more established work among the Chinese of Sarawak is the Theological School, another project of the Division of World Missions and the Woman's Division of Christian Service. No need is greater in this land than to train leaders for the future. Dr. Ivy Chou, Director of the School, wrote:

November was a specially rich month for the Theological School. We took advantage of the occasion by welcoming the new bishop and spent ten days holding discussions with local leaders at five local church centers. Many were convinced of the need of taking time regularly to attend lay training institutes. The response was heart-warming.

Then came the annual conference and the first commencement service. As we had prayed and hoped, the service was a worshipful experience when the seven graduates, their families as well as the whole congregation, praised God and gave themselves to God anew. After all that, Susie, Ho-Tee, and I felt that we were ready to make plans, tentatively of course, for the coming year. I still cannot get over having someone to work with!

The school has come to the end of its initial period. As we three try to work out the curriculum and policies regarding the ministerial and lay training program, and as we look forward to the coming of a new group of full-time students in January, our hearts are full of gratitude for the overwhelming opportunities and privileges the good Lord has entrusted to us.

Other projects of the Woman's Division include the Girls' Hostel in Sibu, the Sungei Teku Medical Clinic, the evangelistic campaign among Chinese with the help of the launch Louise R.

For many years the church was largely carried on by Christians from the mainland of China. Then came a few American missionaries to help in this program. Later Batak pastors from Sumatra gave their services. And then the Malaya Board of Missions sent a Chinese young man who went way up into the far reaches of the Rejang River to serve the Ibans. Today we have two nurses from the Philippines who have offered their services in the new medical center. Thus, in Sarawak we do not think of missionaries as coming from any one part of the world, but as a witness of a Christian going from his own country to serve in some other needy field. This is an example in the heart and the need of Sarawak.

Burma

Perhaps no other country shows more clearly than Burma how Southeast Asia has been caught in the conflicts of great world forces. Freed from the power of England, wishing to take a neutral position similar to India, she is caught in unsettled disputes over boundaries with Communist China. Wishing to establish her independence economically she finds herself harassed from within by communal conflicts and small rebellions.

This is a setting for a church very much a minority in a fanatically Buddhist nation.

Methodist schools in Burma have been one of the most encouraging parts of the church work. In the past year they have shown marked increase and progress. The large English School in Rangoon turned away 500 small children for the nursery school and kindergarten. There is need for a well-trained missionary who can organize kindergartens and train others in work with small children.

Two years ago the Kingswood School in the hills of Kalaw was about ready to close. It seemed too difficult to get both teachers and students in such an isolated area. Today the numbers have so increased that they are turning away students.

It is the hope in Rangoon that very soon property of the Burmese Girls' School occupied by the police ever since the war will be available for use. As in many parts of Southeast Asia, whenever the buildings are vacated the church must go in immediately to prevent squatters from occupying the property. Thus, funds for that purpose are held in New York to be sent on a moment's notice.

Pioneer work within the Burma Conference is carried on by Rev. and Mrs. T. Thangaraj on the Andaman Island. Mrs. Thangaraj is a well-trained nurse and as her husband carries on his work as district superintendent to this refugee group of Tamil Indians, she holds a clinic, supported by the Woman's Division.

One of the most hopeful aspects of the Protestant church in Burma, which numbers only about 400,000, is the Burma Christian Council. The government has recognized the Council as the voice of the Protestant group. Through sectional committees there is an increasing amount of cooperative programs as in literature, audio-visual work, and home and family life.

The Burma Christian Council has been given time every week over the Burma Broadcasting Service. These and other activities make an effective united witness to the gospel.

Malaya

An important period in the history of Malaya has been taking place. A new nation is being born. The formal ceremony by which Malaya is to become an independent nation took place in Kuala Lumpur August 31, 1957.

It is significant that in a country where Christians are only a small minority, three out of five members of the Independence Mission to negotiate the terms for independence were Christians. Two of the three Christians were active members in our Methodist Church.

The native Malay people are Muslim. Among the Chinese are those with Communist interests. Fifty per cent of the population in Malaya are under twenty years of age and this is at a time when conflicting forces are striving for the loyalty of a nation. What the future has for this land is difficult to know.

Schools in Malaya are turning away students every year. Many more Christian teachers are needed. Missionaries of the Woman's Division number slightly more than one half the number in our schools in 1954. The need for Christian personnel at this extremely important time cannot be overemphasized.

A new project of the Woman's Division was started in the heart of a housing area in Kuala Lumpur. It is a social center to care for the small children and to teach mothers how to improve their home life. This social center is closely related to a new church started in the area where it is reported that more than 75 per cent of the congregation each Sunday are young people.

With the birth of a new nation it may be even more important that Malaya have a strong Christian Council. As in Burma and other new nations, it can well be the voice for the Protestant church.

Outstanding in the program of the council has been the production of literature, the work in audio-visual evangelism, and a strong program among youth. Perhaps the largest project of the whole Malaya Christian Council has been the work in the New Villages. The following is an excerpt from a report of the New Village work.

The New Villages have grown out of the "emergency" in Malaya. Beginning in 1950, some 600,000 Chinese settlers were taken from the fringes of the jungle and resettled into villages as part of a military operation, a security measure designed to cut off the Communists operating in the jungle from their sources of food and information, and to give the Chinese protection from intimidation.

This operation, which began as a security measure, was soon seen to have great social and political problems, and also to offer a great opportunity. The churches began to take up this challenge in 1952, and over the past five years a forward movement has been under way bringing the threefold ministry of the gospel through medical, educational, and evangelistic work, to many who before had never heard the Christian message.

There are said to be some 580 New Villages in Malaya, varying in population from 800 to 16,000 people. The dominant dialects are Hokkien, Hakka, and Cantonese. The villagers live mostly by rubber tapping, tin mining, market gardening, and farming. Their general standard of living is low, though it varies a good deal according to the setting of the village in relation to rubber estate, tin mine, or other employment.

Young people are in the majority in the New Villages, as in the Federation as a whole, and youth work is therefore a key factor in the building of the church. There are difficulties stemming from the fact that young people tend to be in political camps, and not easy to contact with the gospel.

These churches now have about 180 resident workers, missionary and local, in some 90 villages, and about 170 voluntary workers in another 60 villages. It is estimated that the Roman Catholics and some small independent Christian groups cover a further 70 villages. Statistics gathered for 1955 show:

52 clinics in operation, monthly attendance over 14,000.

3 Chinese primary schools, with many afternoon and evening classes for adults.

2,600 children in Sunday schools.

147 adult baptisms, with a total membership of 750 adult members in the newly built churches.

The government encouraged missionary work at the beginning, as part of the program of rehabilitation and social betterment. Help has been given in making land available for churches, clinics, schools, and residences. There have been annual government grants through the Social Welfare Department for medical, social, and educational work in the form of grants for salaries. . . .

These grants have been renewed year by year, but with the coming of Malayan independence in August, 1957, with a Malay-dominated government, there is a strong probability that these grants will not be renewed for 1958. Some medical grants may continue, but there have been warnings already of a review of grants, and thus the churches' program supported from these funds is in jeopardy.

In the early days of the work in these New Villages, well-trained Chinese Christians were brought from Hong Kong to settle in these villages. Within the last year recruits have been sought among the Filipino doctors and nurses.

More than fifty years ago two American missionary families went from Malaya to the Philippines to open the Philippine Methodist Mission. Today Filipino Methodists are coming to Malaya to serve in this needy field. This is a part of our new vision in carrying out the world mission of the church by Christians everywhere.

Indonesia

News from Indonesia has been on the front pages of our newspapers within the past year. Last year it was the visit of President Sukarno to the United States. This year it has been the story of a rebellion where cultural groups from the very different islands have been in conflict.

Tied in to this unrest has been the acute social and economic problems of the land and the conflict of religious and ideological values. Within the heart of these disturbances is a small minority Christian group.

The Methodist Church has work only on the island of Sumatra. The Woman's Division is limited to an even smaller area around and in the city of Medan. The only two missionaries of the Woman's Division are due to come home on furlough this year. One new recruit is in the process of securing a visa and there is hope that she may enter Indonesia before one of the two must leave.

Miss Gusta Robinett outlines a bit of the work that has been carried on among the women and church people:

On Christmas Eve in Medan a new church will resound for the first time with the joyous singing of Batak Methodists. Chinese Methodists in Medan are also making plans for a new church and dream of celebrating Christmas, 1957, in surroundings where they will not be disturbed by the sound of honking buses and the noisy market and movie crowds of Djalan Hakka. The new Batak church at Kisaran is also looking forward to next year when it can summon its people to the Christmas service by the melodious ringing of a bell, a gift from the Methodists in Sweden, which is even now on the way.

But new lives—not new buildings and new bells—are our greatest cause for rejoicing. This Christmas there are many new Christians who will add their voices to those of the 13,000 Methodists in our more than seventy congregations as they sing their praises to God for His gift of the Savior. From one jungle church alone a young Batak pastor reports the baptism of fifty new converts in a single service. On World-wide Communion Sunday your reporter participated in a service where an entire Chinese family of six were received into the church on probation. On the previous day, at their request, the newly appointed woman pastor helped them to remove from their home the idols, charms, and every stick of incense belonging to the old superstitious religion.

In Medan a major school achievement of the year has been the completion of a new Chinese Methodist High School building. This three-story building, a project of the Woman's Division, was dedicated in July, and the first junior-high class of more than one hundred students began studies in it. Though already overloaded with pastoral and district responsibilities, Rev. Yap Un-Han still finds time to give his guiding leadership to this school. Regular chapel services, religious instruction for each class, a teacher's prayer and fellowship group, and a lively Sunday school of several hundred children are among the religious activities.

The prospect for still more workers for the church is good. Eight Chinese young people have already announced their purpose to train for this work; and in Kisaran the second training class for Batak workers has already started with twenty enrolled.

The Woman's Division rejoices that four of these students are girls who are on our scholarships. We hope that from this group may come the first full-time woman worker for the Batak Methodist Church in Sumatra.

Prapat—The Eastern Asia Christian Conference

Prapat, located on Lake Toba in the northern part of Sumatra, was the meeting place for eighty-five Asian leaders and world consultants. It was a continuation of plans initiated at Bangkok in March, 1957.

The theme of the conference was "The Unfinished Evangelistic Task of the Church in Asia." The objectives can be expressed in the preamble of the plan for future action:

"We who have gathered in Prapat represent a wide group of East Asian Churches. We have come from many Christian traditions and confessions found in fourteen countries of the region, and with us are brethren from churches in other areas of the world.

"We have gathered here to seek new insight and strength that will enable us to discern the movement of God's Spirit in the events of our time and to fulfill in Asia and the world God's purpose in our day and generation. Our common evangelistic task has been given to us by our common Lord, Who is Lord both of the world and of the Church. We would commit ourselves in common obedience and fellowship to the dynamic pursuit of this divine obedience.

"Already as a result of our meeting we have come more fully to realize that the churches in Asia are eager and ready to share in the world-wide task of Christian mission, particularly in the evangelistic task so insistently needed in our contemporary situation, and to engage in these tasks unitedly, convinced that 'we can do together what we cannot do separately.'"

Never before has such a group of outstanding Asian leaders met together for the concern of Asia within their own continent. Leaders from the Mar Thomas Church of South India with a history of more than 2,000 years, and a leader from Pakistan who twenty years ago was a Hindu lawyer found common understanding in the deeper things of the Christian message. This was in a setting of the Batak Church where 130 years ago there was not one Christian in the land. One impression expressed by those who attended was the Christian stature of the Asian leaders.

Looking to the Future

The future for the Christian church in Southeast Asia is hopeful, for Christ is our hope. We move forward not knowing what is in store but confident that God is working in the events of history. Much will depend on his followers to carry out His acts.

Department of Christian Social Relations

In this day of social and economic change we are challenged to give leadership and direction as we seek to find ways of developing more Christlike attitudes in dealing with the problems of concern to humanity. As we profess our belief in the fatherhood of God and the brotherhood of men, ever before us is the goal of a peaceful and dignified way of life for all mankind.

MRS. A. R. HENRY, Chairman

THELMA STEVENS
Executive Secretary, Christian Social Relations

TWELVE years have come and gone since the atomic bombs were dropped on the world. A new era in the history of mankind has been ushered in—an era that could mean a “new” world. This brief report is concerned with the new world in this “Year 12 of the Atom,” and with the Christian’s responsibility for what happens in it and to it.

MARGARET R. BENDER
Associate Secretary,
Christian Social Relations

This is also the first year of the fifth quadrennium in the life of The Methodist Church. It has been a year when the whole church has been looking with new concern at the local church. In keeping with this church-wide task the quadrennial theme and program of the Woman’s Division placed a major emphasis on the place and responsibility of the local woman in her local church in full recognition of the fact that “all action is local.” As a basic part of this emphasis the Department of Christian Social Relations has endeavored to focus new attention and greater effort on ways of “Understanding Our World in the Spirit of Christ.” These pages will attempt to summarize this phase of the program by giving special emphasis to the following: (1) The World We Live In and some issues that must concern Christians today; (2) activities of Methodist women during “Year 12 of the Atom” that have helped Christians to understand their world; and (3) the year ahead with its renewed call to Christians and Christian congregations to make their local churches “in every place a voice for those who have no voice and a home where every man will be at home.”

It is with great regret that the resignation of Miss Ethel L. Watkins was received effective September 1, 1957. This resignation was necessary because of illness in her family. She has served faithfully and well during the three years of her activity as a staff member of the Woman’s Division. She has endeared herself not only to her co-workers at 150 Fifth Avenue but also to a host of women throughout the church. We shall greatly miss her, but our love and prayers will follow her as she moves into new experiences and responsibilities in this fast-changing world.

The World We Live In—Today

For Christians committed to the task of helping to create a "responsible society" any stock taking of methods promoted or progress made must begin with a brief review of some of the issues in our changing world that have special significance for the foundation stones of a responsible society. The following issues may illustrate this need.

1. The rapid social change that is taking place throughout the world challenges Christians to a new sensitivity and responsibility for safeguarding the great spiritual values that may be lost as a result of the impact of such revolutionary changes on our cultures. In the new mechanized age there is grave danger that human dignity may be submerged as the world walks roughshod toward the achievement of man's scientific potential. A callousness to human life and suffering now found in a limited sphere of our globe may well spread into our own communities as we face the age of nuclear weapons and power, automation, and a self-centered isolationism in our own land.

2. Historical colonialism as the world has known it is all but dead. Twenty new nations in Asia and Africa have achieved political independence during the past ten years. Their voices are now heard through the United Nations and elsewhere in conjunction with the voices of other peoples of color throughout the world, in a great new assertion of human dignity and the recognition of basic freedom and equality as the rights of all people. This means that for the first time in recorded history the white man faces the inevitable fact that he is a minority whose age of domination and exploitation of peoples of color has ended. "God has put down the mighty from their seats and exalted the humble and meek." Literally "the old order changeth yielding place to the new."

3. The world seems often to be divided into three camps—the East (Russia and her "partners"), the West (U.S.A. and her "partners"), and the Asian-African group of new nations mostly representing peoples of color. It is into this triangle of philosophies that the fate of the world has been poured. Nuclear testing, disarmament, world trade policies, technical assistance, the Middle East crisis, colonialism in North Africa, and many other issues that demand world cooperation—all these must be discussed and in time resolved.

4. This past year has confronted our own nation with one great issue after another. We elected a President and a Congress of different political parties, with each party showing more concern for party prestige and power than for human welfare and world need. As a result our foreign policy reached a new low in the climate it created abroad and achieved little status at home! Party leaders in the House and Senate played football with Foreign Aid programs, Civil Rights, Housing, Organization for Trade Cooperation, the International Atoms for Peace Agency, and Federal Aid to Education. The first session of the Eighty-fifth Congress might well be characterized by (a) Isolation and (b) States' Rights. The result was a limited foreign aid program, and an inadequate civil rights law. It is noteworthy, however, that this Civil Rights Law of 1957, limited though it may be, was the first since Reconstruction Days.

5. The communities of our nation have been confronted with the imperative to move without delay toward the elimination of segregation from the life of the nation. New tensions with new responsibilities for Christians have become the issue of the hour.

6. Any glimpse of the world we live in must take special note of the great new trends and resources within the Christian church itself as it faces a rapidly shrinking and changing world. For the first time in history Christianity confronts the partially "new" world with some measure of unity. This new growing spirit of Christian unity (ecumenicity) may have within it the potential for a universal Christian faith that can win the allegiance of all men of all races to a new understanding and acceptance of Jesus Christ as Lord of all.

"Year 12 of The Atom"

Methodist Women at Work

The first year of this quadrennium has found Methodist women across the country at work on those issues and needs that relate to the Christian's responsibility for "Understanding Our World in the Spirit of Christ." This phase of the quadrennial program calls upon Methodist women to:

1. Seek to demonstrate the sincerity of her Christian beliefs by (a) building a fellowship without barriers in her local church; (b) securing justice and opportunity for all people in the community and nation.

2. Seek to broaden the horizons of her local church and community through new experiences of fellowship with people of other lands and cultures.

3. Seek to relate her local church and community to available channels for building world cooperation and understanding (a) through study of other peoples and cultures; (b) through support and use of the channels of the United Nations; (c) through the use of the resources for world understanding growing out of the long history of the missionary enterprise and the ecumenical church.

4. Seek to create through her local church and community an increased sensitivity to the needs of the world.

In the framework of this call to action the following summary of program emphases and progress reports may indicate the great potential of concern, understanding, skill, and courage of Methodist women at work:

I. Demonstrating Sincerity of Christian Beliefs

Personal commitment to the principles of Jesus Christ for the whole world results in—

(a) Work to build a fellowship without barriers in local church and community.

In January, 1957, the Woman's Division recommended that a "Check List on Racial Policies" be prepared to guide Methodist women as they take stock of progress in church and community. This Check List is related to the implementation of the Charter of Racial Policies. Check Lists from across the church, coming from all Woman's Societies and Guilds, will reach the office of this department in December of 1957. The findings will be compiled and made available in due time.

As of June 1, 1957, the Charter of Racial Policies had been ratified by all six jurisdictions and ninety conferences. Many districts and local units have ratified the Charter also, but no accurate check can be made until the Check Lists have been compiled.

The following excerpt from the May 31, 1957, report from the Kansas Conference illustrates what a great many women are doing: (a) "We feel we have made great strides in educating our women in race relations. . . . We work closely with the Conference Commission of Christian Social Relations and at our suggestion for further promotion of the Charter we were asked to make or write a resolution to be presented on the conference floor, which we did and it was adopted as follows:

The Conference Commission of Christian Social Relations requests that from this commission letters be sent to pastors of the local churches urging them to invite the local secretaries of Christian Social Relations to present to their official boards for ratification and implementation this same Charter of Racial Policies; and that directives for implementing these policies to follow this action be sent to local pastors, chairman of official boards, secretaries of Christian Social Relations, and presidents of the Woman's Societies of Christian Service by the conference chairman of the Commission of Christian Social Relations, using as a basis the findings of the Interracial Conference held in Kansas City the fall of 1956.

"We held sixteen World Understanding Workshops in the Kansas Conference with a total attendance of 790. One hundred thirty-six Societies were represented. More than two-thirds of the local Societies have ratified the Charter of Racial Policies as a result of these workshops. At our annual meeting time 220 had reported acceptance but a few have been added since then.

"We are planning an exchange with the Central West Conference for their School of Missions and ours.

"The Wesleyan Service Guild has made progress, too, in the matter of accepting the Charter of Racial Policies for immediately following its conference action each of the five districts accepted the Charter and forty-six local Guilds have ratified. We are all ready now for further study and work to be accomplished to create a fellowship without barriers in the local church, community, and our world. Several have asked what the next action should be."

Note the following from the Holston Conference: "The Clinton Memorial Methodist Church in Clinton, Tennessee, adopted the Charter of Racial Policies even in the midst of all the trouble concerning an integrated school system."

(b) Work for Justice and Opportunity—for All People.

Possibly the best illustrations of how this principle can be realized are concerned with legislation and community activities. In the legislative realm such matters as the following are important: revision of immigration laws, civil rights legislation, adequate housing, abolishing alcohol advertising, and federal aid to education.

The Christian's Primer on Human Rights and the leaflet on Human Rights entitled "What Does the Lord Require of You?" provide resources and suggestions for community-centered activities that relate to the local, national, or international realm of human rights.

During the past year the study "Youth In a Responsible Society—A Christian's Concern" has been a major influence in the activities of churches as they work to create a "climate" where youth can grow up as "responsible" citizens.

The following brief excerpts have come from reports during the past year:

North Carolina—"Great interest and vigorous work on the part of women and ministers influenced the passage of a bill prohibiting the sale of obscene literature and a bill to raise teachers' salaries. Women received acknowledgement from their senators for the Christian's Primer on Human Rights, and the assurance that both senators would read and study the publication."

South Carolina—"Programs on community needs resulted in community survey. Supported legislation for a stricter marriage bill; helped defeat effort to sell beer in filling stations; established community canteen as result of youth study; one group urged Duke University to admit Negro students."

Southern California-Arizona Conference—"One church invited the N.A.A.C.P.

to hold its meeting in the social hall and cooperated with N.A.A.C.P. in securing speaker on F.E.P.C. bill. Another church urged passage of bill prohibiting juveniles from crossing the Mexican border unless escorted by adults."

Tennessee Conference—"The Nashville School Board sponsored a workshop on Integration in Public Schools with speakers from cities that have been successful in their integration. This workshop was largely attended by our church women. Also we are planning a workshop for parents whose six-year-olds will enter the Nashville Public Schools integrated program in September, 1957."

Michigan Conference—"Our Society is cooperating with the Gratiot Migrant Committee in promoting the 'Harvester Program' for Mexican migrants in Gratiot County. There are approximately thirty-two families from Texas and 240 nationals (men only) from Mexico. . . . It is designed to help meet the needs of migrant parents and their children through worship, education, health, and recreation. It involves a Mobile Unit (a panel truck or station wagon—a car in our case) equipped with inexpensive educational equipment, staffed by two paid professional workers who are familiar with the Spanish language and culture, traveling from camp to camp throughout the community endeavoring to meet whatever need seems to predominate. General health education, child care and sanitation, recreational and social programs and projects are an integral part of this program as well as the formation of daily vacation church schools and other services. This work is strictly interdenominational and has been approved on the state level by all council-cooperating denominations. This is an eight-week project. There were seventy-five volunteer workers last year not counting all the people who made sandwiches, cakes, and coffee for the family nights and each noon at the Bible schools—one of which was located at Newark and the other at Beebe.

II. New Experiences of Fellowship

World Understanding Workshops have continued to be the "order of the day" in districts, subdistricts, and local communities across the nation. For the most part these workshops have followed the suggested plan for making the whole process a joint undertaking that included all racial groups in the geographical area covered. This principle is a "must" in places where Methodists of various races live. This workshop emphasis will continue throughout the quadrennium.

The following brief illustrations are only a few gleaned from many reports of new experiences in world understanding:

Baltimore Conference—"One society helped to pay passage back to India for an Indian student who, while attending Howard University, contributed much in rich fellowship to members of the Woman's Society."

Troy Conference—"Twelve refugee families were sponsored; many groups worked with foreign students; several workshops on World Understanding were held."

Peninsula Conference—"On March 5, 1957, the Dover District of the Peninsula Conference and Delaware Conference held their first Intercultural Workshop in Wesley Church, Dover, Delaware, with 105 women attending—about 35 white women and 70 Negro women. . . . A panel discussion was held on the subject 'Equal Freedom and Equal Access to Community Services.' After lunch the group divided into three discussion groups and talked about what the speaker had discussed and how we could promote the program in the local community. The findings were brought to the whole group. The main speaker was the Rev. H. Kirby Krams. His theme was 'All Persons Are Born Free and Equal.'"

Central Pennsylvania Conference—"On April 6, 1957, a district Workshop on World Understanding was held in Harrisburg. The workshop was an outgrowth of two planning meetings which undertook to carry out the purpose of the regional workshops held the previous year. The panel in the morning session had as a theme: 'You—Your Town and Your Church,' with the following emphases: employment and housing, education, good government, fellowship without barriers. In the afternoon, with the facts and information presented in the morning, we combined the methods, literature, and projects to actually have a 'Blueprint for Understanding.' A delightful Japanese student brought to us all the charm and culture of Japan—and already the blueprint to build understanding was made clear to us. A film, 'Of Human Rights,' was shown, and a session on what we can do when we go back to our own community closed the workshop."

Minnesota Conference—"The Workshops on World Understanding have surely borne fruit. Much has been accomplished in many areas since the women attended them. . . .

"We were allotted sixty refugees in Minnesota a year ago. We now have settled thirty families numbering eighty-five persons. I was proud to present this to the official board of my own church. It voted to send an assurance. My husband helped the man find work. The Woman's Society helped with the housing and had a furnished house ready. . . . The whole church is greatly blessed by this family of six persons."

North Iowa Conference—"Community Understanding' was one area of the World Understanding Workshop at Grace Methodist Church. The executive director of the Y.W.C.A. in Waterloo was assisted by two young women, one born in Germany, now an American citizen, and the other born in Japan but married to an American. They discussed the similarities of the problems of women the world over, their place in the home, and some of their customs. A representative of the Negro group in Waterloo told of their opportunities for education.

"South Marion, a rural church, reports a Workshop on World Understanding in which the whole church was invited to take part. The secretary makes this comment: 'As a secretary of Christian Social Relations, I found it one of the outstanding things done this year. We had a good attendance and I think everyone present found it to be very interesting as well as educational and entertaining.'

"World Community Day program of the United Church Women was held at the First Methodist Church, Mason City. There were twenty-five cooperating churches. Speaker was Dr. J. A. Curran of New York City, who had just returned from three months in the Philippines with the World Health Organization. More than 250 people attended.

"The secretary from Davenport served on a Hungarian Refugee Resettlement Committee and was personally responsible for securing homes for the forty-five Hungarians they rehabilitated in Davenport after jobs had been secured for them. She contacted most of the local churches to secure Protestant and Roman Catholic homes for them rather than just any rooms. Race Relations Sunday they had Protestant Hungarian refugees in church as a group. They had all forty-five refugees for a dinner that noon in spite of the fact thirty-five of them were Roman Catholic. They collected all kinds of clothing and supplies for them and the church collected more than $400 toward expense of bringing them here."

III. Working For World Cooperation and Understanding

During the past year the work of Methodist women in the area of "World Understanding" has pointed up with new significance for many the importance of the impact of the missionary enterprise on the political and social life of the people in many places throughout the world. It seems clear that the new upsurge toward freedom and greater economic security finds its roots in the Christian gospel, which recognizes the individual as of supreme worth in God's sight. This principle has indeed spread across the world and brought a new understanding of the spirit of Christ for all of life.

The principles of political independence and basic equality of races and nations and our peoples have given new urgency to world cooperation through all the channels at our disposal. The missionary enterprise itself faces new opportunities and responsibilities that challenge the churches to new insights and a greater sharing of resources to meet the world's needs.

Plans are now under way to project across the church a study based on the theme "Understanding Other Cultures" as a major factor in world cooperation and world peace. The text is being prepared by Dr. Ina Corinne Brown, professor of anthology at Scarritt College and Vanderbilt University in Nashville, Tennessee.

During this year the United Nations has become a greater channel for understanding between the peoples of the world than ever before. New members have swelled its roles until it now represents a real cross section of mankind with only a handful of divided countries and Switzerland remaining as potential members. Bitter disputes involving major members of the organization have brought harsher voices and greater tension than ever before to U.N. halls. New voices are now heard and heeded!

These events have brought with them new fears. France and Great Britain have become embittered by the swift judgment of the world on their intervention in Egypt and the failure of the world to be able to do anything about U.S.S.R.'s intervention in Hungary. The United Nations has been accused at the same time of being impotent in the face of world events and of being autocratic. Fearful men from the West have looked at the vote on several issues in the U.N. with apprehension. Would it not be wise to change the voting system so that the West could not be so easily outvoted by the new nations of Africa and Asia? Will the vast resources of these new countries soon enable them to assume their share of the responsibility that goes with voting? Are they too inexperienced for world responsibility or does the hope of a world where true democracy becomes the foundation of world peace require that they have the opportunity to learn through experience to take their places in the responsible conduct of world affairs?

The lack of understanding of the need for time and patience in resolving tensions and conflicts through the U.N. has caused impatience and disillusion among many citizens in our nation and elsewhere. These questions, these changing events have brought a great challenge to Methodist women in local churches across the nation. In the light of this problem, the present task of interpreting the work of the U.N. will require more information and ability than ever before.

This realization has increased the visits to the United Nations. Not only have more women planned to attend the regular scheduled seminars provided by the Department of Christian Social Relations but also more groups have planned visits to the U.N. Several groups that have already made one visit to the U.N. have asked the department to help them plan three-day seminars where their members can have time for real study and experiences that are impossible in brief visits.

To help with this, the department published on its pages in the 1957 July-August issue of THE METHODIST WOMAN a revision of the pamphlet "So You Are Going to the United Nations or Why Don't You?" This leaflet, issued in its original form in 1949, guided the footsteps of many Methodist women on the complicated trip to Lake Success and Flushing Meadow in the early days of the U.N.

The second resource that has been widely used is that of study groups. Using the materials published by the Woman's Division with special emphasis on the three Christian Primers, one on the U.N., one on Technical Assistance, and one on Human Rights, many groups have worked together for periods of weeks and gained a competency that has made them useful both in church and community programs. Methodist women have also worked diligently to see that the work of UNICEF received as much publicity as possible in their communities. In this connection hundreds of Trick or Treat UNICEF Halloween celebrations have been arranged and thousands of boxes of UNICEF Christmas cards have been sold. Also a number of secretaries of Christian Social Relations reported that they arranged for showings in their local theaters of the Danny Kaye movie about UNICEF, "Assignment Children."

United Nations Day and Human Rights Day have provided occasions when Methodist women have helped to plan programs with community participation resulting in better education about the United Nations and a growing feeling of brotherhood.

Work of this kind in various countries may be a uniting factor and help toward world understanding. The story of the U.N. flags sent to Japan by the Woman's Division illustrates this fact. As an expression of gratitude that Japan, after so much delay, was admitted to the United Nations in the fall of 1956, the flags were sent to Mrs. Kiyo Tanaka of Nagoya, Japan. She had been in the United States as a member of the World Understanding Team in 1955 when political maneuvers prevented Japan from being admitted at that session of the General Assembly. The flags were an important symbol of hope for a peaceful world in which all nations could live together in mutual tolerance and understanding.

Mrs. Tanaka shared the opening of the box of flags with her husband and friends. Newspaper reporters hearing of it came to take pictures and she and the flags were in demand at many meetings. Among the people who read about it was a young Japanese girl who resolved to try to do something to express her concern for peace. She came to Mrs. Tanaka's home to study the flags and produced a tapestry on which the flags surrounded a picture of the atomic explosion under the legend Nations Looking for World Peace. This tapestry has in turn attracted great attention in Japan and will be offered to the United Nations.

IV Increased Sensitivity to the World's Needs

Being sensitive to the needs of the world is an increasingly important and yet difficult assignment which Methodist women are accepting. It requires a sense of stewardship which takes the needs of others seriously. It faces both the necessity of seeking new methods of distribution that will prevent the waste of food and other resources in our "economy of abundance," and the possibility that relief of world want will call for some sacrifice of our high standard of living. They have also recognized that the day of bountiful giving to "dependents" in the world is past and that ways of partnership and mutual help must be found to take its place. Increasing study and interest have been centered on these long-range issues, while women have faced the fact that the sentiment of the nation as reflected in Congressional action seems to be changing. Testifying at the Congressional hearing on foreign aid on behalf of the Woman's Division, Mrs. Wallace N. Streeter expressed the deep conviction of many thousands of our Methodist women when she said: "An adequate program of foreign economic aid built upon basic human needs and hopes of peoples everywhere can do much to reassure the world and eliminate the fears of our motives. This is a program which the Woman's Division of Christian Service has supported since its beginning. Our concern for it springs from three sources: (1) our moral obligation toward other peoples; (2) interest in the welfare of our own nation, and (3) our desire for progress toward a world permanently at peace. . . .

"We look upon the possibilities of such foreign economic aid as assets for which we should be profoundly grateful. In the past, Christians with great concern for the fate of their brothers in less fortunate situations have looked in vain for large-scale remedies for the problems of ignorance, disease, poverty, and hunger. Today, this is no longer necessary. We have the means at hand to relieve the suffering. This clear, unlimited opportunity and moral obligation will become a heavy burden on our conscience if our nation fails to use every means to achieve this end."

These sentiments have been made known to Congressional representatives and undoubtedly played a part in keeping the cut in technical assistance funds to a minimum. Hardly had this legislation been passed when women were back at work, educating community leaders and sometimes whole communities on the importance of technical assistance in preparation for the coming year when the battle will be even more difficult.

Another important part of this task of finding ways to meet the world's needs which has been considered during the year is world trade. It is increasingly obvious that all the nations of the world need access to some raw materials and products which are produced more adequately somewhere else in the world and that consequently they also need markets where they can dispose of the things which they can produce more advantageously in their countries. This need for access to supplies and to markets where they can earn the currency needed for such purchases is particularly acute in the less developed countries. Interpreting this need for world trade is an important task, particularly as women prepare for the coming year when authorization for reciprocal trade agreements will need to be renewed and the long-delayed matter of the United States joining the Organization for Trade Cooperation will be crucial. To help in this task of making the importance of world trade apparent, the Woman's Division has published a pamphlet called "The Nations Go Shopping." Since this very readable leaflet uses Japan as an example of a nation's need for trade, secretaries of Christian Social Relations are finding it helpful to suggest this as resource material in connection with the study on Japan.

"In Every Place a Voice"

". . . We have to learn afresh to speak boldly in Christ's name both to those in power and to the people, to oppose terror, cruelty and race discrimination, to stand by the outcast, the prisoner, and the refugee. We have to make of the church in every place a voice for those who have no voice and a home where every man will be at home." (From the Amsterdam Message, 1948.)

The first "message" of the World Council of Churches placed grave and urgent responsibilities on "Christians and Christian congregations everywhere." During 1957-1958 the study theme, "The Social Witness of the Local Church in the Ecumenical Movement," based on this Amsterdam message, will be used in hundreds of local churches across the country. The title of the text itself, In Every Place a Voice, by Walter G. Muelder, indicates the purpose of such a study. The voice of Christians and the Christian church must be heard declaring with the boldness of Peter and John that Jesus Christ is Lord and that His message must be proclaimed "to those in power and to the people." In these days of warped consciences and fearful hearts the social application of the gospel of Jesus Christ is the great imperative if mankind is to live in a world of freedom and peace with justice and opportunity to grow into His likeness. "God holds his church accountable for its vocation and he will not spare this nation from the consequences of irresponsible policies into which the church may let the nation fall." (Muelder.)

As we look ahead our task looms big. The church must become "in every place a voice"—

1. Calling men to responsible citizenship where their votes and voices will influence the policies of our communities and nation.

2. Uprooting the alcohol culture pattern from the life of the church and community.

3. Building a fellowship without barriers in the life and work of the church itself and its community.

4. Creating a climate where greater understanding of the world's peoples can be achieved.

5. Interpreting the needs of the world in terms of responsible action of Christians through community, government, and the channels of the Christian church.

6. Supporting and using the channels of the United Nations for the realization of peace with justice and opportunity for all.

7. Affirming the Lordship of Christ in daily living as we seek to achieve the spirit of Christian unity in ours and every land, so that together under God Christians and Christian churches may learn to say "Yes" and "No" in truth.

The increase in income on appropriations for the year ending May 31, 1957, is $128,632.25 over income on appropriations for the year ending May 31, 1956, or a 1.53 per cent increase.

Expenditures on appropriations for the year ending May 31, 1957, including transfers to reserves for unexpended appropriations of amounts which cannot be disbursed currently because of prevailing conditions amounted to $7,521,934.68. Details of these expenditures and transfers are given on pages 166-167 of this annual report.

Because of the excess of income over expenditures for the year ending May 31, 1957, and for previous years, it has again been possible to vote from surplus a distribution of $600,000 to the three departments of the Woman's Division to be used for nonrecurring projects:

- $309,924 for the Department of Work in Foreign Fields
- 286,428 for the Department of Work in Home Fields
- 3,648 for the Department of Christian Social Relations

In addition to the income on appropriations in the General Fund, the Woman's Division received for the year June 1, 1956-May 31, 1957, in its Designated Temporary Funds $2,489,847.01 which includes the following amounts and which are given with the comparative amounts for the preceding year:

From Bequests	$ 352,596.64	$ 150,064.07
From Cash for Supply Work.	944,890.87	924,287.50
From Week of Prayer and Self-Denial Gifts.	532,467.70	515,582.83

NOTES TO THE COMPARATIVE BALANCE SHEET

1. The Division has followed the practice of accounting for funds, assets, and liabilities transferred by various uniting organizations, in accordance with the plan of unification of The Methodist Church, only when such funds and assets have been received by the Division. The permanent, restricted, and other funds and assets transferred by various uniting organizations to the Woman's Division on or before May 31, 1957 and 1956, respectively, have been included in the accompanying balance sheet on the basis of amounts and provisions approved by the Executive Committee of the Division. The date or time of the transfer of the remaining assets and liabilities has not been definitely determined.

Assets, liabilities, and income and expenses of certain operating units of the Woman's Division of Christian Service such as "The Literature Headquarters" and "THE METHODIST WOMAN" are not included in the accompanying financial statements. Such units operate independently and maintain separate records.

Furniture and fixtures at headquarters and the Division's substantial interests in certain Christian centers, missions, hospitals, and schools in the United States and foreign countries are included in the accompanying balance sheet at a nominal amount.

2. Investments in bonds, stocks, and mortgages are included in the accompanying balance sheet at amounts which represent cost or amounts assigned thereto by the Division at the time of acquisition. The Division, in accordance with its regular practice, does not accrue interest on its investments nor amortize premiums on bonds purchased. The market value of mortgages is not readily determinable.

3. Article IV, Section 45 of the Insurance Law of the State of New York requires the segregation of Annuity fund assets as separate and distinct from all other funds, which assets are not applicable to the payment of debts other than annuity benefits, together with the maintenance of prescribed minimum reserves for annuity contracts. On the basis of a calculation of the reserve as of December 31, 1956, submitted to the New York State Department of Insurance, the assets of the Annuity fund appear to be adequate to meet the reserve requirement.

4. Based upon actuarial studies made to determine the liability existing at May 31, 1953, under the various Pension funds of the Division, an annual contribution of $352,197 is necessary over a period of twenty-five years, together with the income from investments, to meet such unfunded liability and current service pension requirements. There was an excess of contributions required at May 31, 1957, of approximately $129,000 and $178,000 for Home and Foreign pensions, respectively.

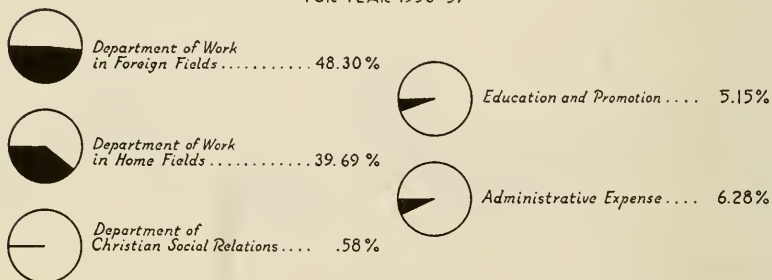

NOTES TO THE COMPARATIVE STATEMENT OF INCOME AND EXPENDITURES

1. In addition to the income shown above, designated and undesignated contributions, bequests, and other receipts, aggregating $3,315,765.12 and $3,274,310.98, were received during the fiscal years ended May 31, 1957 and 1956, respectively, and included in Designated Temporary funds.

2. It is the practice of the Division to allocate from the Opportunity fund to the Foreign, Home, and Christian Social Relations Departments the unexpended portions of their annual appropriations. Such unexpended balances and other allocations for the fiscal year ended May 31, 1957, are as follows:

	Totals	Unexpended Appropriations	Other Allocations

Section of Education and Cultivation

The Section of Education and Cultivation has the responsibility of implementing much of the purpose of the Woman's Society of Christian Service through organized study and training of officers. It is through the promotional activities of the Section that we reach the individual member of the Woman's Society and relate her to the program of work around the world.

—MRS. H. F. BRANDT, Chairman

Organization and Promotion

DORCAS HALL
Executive Secretary, Section of Education and Cultivation

THIS first year of the quadrennium—June 1, 1956, to May 31, 1957—shows a net increase of fourteen in the total number of Woman's Societies reported. There are 116,875 new members reported in Societies, and 361 new district members. With all this, however, other figures are less than a year ago. This is true for all but one jurisdiction. It raises the question as to whether the new report blanks have brought about a closer study of actual figures of membership, in which case we now have a more nearly accurate picture. This point needs constant careful study through the coming year.

MAUDE WHITE HARDIE
Assistant to the Executive Secretary

The theme and the seven goals for the quadrennium have been emphasized in various ways, and seem to be well received by the women. Each of the goals has been treated separately in issues of THE METHODIST WOMAN, and a diversity of approach has been attempted, including worship and meditation, editorial treatment, and informal messages to the individual woman readers. Monthly meeting and circle time is so fully planned that there is little opportunity for most Societies to use the material in THE METHODIST WOMAN at their meetings. The approach therefore to the individual woman seems important, and especially apt, since the Call in connection with the new goals is directed to every member of the Woman's Society of Christian Service and Wesleyan Service Guild.

There has possibly been more emphasis on the local church than on any of the other goals; partly because this is one of the emphases of the total church program, partly because every Methodist woman is first of all a local churchwoman.

An effort has been made to help Societies evaluate their work in making a report on it, rather than merely tabulating statistical results. To this end, evaluation has been stressed on the check-sheet for all Societies, and suggestions on how to evaluate, given in THE METHODIST WOMAN. So far as reporting goes, it is too soon to evaluate the simplified report blanks, with the system of starred questions for smaller Societies, and the three reporting dates instead of four, during the year. The latter seems to have met with general favor.

Inquiries about Local Church Activities are constantly received. The change in structure made at the 1956 General Conference, placing Local Church Activities under a chairman of its own, with a committee, and including the report locally on the secretary of Promotion's report blank, seems to have quickened interest, if anything, in this line of work. Attempts have been made through articles in THE METHODIST WOMAN to help the women evaluate such activities, and to measure them by standards other than mere money raising. Fellowship has been the value chiefly stressed; and there are indications that this is becoming the chief criterion in many cases.

Officers' Training continues to be an important emphasis. With thousands of new officers yearly, and especially at the start of a new quadrennium, there is need for basic training for new workers. More will be said of this in connection with the plan for Regional Workshops.

Presenting the course of study on the Work of the Woman's Society of Christian Service and the Wesleyan Service Guild in the program of Methodist Theological Schools continues to be important. It becomes increasingly so with the emphasis being placed on the local church; for pastor and Woman's Society need close cooperation to obtain the best results. Using various plans, this course was mapped out at Gammon Theological Seminary, Atlanta, Georgia, and at Asbury College, Wilmore, Kentucky (for the first time), with Mrs. Arrington representing the Woman's Division; at Iliff School of Theology, Denver, Colorado, by Mrs. Bartlett; at Perkins School of Theology, Dallas, Texas, by Miss Mary Floyd; and at Duke University, Durham, North Carolina; University of Southern California, Los Angeles; and Westminster Theological Seminary, Westminster, Maryland.

The major project for the year has been the planning of a series of Regional Workshops on Promotion. Ten of these are planned for the fall of 1957, to be held in centrally located cities. All six jurisdictions cooperate in these Workshops, but they are set up on regional, not jurisdiction, lines. The Workshops are planned with the following specific purposes in view:

1. To refresh leaders in the Woman's Society in the work and purpose of the Woman's Society.
2. To further understanding of human relations problems in the program of the Woman's Society.
3. To develop insight into the potentialities and problems of leadership in the Woman's Society.
4. To provide an opportunity to practice some skills of working with others.
5. To provide opportunity to plan for using these learnings in the local church.

Emphasis will be laid, in the Workshops, on both content and approach. Methods of developing good group relationships will be explored, and applied to the work of the Woman's Society of Christian Service.

From September 4-8 at National College for Christian Workers, Kansas City, Missouri, a training workshop for leaders will be held. Among those attending will be the six jurisdiction presidents who will serve as resource persons, but will not be expected to be among the leaders at all the Regionals. Those who are coming for training and are committed to serve in the workshops as leaders, will be the secretaries of Promotion and three key women from each of the six jurisdictions, some members of the Woman's Division, and some staff workers, among whom will be the field workers. These leaders will then conduct the first Workshop, which will serve as a laboratory experience for them.

At the ten Regionals, those attending from each conference will be: the conference president, vice-president, secretary of Promotion, secretary of Wesleyan Service Guild. It is hoped that some district superintendents will also be present.

After the Regional Workshops, the conferences will set up Workshops for districts and subdistricts, following the same pattern of attendance.

Paths of service this year have been many, but all have been directed toward the central purpose of furthering the spirit of Christ in all of life.

Missionary Education

ANOTHER year of work and service has brought to members of the Woman's Society of Christian Service increased understanding of the needs of the world far and near and how to meet some of those needs, both material and spiritual. The statistical tables below will give the reader some idea, so far as study is concerned, of the extent of the work carried out during 1956-1957.

Ways of acquainting one with the benediction which the fellowship, study and service have brought to thousands throughout the country seem to be lacking. Fortunately many who study the tabulations have been leaders or participants in the program.

Wesleyan Service Guild

LILLIAN A. JOHNSON
Service Guild

WE thank Thee, Lord, Thy paths of service lead—." The song was sung by a Guild member at the commissioning service for missionaries and deaconesses at the Annual Meeting of the Board of Missions in 1956. The path of service led to India for this particular Guild member, where she is now acting surgeon at Holston Hospital. Paths of service are leading outward for the fourteen members of the Guild who were commissioned at the 1957 Commissioning Service, and for other Guild members commissioned in their own churches during the year. There are paths of service for all Guild members as their prayers, their gifts of money, and their efforts go into the work of the Woman's Division of Christian Service around the world. In a myriad of ways these paths lead to places where help is most needed. This is the work of the Wesleyan Service Guild—to reach out to others, far and near, with the Good News of God's love and of redemption through Christ.

Spiritual Life Enrichment

On the Annual Report of the secretary of Promotion, one item is, "Have you sent to the Guild office a description of the most outstanding activity of the year?" The letters that have come in response to this question show the types of programs that seem most important to Guild members. Many Guilds considered their study courses as most outstanding, especially Southeast Asia and Paul's Letters to Local Churches. In larger communities, some of these were held on a city-wide basis, and this seemed to be one of the attractive features. Other letters told of Lenten Communion Breakfasts, which are being encouraged in the Guild.

Here is an excerpt from one of these letters:

"I would say that the most outstanding activity of our Guild for this year was in being hostess to a Lenten Breakfast which was held at our church on a Sunday morning during the Lenten season, and to which all Guilds of the city were invited. The service began in the church sanctuary at 8 a.m. with representatives from various Guilds participating in the program. There was a worship service, culminating in Holy Communion. Breakfast was served in the Fellowship Hall, and we adjourned in time for the members to attend church school classes in their respective churches."

Other activities most frequently mentioned under the heading of Spiritual Life on the report blanks were: use of the Prayer Calendar, Fellowship of Intercession Cards and Spiritual Life Packets; observance of Week of Prayer and World Day of Prayer; prayer groups, especially just preceding Guild meetings; and prayer partners. Several conferences reported Weekend Retreats, and some retreats were held by district groups. There are indications of an increasing interest in the idea of Religious Book Clubs within Guild units, and the sponsoring of Spiritual Life Book Shelves, either for the Guild unit or for the entire church. Many Guilds are distributing devotional materials in hospitals and homes.

Missionary Education and Service

Reports showed a total of 5,486 study courses completed during the year, with 55,424 members studying. The Guild personalizes for its members the work of the Woman's Division by having "Special Interests" within the Woman's Division projects. This quadrennium the emphasis is on Residence Halls and Educational Institutions in Home Fields, and on Public Health, Nursing Education and Socio-Religious Centers in Foreign Fields. The Guild pages of THE METHODIST WOMAN have carried articles on the Special Interests almost every month. Letters from workers in the Special Interests are sent from the Guild office to those who request such material to use in preparation for programs, especially in district and conference meetings. There has been an increased interest in Crusade Scholars and other nationals studying in this country. Many of these students are employed professional women, and the Guild affords them an opportunity to meet with those of like interests.

The use of missionaries and deaconesses in Guild Weekends and other meetings is helping greatly in the recruitment of Guild members for work in institutions of the Woman's Division and in interesting mature, employed women in becoming deaconesses and missionaries. The work of Miss Anita Harris has also been a factor in bringing about an awareness of missionary personnel needs.

Christian Social Relations

Emphasis on the United Nations was reported quite generally. Some Guilds had speakers, some had study groups, others visited the United Nations headquarters, and many observed United Nations Day. A number sponsored UNICEF "Trick or Treat" Halloween parties. A good portion of the units reported participation in Citizenship Branches and continued work on the Workshops on World Understanding. Most conferences are urging local units to study the Charter of Racial Policies, and the conferences where the charter has not been brought up for vote are being urged to take action as soon as possible. The new report blanks seem to have helped local Guilds understand the scope of the Christian Social Relations program more fully than ever before, but there are still all too many Guilds where there is little evidence of any real grasp of the work to be done in this area. It is thought that one of the reasons for this is that there is no clear channel for working in the Guild such as there is in the Woman's Society. Where there are conference and district chairmen of Christian Social Relations who work closely with the secretaries of Christian Social Relations of the Woman's Society, good results are noticeable. These chairmen should not be conference or district secretaries so that they have double offices. They cannot possibly carry through on lines of work if they are also conference or district secretaries, since in the Guild, the jurisdiction, conference, and district secretaries have duties comparable to those of president, vice-president, and secretary of Promotion.

Status of Women

The Service Activity cards are being filled out by a majority of the units, but some reported that the cards were not being used to good advantage after being filled out. This is evidently an area where more promotion needs to be done. Other activities such as these were reported: support of legislation for the betterment of status of women; distribution of literature on lawmaking and the importance of women exercising the right to vote; cooperation with the Woman's Society and United Church Women in support of better status for women.

Literature and Publications

Eighty-eight per cent of the units reporting were using the Program Book and Worship Booklet. Readers of THE METHODIST WOMAN numbered 26,537, and of WORLD OUTLOOK, 16,482. It is recognized, however, that this report is incomplete.

Giving

The total giving on appropriations for the year was $746,842.60, an increase of 2.6 per cent over last year's giving. Giving on appropriations by jurisdictions was as follows:

Northeastern—	$ 54,409.60	North Central—	133,810.43
Southeastern—	280,421.67	South Central—	219,327.36
Central—	7,015.42	Western—	51,858.12

The per capita giving on appropriations alone was $5.76, and on giving sent to the Woman's Division for appropriations, Supply Work, and supplementary, the per capita was $6.76.

Other statistics in giving are as follows: Cash for Supply, $91,363.23; Magazine and Picture Fund, $3,860.05; Supplementary, $34,287.81. Through the Magazine and Picture Fund, the Guild sends the International Journal of Religious Education to missionaries and deaconesses. This year, the standing Committee of the Wesleyan Service Guild voted to give a sum each year toward the Library Service Fund.

Membership

There was a "paper" loss in membership this year in the Guild, due to the fact that the system of reporting has been changed, resulting in a clearing of the membership rolls twice during the year instead of once. This, however, does not indicate an actual drop in membership. There were 16,517 new members this year. There were 2,074 transferred to the Woman's Society which, of course, was not a loss in total membership of the Woman's Society and Guild. There were 328 new units, with a net gain in units of 99. Here, again, the Guild suffered in figures because of double clearing of rolls. There are at present 5,472 units, and 129,598 members, including 115 district members.

Standing Committee

The new standing Committee of the Wesleyan Service Guild met for the first time in January in connection with the Annual Meeting of the Woman's Division. The women on the standing committee have had valuable experience in areas which make them especially fitted to work on this committee. Since the January meeting, two new jurisdiction secretaries have been elected.

Continuing in Paths of Service

This year the emphasis of the Guild is on membership. This is not a mere effort to swell the rolls. It is based on an earnest ambition to reach the unreached and to extend opportunities for Christian service as offered by the Guild.

Field Cultivation

HARRIET SEIBERT
Secretary of Field Cultivation

THE sessions of the World Federation of Methodist Women at Lake Junaluska, North Carolina, in August, 1956, brought distinguished visitors to the United States from various parts of the world. They participated in jurisdiction and conference schools, in youth institutes, in local church and district meetings of the Woman's Society of Christian Service and Wesleyan Service Guild. They were highly praised for their inspiring and informative addresses. Loving ties of friendship were formed which have continued long after the return of these delegates to their own lands. Those for whom the longest itineraries were planned were Mrs. Anita Araya from Chile; Mrs. Ottilia de O. Chaves from Brazil; Miss Florence Chen from Taiwan; Miss Saturnina Lara and Mrs. Jose Valencia from the Philippines; and Mrs. Signe Nyquist from Finland.

Missionaries, deaconesses, field workers, and other staff and board members have continued to be most effective messengers in telling the story of our worldwide program in the Woman's Division of Christian Service. As usual, most requests have come for speakers who could highlight the special approved studies of the year—in this case, "Southeast Asia" and "Mission Field: U.S.A."

Miss Mary Searcy, assigned to this office by the Department of Work in Foreign Fields, before her return to Japan in the fall of 1956, taught the foreign missions study course in five conference Schools of Missions and Christian Service.

All three field workers of the Woman's Division have also served in jurisdiction and conference schools and Wesleyan Service Guild Weekends, giving added assistance in organizational problems through workshops and clinics. Mrs. Landrum's summer assignments in 1956 included two jurisdiction schools and eight conference schools. At the World Federation of Methodist Women she was co-leader with Mrs. Valencia in the workshop on Organization and Promotion. During the fall Mrs. Landrum itinerated in four conferences of North Central Jurisdiction and in the spring of 1957 fulfilled engagements in Southwest Texas, Central Texas, and Indian Mission Conferences.

Miss Theresa Hoover taught in six conference schools and Guild Weekends. She also led the workshop on World Christian Community at two Student Regional Leadership Conferences—at Lake Tahoe, California, and Camp Magruder, Oregon. In the fall of 1956 she itinerated in four conferences of Central Jurisdiction. In early February, she participated in the Central Jurisdiction Woman's Society of Christian Service annual meeting with lengthy itineration following in three conferences in Central Jurisdiction and four in North Central Jurisdiction.

Miss E. Louise Nichols conducted classes and workshops in ten schools and six Guild Weekends during the summer period of 1956. In the fall she had assignments in four conferences of three jurisdictions. During March, April, and May she completed day-by-day itineration in five conferences of Western Jurisdiction.

We are grateful to all—missionaries, board members and conference officers—who have substituted for field workers in "emergency" situations during the past year. Special appreciation is due to Miss Ruth Pope who with the permission of the Department of Work in Home Fields on very short notice took the heavy schedule of speaking engagements planned for Miss Nichols in the two California conferences in January and February.

Visual Education

ELIZABETH MARCHANT
Secretary of Visual Education

A MAJOR step forward in developing leadership and increased interest in the use of audio-visual materials in the Woman's Society program was the plan to include a Drama and Audio-Visual Workshop in all jurisdiction and conference Schools of Missions and Christian Service for the first time in the summer of 1957. As the summer school season approached, special effort went into an outline for the course and preparation of materials to assist in the teaching of this workshop.

Greater cooperation of Woman's Society leaders with annual conference Television, Radio, and Film Commissions has been evidenced throughout this year. This trend can mean a strengthening of the whole church mission program, and was one of the objectives in developing an audio-visual leadership-training program for Woman's Society members.

Productions

Additional prints of the Woman's Division film "Heart of the Neighborhood" (photographed at Marcy Center and released in May, 1956) were added to the film libraries in anticipation of wide use of the film with the study "Christ, the Church, and Race." In April "Heart of the Neighborhood" received a Silver Reel Award in the category "Citizenship and Government" at the Golden Reel Film Festival of the American Film Assembly in New York.

For showing at the Annual Meeting a short, newsreel-type film report was prepared, titled "Goals to Go," to illustrate the new goals for the quadrennium.

An important occasion in March was the Conference on Missions at Buck Hill Falls, where audio-visuals were integrated into the program, and two new J.C.M.E. films were given specially-arranged previews.

In the spring, work was completed on three color filmstrips with reading scripts for use with the 1957-1958 studies. These filmstrips were "Assignment in Unity"; "Seiwa, School for Service"; and "Within These Gates."

Work progressed on a half-hour color film showing Woman's Division work in Korea, titled "Korean Caravan."

Materials also in production are a filmstrip on the work of the Home Department, a film on the Belgian Congo in cooperation with the General Section, and a filmstrip for the Wesleyan Service Guild.

The Woman's Division contributed to the production cost and the planning of the rural film, "None Goes His Way Alone," which was produced this year and premiered on June 23 in Warrensburg, Missouri. This film was sponsored by the Board of Missions, the Board of Education Division of the Local Church, and the Board of Evangelism, and produced by Television, Radio, and Film Commission.

Interdenominational mission films to which the Woman's Division contributed in planning and financial support were "The Broken Mask" for the study on "Christ, the Church, and Race," and "Younger Brother" for the Japan study.

The secretary was a member of the Audio-Visual Subcommittee of the Committee on Cooperation in Latin America as a Woman's Division representative, and a member of the consultative staff of the Television, Radio, and Film Commission.

The secretary of Visual Education represented the Woman's Division at the Thirteenth International Audio-Visual Workshop of the Division of Christian Education, which was held at the University of Southern California in August, 1956.

Paths of Service

THE secretary of Student Work has been and will continue to be concerned about the spirit of Christ for all of life, especially the mind of Christ. Students on the campus are confronted with many religions which challenge their faith. The mind of Christ must become real in their experience so they may understand the gospel, that God was in Jesus Christ, reconciling the world to Himself, and carry this into paths of service.

The Life and Mission of the Church

The World's Student Christian Federation, which embraces the student movements in more than fifty countries of the world, has launched a very significant three-year program on the theme "The Life and Mission of the Church." Last April the executive committee discussed these plans at the Ecumenical Institute near Geneva, Switzerland. The secretary of Student Work of the Woman's Division represented The Methodist Church of the United States at this meeting.

The World's Student Christian Federation calls itself a "missionary movement in the most strategic area of the world—the university." Before voting on this proposition, the following three questions were asked in the spirit of silent prayer:

1. Are we responsible for proclaiming a message of the gospel to the world?
2. Is God giving us a chance to repair the damage of failing to act in the past as individuals and as a movement?
3. Can we accept seriously that God is with us and will use us for His purpose?

The United Student Christian Council in this country has picked up the challenge of the World's Student Christian Federation and will be implementing this program through the various denominations. The Methodist Church has a great responsibility to respond, recognizing that students are often pioneers in many forward movements of the church.

March of Missions Student Program

The November program of the March of Missions is devoted to "The Mind That Was in Christ," and helps interpret the Student Work. Local secretaries of Student Work will help each Society to understand better this phase of our concern.

A map of the Methodist Student Fellowship Fund illustrates the missionary giving of students to the Fellow American (home) project and to the Fellow College (overseas) project. It may be used for this program and can be given to a Student Center to encourage its missionary giving.

Turnover Chart on Student Work

Recognizing the key position of the district secretary of Student Work, the standing committee of the Woman's Division asked for a Turnover Chart of Student Work to be sent to each district and conference secretary. This was an expensive piece of literature and we hope that it will be passed on to each incoming district and conference secretary of Student Work. It has been found helpful and many have expressed appreciation for its use on Officers' Training Day. It helps the local secretary of Student Work to understand her responsibility for all the young people from the local church who leave for college, go in the armed services of their country, or go to another community to work. No one else in the local church has this responsibility.

Youth Work

Secretary of Youth Work

A DESIRE to serve is characteristic of Christian youth. At the time of unification youth and adult leaders worked together in deciding upon the name, motto, covenant, and benediction of "the new Methodist Youth Fellowship." One purpose, as stated in the covenant, reads: "to hold the ideals of unselfish service ever before us, striving continually for human betterment." The purpose of Christian Outreach in the MYF program is to help youth know and accept their responsibility in the world-wide mission of the church.

Mission Study—Missionary education is an integral part of the total program of Christian education. Each year missionary units are included in the curriculum for Sunday morning and Sunday evening sessions of the MYF. These units are related to the current study themes which for this year were "Southeast Asia" and "Mission Field: U.S.A." Mission study in the church school helps young people gain a new insight into the work of Methodist missions around the world.

The unified program provides for interested girls (senior and older youth) to meet in a special mission study group known as a World Friendship Group of Girls, to become better acquainted with the work of the Woman's Division of Christian Service. Each year program materials, also related to the current themes, are prepared for them. "Bridges to Understanding" was the title for 1956-57.

Giving—Through the Methodist Youth Fund youth share in a program of missions, Christian education, and youth work around the world. MYFund receipts for the year closing May 31, 1957, were $689,891.01. This figure indicates a wholesome increase. Youth contribute regularly to World Service through the offering received at the Sunday morning service of worship and on World Service Sunday in the church school. Methodist youth indicate their concern for needy peoples by sending contributions, "with no strings attached," to the Methodist Committee for Overseas Relief.

Work Camps—The Youth Department of the General Board of Education and the Woman's Division of Christian Service jointly sponsor the National Methodist Senior High Work Camp program. This year work camps were carried on at Navajo Methodist Mission School, Farmington, New Mexico; Wesley Community House, Louisville, Kentucky; Houchen Settlement, El Paso, Texas; and Mothers' Jewels Home, York, Nebraska.

Adult Leadership—There is a constant effort to recruit and train mature Christians to work with youth. The secretary of Youth Work on every level often serves as adult adviser in Christian Outreach. She is a member of the Fellowship of Adult Workers With Youth. Last fall the jurisdiction secretaries of Youth Work participated in the meetings sponsored by the Youth Department for the training of conference directors of youth work.

Self-Study—In line with the self-study called for by the General Conference, each local MYF group is asked to look at itself. A guide to help in this study has been widely circulated.

A Common Task—Missionary education of youth is a cooperative enterprise. Progress and accomplishments are due to the fine leadership of youth, adult workers, secretaries of Youth Work, directors of youth work, and the staff of the Youth Department of the General Board of Education.

Children's Work

(MISS RUBY VAN HOOSER, secretary of Children's Work, died on May 20, 1957)

THIS year has been a busy year and a fruitful one for secretaries of Children's Work and for all teachers of children as they have tried to bring "The Spirit of Christ for All of Life" through the entire program of missionary education of children for boys and girls in The Methodist Church.

The Interboard Committee on Missionary Education, representing the Board of Education and the Board of Missions, including the Woman's Division of Christian Service, has worked throughout the year to follow the basic principles of education which will enable children to grow in knowledge of the world around them and their place in it. As secretaries of Children's Work have participated in the local church, as members of the Council of Children's Workers, and as teachers and workers with children, they have gained greater understanding of the educational program of the church. It is through this cooperation that the "whole" child is reached and the whole church is benefited.

The study of "Southeast Asia," and "Mission Field: U.S.A." presented many thrilling opportunities for boys and girls to discover ways in which the church is fulfilling some of its mission at home and abroad. The two units, "The Philippines," and "Migrants," have helped to pinpoint the emphases for 1956-1957.

Reports from secretaries of Children's Work tell of the many ways in which children have participated in the missionary study, and how they have reached out to others with their gifts and offerings. These reports have also indicated an increase in the number of churches using Methodist materials, and in the number of additional sessions that have been held for boys and girls during the year. Missionary education has been a major emphasis of these Additional Sessions.

New methods and procedures for channeling and recording the Children's Service Fund became effective in October, 1956. All offerings taken at the Additional Sessions are now channeled through the treasurer of the annual conference: fifty per cent is sent to the conference treasurer of the Woman's Society of Christian Service; fifty per cent is credited to the account of World Service and Conference Benevolences.

The training of children's workers has been of primary importance this year. Secretaries of Children's Work have been encouraged to attend laboratory schools, district and conference leadership schools, and other training institutes. Jurisdiction secretaries of Children's Work have used many hours to plan for the Jurisdiction Schools of Missions for the summer, 1957, when the conference secretaries would hold their clinics on Children's Work.

Many things have been accomplished this year, and much has been left undone. It is only as we re-focus our sights to take in the changes of our fast moving world that we can be prepared to meet some of the needs of the growing child of today as we seek to give him a broader view of his Father's world through missionary education.

Miss Mona Kewish was acting secretary of Children's Work from June to September when she was elected to that office.

NEW GOALS—June 1, 1956, ushered in the new literature year of the Woman's Division of Christian Service, bringing its own special blessings. The 1956 General Conference had just adjourned, having set new goals for the next quadrennium. The paths of service leading to these goals will be blazed and trod by almost innumerable responsible groups. The 1957-1958 monthly programs (in English and Spanish) of Woman's Societies of Christian Service and Wesleyan Service Guilds had been so planned before the 1956 General Conference that they should offer both a backward view of accomplishments since 1940 and a forward view of challenging goals for the future. This backward glance was to give inspiration for clearing broader paths of service in the years ahead.

New Literature—During the past year this office also worked on three pamphlets, two of which were planned for use as supplementary materials for the home and foreign studies. These are Opening Christian Gateways in Japan (pictorial) and Actions Speak Louder (pictures included), which tell the effort of the Woman's Division to help make Christian all race relationships. The third pamphlet, A Mile Ahead—Secondary Schools and Colleges (pictorial), should help support the General Conference emphasis on higher education. Also edited during the past literature year were manuscripts for leaflets on Deaconess Work, city community centers in Korea, four rural centers in Japan, and health and medical work in Africa. Users of the Prayer Calendar will be interested to know that the 1958 edition will be in process of including all the principal projects of the entire Board of Missions and all its commissioned workers.

The Office Personnel—Mrs. Pauline Garvin, who joined our office staff in February, 1956, as a part-time editorial assistant, having worked previously with us on a temporary basis, left us April 30, 1957, in order to give more time to her family. She brought to her job an unusual devotion to the work and a gift with words, as well as a knowledge of Spanish, a great asset in our editing of the programs in Spanish. Her gentle spirit was a blessing to us.

Also serving part time the past year as an editorial assistant was Mrs. Kent Hawley, perhaps better known to Woman's Society and Guild members as Earlene Hamel, who before she married, was a short-term worker in the Philippines. Although Mrs. Hawley left her efficient touch upon all the publications of the past year, she carried special responsibility for the Korea leaflet and the pamphlet, Actions Speak Louder. Throughout her stay with us, Mrs. Hawley gave devoted and untiring attention to the programs.

Miss Mary Devolder, now Mrs. Charlie Billings, came into the office of the editor of Literature in September, 1955, to serve as secretary. Although her term of service was short, she made a remarkable contribution to the work, for she has unusual gifts of mind, spirit, and personality. Mrs. Lillian Schneider, trained at Hunter College and Columbia University, succeeded Miss Devolder as secretary. Her beautiful typing of all our manuscripts, preparatory for printing, is a work of art.

Mr. Robert Schwing, staff artist for the Woman's Division, made many of the attractive 1956-1957 cover pictures, sketches, and maps.

Spiritual Life and Missionary Education Literature

FRANCES EHELMAN
Associate Editor of Literature

NO WORK published during the year under the auspices of the Woman's Division of Christian Service could more aptly illustrate the theme "Paths of Service" than Disciples to Such a Lord, a study of the Gospel of St. Mark, by Dr. Albert E. Barnett. This text for the approved Spiritual Life study probes deeply into the nature of the messiahship of Jesus and gives equal emphasis to the duties of cross-bearing, service, and sacrifice which necessarily devolve on all who profess and call themselves disciples of the Lord.

The accompanying Guide by Sue Pruitt Alexander underlines these themes, and the playlet, One By One, by Betsy Wolfe illustrates with dramatic force the problems which Christians today must face and solve if they are to be instrumental in establishing Christ's kingdom on earth.

My Heart an Altar, and Thy Love the Flame, a Service of Intercession based on the goals of this quadrennium by Maude White Hardie, brings inspiration to those who would follow in the Master's steps through total commitment to His way and service.

An entirely new version of the booklet, Understanding My Bible, prepared by Charley May Cunningham, suggests ways in which the reader may keep constantly and vitally in touch with the source from which Christians in every age have sought and found the renewal of inspiration and spiritual power for the continuance of the work of the Church in the world.

A new Christian Stewardship card brings to our membership fresh reminders that if the ever-continuing crusade for the establishment of the Kingdom is to succeed, it must command the wholehearted consecration of the time, talent, and treasure of every loyal churchwoman.

A new Fellowship of Intercession Card calls all Woman's Society members to unite in daily intercession for individual strength and for the great objectives of the church.

THE WEEK OF PRAYER AND SELF-DENIAL PACKET contains a POSTER, an OFFERING ENVELOPE, a Worship Service for the Program Meeting, a Meditation and Service for the Quiet Day, a PRAYER CARD for use each day of the week and the Leader's Handbook. Here paths of service are clearly defined, and ways and means for renewal through prayer and sharing with others are made explicit.

THE SPIRITUAL LIFE PACKET includes a newly-revised Bibliography of Spiritual Life Literature containing a wide range of the titles of many recently published devotional books, pamphlets, and prayer cards selected with a view to bringing stabilizing power to the reader in all the vicissitudes of life and strength and courage for triumphant Christian experience.

The Missionary Education leaflet, Study and Action for 1957-1958, suggests action to follow the four approved study courses, and lists the assignments of projects to receive gifts following study. Newly-revised pamphlets include Questions and Answers on Missionary Education and Ways of Conducting Study Classes.

The fine contribution by Mrs. Maud H. Lynch, editorial assistant, has added to the value of each publication and is sincerely appreciated.

McCONNELL
Editor of World Outlook

THE first year after General Conference is usually a testing year for any part of the work. This past year was peculiarly a trial year for WORLD OUTLOOK. The establishment of a family paper in the local church could have cut into circulation of WORLD OUTLOOK quite drastically. There were many fears as we started the year. These fears have not been realized. A most successful drive for combination orders of WORLD OUTLOOK and THE METHODIST WOMAN has just been completed by the circulation manager and secretary of Literature, Mrs. C. C. Long. There seems to be an appreciation of the strictly missionary paper.

During the past year WORLD OUTLOOK ran its special Board of Missions number, which has been useful, particularly to the General Section of the Board. The Woman's Societies are using this issue as advertisement for WORLD OUTLOOK. We have had our usual supplements, both in pictures and in stories, on the missionary themes for the year. The article which has received the most attention is one on the lay participation in the church, "The Role of the Laity in the Church," by André de Robert, which appeared in the April, 1957, issue. The second article to get nation-wide response was—"The Church and Juvenile Delinquency" by Benjamin Fine of The New York Times in the November, 1956, issue. The issues which received the most acclaim were December, 1956, and January, 1957.

This first year of the quadrennium WORLD OUTLOOK has charted its course. One new member, Miss Amy Lee, has been added to the office staff. She will have a responsibility for visiting home missions institutions and gathering articles and pictures. WORLD OUTLOOK has always had difficulty in getting enough material on the home mission phase of the work. Miss Lee and Miss Elizabeth Watson, editorial assistant, make a fine writing team, and the magazine has profited thereby.

Miss Watson also carries responsibility for some of the literature put out by this office. She takes full responsibility for the material on Supply Work and Library Service.

One of the most interesting tasks during the year has been the editing of Walter G. Muelder's In Every Place A Voice. Another task that carried certain satisfactions was the editing of Lands of Witness And Decision, the church-wide study book. The Muelder study takes its theme from the Message of the Amsterdam Conference of the World Council of Churches. This message pleads that the church "in every place" be "a voice" for those who have no voice. The second study book mentioned has taken the four lands named by the 1956 General Conference for special consideration and has explained why they are lands of witness and decision today. Each of the lands is presented by an expert in its area. Before the book was off the press great interest was shown by local churches and by Woman's Societies. The study book of the past year, High Hours of Methodism in Town-Country Communities, has had a wider use than any study since 1950. If the interest in the present book is any criterion Lands of Witness and Decision will top last year's study.

Field booklets have been prepared as usual in cooperation with the General Section of the Joint Section of Education and Cultivation. A new venture has been made in publishing a small leaflet on the importance of the Woman's Society to the local church. This leaflet will go out in every envelope sent to a minister who is ordering literature.

Annual Report, Finance, and Promotion

MRS. C. A. MEEKER
Editor of
The Methodist Woman

EDITORIAL paths of service are plainly marked by signs that must be strictly observed to avoid traffic jams in the production of materials. The signs on this page show the main direction of my year's work though the many important crisscrossing trails and bypaths are not named.

The retirement of the editorial assistant, Miss Mary Blake, made a rough stretch on my pathway which was smoothed out gradually through the efficient work of my secretary, Miss Dorothy Brow, who began her third year in this office in September, 1956, and the growing understanding of the Woman's Society work by the new editorial assistant, Mrs. Lawrence J. Holmes.

Planning is essential, but my busy schedule does not allow me to spend any time in an ivory tower and most of the plans are made on the run. In spite of this limitation, the long anticipated change of format for The Methodist Woman became a popular reality with the January, 1957, issue.

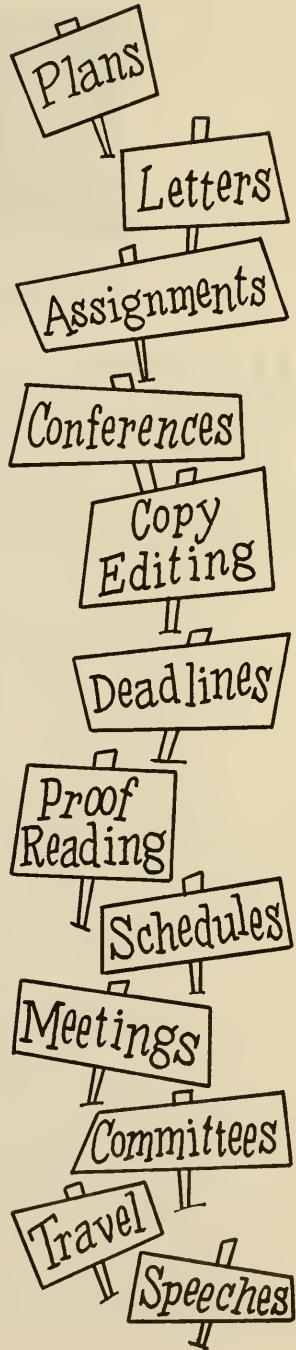

With the continued growth of the work and program of the Woman's Division, committee meetings and extra-curricular staff responsibilities multiply. The editors share in the overall planning as well as in the production of material for the quadrennial events. This editor was responsible for the program book of the Conference on Missions and is involved in the plans for the Fifth Assembly.

As editor for the Committee on Financial Promotion, I had the fun of helping to develop My World Bank, an attractive device to secure additional funds.

Two belated quadrennial assignments were completed during the year: Handbook for Vice-Presidents; Handbook for Treasurers. When Miss Alyce L'Heritier resigned the editing of the revised edition of A Christian's Primer on the United Nations was given to me.

Plans for the Annual Report of the Woman's Division are made in the spring, but the actual work starts in August when reports begin to arrive on my desk. Speaking engagements included teaching at two jurisdiction Schools of Missions; speaking at a jurisdiction meeting, and three conference meetings.

The schedule is heavy, but the companionship on the paths of service adds to the joy of living.

RECEIPTS from sales of literature at the end of the fiscal year, May 31, 1957, totaled approximately $750,000, an increase of $108,000. Excess assets over liabilities totaled $642,000, an increase of approximately $187,000 over the previous year.

The addition of 2,500 square feet of storage space in June, 1956, brought our total occupied space to approximately 30,000 square feet. Records of expenditures for maintenance of the building during the fiscal year 1956-1957 show the cost to be 60 cents per square foot.

Paul's Letters to Local Churches reached an all-time high in the sale of 130,000 copies. The Program Book showed an increased sale of 10,000 copies over the previous year.

Promotional display packets for 1957-1958 included the four study books, program, worship, and My Date Book, as well as THE METHODIST WOMAN and WORLD OUTLOOK. Directions for assembling and sales directives accompanied each packet.

The secretaries of Literature and Publications on all levels have cooperated most effectively in the use of promotion materials sent out from the office of the circulation manager and secretary of Literature of the Woman's Division. These materials included the Display Packets with directions for their assembling and use, Catalogue 1956-1957, sample promotion order blanks, fliers promoting program materials, the Prayer Calendar, and other publications. The success of our literature program would be impossible without this splendid cooperation and that of our editors in New York City and most efficient staff at Literature Headquarters in Cincinnati, Ohio.

In February, 1957, 225,000 pieces of promotional material concerning the April drive for new combination subscriptions to THE METHODIST WOMAN and WORLD OUTLOOK were mailed to local, district, conference, and jurisdiction secretaries of Literature and Publications.

This annual drive produced 12,000 new combination subscriptions, by far the largest increase ever gained in a promotional effort.

We may consider the April drive for new combination subscriptions to THE METHODIST WOMAN and WORLD OUTLOOK a real success. Those who won the banners for the highest number of new combination subscriptions were Mrs. W. F. Cooley of the South Central Jurisdiction, the jurisdiction banner; Mrs. Troy E. Simmons, of the Southern California-Arizona Conference of the Western Jurisdiction, the conference banner; and the district banner was won by Mrs. Edward Warren for Houston-East District of the Texas Conference of the South Central Jurisdiction.

In January, 1957, THE METHODIST WOMAN reached another milestone of progress, namely, forty-eight pages, self-cover, two colors on eight pages of each issue.

One issue of THE METHODIST WOMAN now takes three carloads of paper, five hundred ten pounds of ink, and four and one-half days of printing on a twenty-four-hour basis. If the paper in one issue of THE METHODIST WOMAN were laid end to end, printed on two sides, it would cover one thousand and thirty-two miles.

Missionary Personnel

WE THANK Thee, Lord, Thy paths of service lead to blazoned heights and down the slopes of need" is a favorite song of the 91 new missionaries, deaconesses, and special-term workers taking up work this first year of the quadrennium.

With the help and prayer power of every member of the Woman's Society of Christian Service, minister, youth, and student leader, we press toward our personnel goal of 200 new workers yearly. We shall be realizing soon the fruit of the work of Jane Stentz, who is counseling the undergraduate college students, and Mrs. Phyllis Estus, who corresponds with the high school youth seeking information.

New materials are being prepared. For use in 1957-1958 there will be an attractive poster for church and college bulletin boards presenting the world mission of the church as it relates to the paths of service our church gives young people eager for Christian witness. A new leaflet is taking the place of the handy "Christian Careers Calling Youth." The two new films, "Reply to Reality" and "Heart of the Neighborhood," have been shown widely and received well.

A personnel secretary has attended each of the six Student Regionals as well as the Regional Conferences sponsored by the Interboard Committee on Christian Vocations held during the fall for the members of Conference Commissions on Christian Vocations. The second Consultation on Mission Strategy Among College Students was held in March at Monteagle, Tennessee, with student leaders from nine Southeastern states.

Anita Harris and Will Boots, missionaries from South America, have been traveling in most of the states speaking and interviewing students and young adults. For their work and the work of Dr. Rose Wolfson, psychological consultant in the Office of Missionary Personnel, we are most grateful. As we prepared our personnel program for the Conference on Missions we realized afresh the vital part jurisdiction, conference, and district secretaries of Missionary Personnel play in the nurture and recruitment of youth and the excellent work being done by the Wesleyan Service Guild in alerting well-trained professional women to the opportunities in missionary service. The Student Volunteer Movement, the Kappa Phi, the Wesley Foundations, and the Methodist Student Movement are taking increased interest and responsibility in the nurture and recruitment of youth for church-related vocations.

Reports of Standing Committees

By MRS. WILLIAM T. ANDERSON, Chairman

DO WE challenge our youth to give themselves to Christian service? Are we helping young people know their faith and share it with others? These questions concern everyone, especially the secretaries of Missionary Personnel, Student Work, and Youth Work and their committees. The standing Committee on Missionary Personnel, which met in New York City April 10-12, 1957, was conscious of the failure to challenge enough young women to fill the needs in paths of service at home and abroad. Because many of the Woman's Division members on the committee are new, it was most helpful to have five seasoned jurisdiction secretaries of Missionary Personnel serving a second quadrennium. It was a joy to work with them and to welcome Miss Grace Arnold of the Central Jurisdiction as a new secretary.

This is the first year that secretaries of Missionary Personnel have had printed report blanks for reporting three times a year and these reports have proven their value. The local Woman's Society of Christian Service does not have a secretary of Missionary Personnel, so the district secretary of Missionary Personnel, must receive her information from and work with the local secretaries of Youth Work and Student Work. For the first time, there are Missionary Personnel questions on the local report blanks for the secretaries of Youth Work and Student Work. The heart of our Missionary Personnel recruitment program is in the local church yet our weakest spot in recruitment is still in the local church. We need parents who see the need of Christian service, pastors who will counsel with youth, and church-school teachers who are helping young people know their faith and how to share it with others. The study of the Local Church Emphasis Booklet No. 3, "A Better Record for Our Church in Missions" by the local church Commission on Missions is increasing the number of local committees on Christian Vocations.

Our greatest source for prospective candidates is still the summer institutes and camps. Usually, the list of names is reported to the conference secretary of Missionary Personnel. There is increasing cooperation between her and the conference secretaries of Youth Work and Student Work. On the district level, we are slower. The standing committee developed new suggestions for the district secretary based on those of North Central Jurisdiction to supplement the leaflet on the duties of the secretaries of Missionary Personnel.

The Wesleyan Service Guilds continue to be excellent recruiting agents. The Regional Workshops held by the Interboard Committee on Christian Vocations gave new insight to many of our secretaries of Missionary Personnel. "This Is Your Life" programs at South Central and Western Jurisdiction meetings showed the steps in becoming a missionary and gave added impetus to our work as did the Southeastern Jurisdiction Workshop on Recruitment at Scarritt College, Nashville, Tennessee.

We appreciate the devoted and untiring service of the staff members and their office assistants. The Northeastern Jurisdiction Secretary of Missionary Personnel said, "With the fine emphases that came out of the Conference on Missions, namely: evangelism as the heart of all our missionary endeavor—the splendid certainty expressed in fresh terms that Christ does offer the only real salvation, and the suggestion that God is the missionary and young people only answer God's call to let Him work through them in meeting the needs of the world—I feel that our appeal will be greatly strengthened and that the finest of our young men and women will hear the call." Will you pray for that?

Permanent Funds and Investments

By MRS. JOHN M. PEARSON, Chairman

THERE is held within the total funds of the Woman's Division of Christian Service invested in bonds and stocks as of May 31, 1957, the amount of $22,112,011.96 (book value).

The analysis of the investment portfolio as of May 31, 1957, shows that the securities are divided as follows: Bonds, 49.69 per cent; Preferred Stocks, 3.56 per cent; Common Stocks, 46.74 per cent. The interest yield at purchase price is 3.94 per cent, compared with 3.81 per cent last year.

The Irving Trust Company of New York acts as investment adviser and custodian of invested funds of the Woman's Division of Christian Service. For the year ending May 31, 1957, the amount paid for this advisory-custodian service was $21,136.45.

As of May 31, 1957, investments in mortgages were held by the Woman's Division of Christian Service as follows: Permanent Funds, $991,403.75; Pension Funds, $475,587.50; and Designated Temporary Funds, $1,790.10. These mortgages are serviced by Cruikshank Company at a total service fee of $7,091.88.

By vote of the Woman's Division there is guaranteed to the Permanent Funds 3 per cent interest annually. For the year 1956-1957 this amounted to $105,740.37. This interest was allocated to the departments on a pro-rata basis according to the amount held for each department in the fund.

Also, by vote of the Woman's Division there is guaranteed to the Pension Funds 3½ per cent interest annually. For the year 1956-1957 this amounted to $145,150.03.

For the eighth consecutive year the Woman's Division this year has made a distribution of interest on the Designated Temporary Funds to the several departments of the Woman's Division at the rate of 3 per cent. This is allocated to the departments on a pro-rata basis according to the amount held in the fund for each department. This year the interest amounted to $381,964.48.

The Woman's Division has reason to be proud of the record through the years which indicates clearly the careful attention that has been given to the handling of the invested funds held by the Division.

The members of the Committee on Permanent Funds and Investments, both elected and coopted, have given unstintingly of their time and their interest in the discharge of the duties related to the work of the committee. Mr. Morgan MacDonald and Mr. Edward Veitch of the Irving Trust Company have provided to the committee wise counsel and careful recommendations for the handling of the funds. To each member of the committee and to the advisers the Woman's Division is deeply indebted.

World Federation of Methodist Women

By MRS. T. OTTO NALL, Chairman

THE World Federation of Methodist Women was organized to help Methodist women in all parts of the world to know and appreciate each other, and to work together to help bring in the Kingdom of God. From 1939-1956 this world-wide organization met just prior to General Conference in the United States. The thirty-four units represented for the most part The Methodist Church in America and the younger churches associated with the missionary enterprise of American Methodism.

But August 29, 1956, marked the beginning of a new phase in the life and history of the World Federation of Methodist Women. On that date the World Federation became an affiliate of the World Methodist Council. Hereafter, it will meet just prior to the meeting of the World Methodist Council which is every five years. A new charter was drawn up which was signed by all thirty-four former members. In addition two other groups of Methodist women joined. One group represented the other Methodist churches in the United States: African Methodist Episcopal; African Methodist Episcopal, Zion; and the Christian Methodist Episcopal Church. In March, 1957, the women of the Free Methodist Church also joined. The other new group which joined at Junaluska includes British women and women from those churches which are off-shoots of English Methodism. They are the Methodist women in Great Britain, South Africa, British West Indies, Australia, and New Zealand. There are now forty-three units, each representing a national or denominational body of The Methodist Church, which brings the membership of the World Federation of Methodist Women to six million women.

To join the World Federation of Methodist Women there are two requirements: First, that the Methodist Church of which the women's group is a part must be a member of the World Methodist Council. Secondly, that the women's group must subscribe to the World Federation of Methodist Women's motto, "To Know Christ and Make Him Known." This means that each unit must work within its own constituency to deepen the spiritual life of its women: "To Know Christ." Each unit also must be a missionary-minded group, sending missionaries to another country.

Great progress has been made during this year in developing the world-wide fellowship of Methodist women. Through our official correspondent, Mrs. A. B. Pfeiffer, Aurora, Illinois, we have corresponded with the other forty-two units. Articles have appeared in THE METHODIST WOMAN and WORLD OUTLOOK.

The jurisdiction, conference, and district vice-presidents have been most creative in building World Federation programs for their meetings. Each jurisdiction vice-president has a set of colored slides with script showing the re-organizational meeting at Lake Junaluska, North Carolina.

Many local Woman's Societies, circles, and Wesleyan Service Guilds have presented the World Federation during the past year. Some have had a five-minute presentation, telling of the work of Methodist women in another unit or using a prayer written by women of another country. Others have had longer programs with slides, skits, a speaker from another unit, or a banquet, at which time women dressed to represent different countries around the world.

In addition to becoming acquainted with the work of the other forty-two units by reading and correspondence, many Societies are making personal contacts with students and visitors from other countries, and are inviting representatives of the other four units in the United States to share in programs. For example, a conference Wesleyan Service Guild has been getting acquainted with the employed women of the other units in the area. A local Woman's Society helped the women of a neighboring A.M.E. church entertain their national meeting through housing, meals, and transportation for the visiting guests.

Thus Methodist women beginning in their own Society, home, community, and reaching out into all the world are seeking, "To Know Christ and Make Him Known," and are helping to build a world of peace and brotherhood.

Spiritual Life

By MRS. E. U. ROBINSON, Chairman

THE assurance that the entire program of work of the Woman's Division will be carried forward, rests first in the spiritual commitment of the individual member to Jesus Christ as Lord and Savior; and second, in her commitment to a program of work which she believes to be in accord with His mind and teachings.

While figures do not tell the full story, they do serve as a thermometer, indicating interest and concern. Figures for the past year reveal that increased opportunities for spiritual enrichment were made available to members of the Woman's Society and the Wesleyan Service Guild. According to reports, there are approximately 20,000 Prayer Groups, banded together with specific prayer objectives. The areas of concern are tremendous, including the spiritual state of the church, United Nations, national and world church and political leadership, racial problems, missionary personnel, recruitment, peace.

The increase in the number of conference and district retreats indicates that the power available for daily living and serving is being sought. The reports of such occasions indicate that the sought power has been found.

The fourth aspect of the first quadrennial goal, Communicating to Others the Joy of Discovering Christ, has been a measuring rod. It is true we keep only that which we share. Methodist women are finding that their relationships to the Board of Evangelism, on all levels, provide opportunities to work with and through the church with far-reaching results. These opportunities are being accepted with great joy, as well as with a sense of responsibility.

The cherished practice of communicating with the retired workers has been a joyous opportunity of sharing. Two letters have gone to these workers—one during Lent and one around Thanksgiving time.

Methodist women gladly joined in the observance of the 250th anniversary of the birth of Charles Wesley, in jurisdiction and conference Schools of Missions, and in local church observances. They purchased and used thousands of copies of the booklet, My Great Redeemer's Name, by Bishop Roy H. Short, a booklet pointing up the theological content of a number of Wesley's hymns.

An increased interest in things of the spirit was reported. The largest sale of Spiritual Life literature ever reported was made during the year just closed. This included the largest sale of Week of Prayer material. The standing Committee on Spiritual Life is working on plans that will result in more accurate reporting of this important annual observance. Good reports on the study, "Paul's Letters to Local Churches," came from across the church. This has proven to be a very popular study.

The end of the first year of the new quadrennium, though marking progress in Spiritual Life Cultivation, suggests that there needs to be a relentless seeking for the spirit of Christ for all of life—if we walk in His paths of service.

Literature and Publications

By MRS. JAMES P. HOWELL, Chairman

THE Committee on Literature and Publications of the Woman's Division is responsible to the Woman's Division for all printed materials recommended for the use of Woman's Societies and Wesleyan Service Guilds. It is charged with the responsibility of surveying the needs for the materials and formulating policies and plans for their publication and distribution. The first meeting of the committee for the new quadrennium was held at Lake Junaluska in September immediately after the organizational meeting of the Board of Missions.

Mrs. E. LeRoy Stiffler presented the members of the Editorial Board. Each, in turn, told of her specific field of responsibility. Mrs. Stiffler presented a graph which showed that the sales for the first three months of 1956-57 equaled that of the total year 1948-49. Increasing demand and use of materials account for sales increase.

At our second regular meeting in April the literature askings for 1957-58, both salable and free items, were presented. The Editorial Board had reviewed these prior to our meeting so their comments were invaluable as the committee carefully considered each request before authorization. The Free Literature Fund for 1957-58 totaling $82,000 was accepted.

The chairman of a subcommittee known as the Committee on Programs reported that the programs for 1958-59 based on the theme, "Christ for the World We Sing," were in the process of preparation. The theme presented for 1959-60 program material, "There's a Light Upon the Mountains," based on hymn 123, The Methodist Hymnal, was approved.

The Committee on Literature and Publications recognizes the skill, wisdom, and dedication of the Editorial Board and is continually grateful for the privilege of serving with them.

Library Service

By MRS. W. H. McCALLUM, Chairman

THU paths of service lead" are well-known words of a familiar hymn. What paths Library Service?

Missionaries and workers across the world speak of the joy, inspiration, and professional help that Library Service brings to them.

It is important to remember that through the Committee on Library Service of the Woman's Division of Christian Service, books and magazines are made available to all of the projects of the Department of Work in Home Fields and to all of the households in the Department of Work in Foreign Fields, without expense to the workers. Each year the Library Service Committee compiles a Book List from which books may be selected. The workers may also request books and/or magazines not on the Book List.

For the fiscal year, June 1, 1956-May 31, 1957, 532 books and 25 magazines were sent to projects in the Home Fields and 572 books and 15 magazines were sent to households in the Foreign Fields. The largest number of requests for any one book was for The Women of the Bible, by Edith Deen. Other top books in order of preference were Interpreter's Bible; Handicraft: Simplified Procedure and Projects by Lester Griswold; and The Old Testament and the Fine Arts by Cynthia Pearl Maus.

The Wesleyan Service Guild participates in Library Service through a donation from its Book, Magazine, and Picture Fund.

Library Service is within appropriations and every woman who contributes money through her Woman's Society of Christian Service and Wesleyan Service Guild is helping to make this important work possible.

Paths of service lead to Library Service.

Supply Work

By Mrs. B. A. LEWIS, Chairman

THE grand total of Supply Work including new materials and cash amounts to $1,260,881.89 for the year 1956-1957. This is a decrease of $18,213.90 as compared to the total amount of Supply Work done last year. This report includes the reports of more local Societies than ever before with the North Indiana Conference reporting 100 per cent. That sort of cultivation deserves honorable mention.

Status of Women

By MRS. J. RUSSELL HENDERSON, Chairman

IN response to many requests for a rethinking of this line of work in the Woman's Society and Wesleyan Service Guild the Woman's Division in January, 1957, authorized a study to be made by local Societies and Wesleyan Service Guilds. The Officer's Letter in the May issue of THE METHODIST WOMAN set forth the purpose of the study and called the attention of local secretaries to the specific duties as outlined in the Bylaws. The new free leaflet, Changing Patterns for Women, calls attention to changing patterns for women in church and society and makes suggestions as to implications for the work of the Woman's Division both on the national and local levels.

Included in this leaflet is a questionnaire which local groups are being asked to study. Suggestions concerning the redefining of the duties of this office, or the reallocation of presently assigned duties to other lines of work of the organization, are to come through regular reporting channels to this standing committee for further study and recommendations to the Woman's Division. Many suggestions already received by the chairman in response to the Officer's Letter indicate that much creative thinking is being done by some individuals and groups.

Pensions

By MRS. PAUL G. MASTERS, Chairman

ONE of the major concerns of the Woman's Division of Christian Service since the time of its organization has been the matter of retirement allowance for all missionaries and deaconesses.

Based upon actuarial studies made to determine the liability existing May 31, 1953, under the various Pension Funds of the Division, the Department of Work in Home Fields and the Department of Work in Foreign Fields have met the annual requirement as of May 31, 1957.

There has been transferred during the year from the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society of the Methodist Episcopal Church $4,260.50 for the Retirement Fund of the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society.

For the year 1956-1957 the Woman's Division paid into the Pension Funds 3½ per cent income from investments on the average balance held in the total fund.

As of May 31, 1957, the Missionary and Deaconess Pension Fund of the Woman's Division of Christian Service amounted to $550,292.09.

Report Wesleyan Service Guild

By MRS. HAROLD BAKER, Chairman

THE Wesleyan Service Guild is one of the paths of service through which the Woman's Division continues to reach out and reach up.

With its 5,472 Guilds, representing 129,598 members, and a giving of $746,842.60 the Wesleyan Service Guild is a vital and participating factor in the total work of the Woman's Society of Christian Service and the Wesleyan Service Guild in the church. Specifically it supports the many Special Interests designated for the Wesleyan Service Guild. There is increasing effort, however, and real progress in "undesignated giving" toward the total program of the Woman's Division. With this comes a greater sense of solidarity and oneness in the work.

The study classes have a growing record, both in number of classes and membership in the classes, giving new vision and understanding for needs throughout the world. With this comes a desire for personal service. In January, fourteen Wesleyan Service Guild members were among the eighty candidates commissioned by Bishop Arthur J. Moore, to serve the church in its missionary enterprise. Since that time another Guilder was commissioned last spring.

Not alone is the Guild a path of service but it is a service itself to the working woman in the church. Through this organization she finds her place in the total church program, a place of companionship with those of like interests, as members serve, study, and worship together.

In November, 1956, eight Wesleyan Service Guild members representing a cross section of vocation and racial membership came together in Chicago to discuss and evaluate the program of the Guild. So successful was this "Pilot Discussion Group," that two other such groups are to be formed in other areas for similar discussion and evaluation. In this manner the program seeks greater service to its members.

The Wesleyan Service Guild is growing in wisdom and in stature and in knowledge of its responsibilities. It is humbly aware of its successes in many areas, but is alert to note that "the fields are white unto harvest." Many sources of membership have not been reached and there is need to diligently promote the emphases for the year ahead: First, to seek new members for established Guilds, and second, to organize new Guild units for the young working girls.

Our prayers are that we reach these young employed women and present the challenge of the church through the Wesleyan Service Guild program of spiritual enrichment in assuming a personal responsibility for developing a world Christian community following the path of service even unto being the service itself.

Members of the standing committee are: six from the Woman's Division of Christian Service: Mrs. Harold M. Baker, Mrs. Glenn Laskey, Mrs. L. F. Hemenway, Mrs. E. J. Badgett, Mrs. John Hoyle, Jr., Mrs. B. F. Russell; six jurisdiction secretaries: South Central, Mrs. Alice Pletz; Northeastern, Miss Nora Bubb; Southeastern, Mrs. E. V. Ennis; Central, Mrs. Velma Jetters; North Central, Miss Frieda Blum; Western, Mrs. Clarence K. Jones; and six Guild members-at-large: Missionary Education, Dr. Louise Branscomb; Organization and Promotion, Miss Ruby Mae Hope; Spiritual Life, Mrs. Martha M. Harvey; Status of Women, Mrs. Juanita Hill; Supply Work, Mrs. Paul Kitzmiller; Christian Social Relations, Miss Ruth Foy. Miss Lillian Johnson, Miss Marguerite Harris, Miss Dorothy McConnell, and Miss Dorcas Hall are members ex officio.

Became a law March 17, 1953, with the approval of the Governor.

Section 1. Chapter ninety-nine of the laws of nineteen hundred forty-two, entitled "An act to facilitate the unification and integration of the missionary organizations and societies of The Methodist Church and for that purpose to incorporate Woman's Division of Christian Service of the Board of Missions and Church Extension of The Methodist Church," is hereby amended to read as follows:

§ 1. All persons associated, or who may become associated, together in a body corporate under the name and style of "Woman's Division of Christian Service of the Board of Missions and Church Extension of The Methodist Church," are hereby continued as a body corporate by the name of "Woman's Division of Christian Service of the Board of Missions of The Methodist Church." Any and all powers which said corporation has heretofore possessed and any and all property which said corporation may have heretofore purchased or otherwise acquired and any legacy, devise, grant, gift, bequest, transfer or subscription, heretofore or hereafter made or given to said corporation in or by any of the names by which it has been known previous to the passage of this act shall be vested in and owned by the said corporation under the name provided in this section as amended by this act.

§ 2. The objects of said corporation are religious, philanthropic and educational, designed to diffuse more generally the blessings of Christianity and education in every part of the world and to promote and support Christian missions, missionary schools, and all phases of religious activity at home and abroad; to develop and maintain Christian work among women and children at home and abroad; to cultivate Christian family life; to enlist and organize the efforts of Christian women, young people, and children in behalf of native and foreign groups, needy childhood, and community welfare; to assist in the promotion of a missionary spirit throughout the church; to select, train, and maintain Christian workers; to cooperate with the local church in its responsibilities, and to seek fellowship with Christian women of this and other lands in establishing a Christian social order around the world.

It may conduct and carry on its work directly as well as through corporate or other agencies of The Methodist Church now existing or hereafter established, including all agencies and corporations of the Methodist Episcopal Church, the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, and the Methodist Protestant Church, which are now united in The Methodist Church, and through such denominational, interdenominational, or other agencies as it may determine.

Said corporation shall be under the direction and control of the General Conference of The Methodist Church.

§ 3. The management and disposition of the affairs and property of said corporation shall be vested in its members who shall collectively constitute its Board of Managers. The Board of Managers may delegate its power and authority to an executive committee. The number of its members, qualifications for membership, method of choosing members, number and qualifications of members to serve on the executive committee and the method of choosing such committee shall be as heretofore, or as from time to time hereafter, prescribed by the General Conference of The Methodist Church. The managers and executive committee appointed as prescribed by said General Conference at its last previous session shall be entitled to act as such from and after the time this act shall take effect, until successors, chosen as prescribed by the General Conference, shall assume their duties.

§ 4. Said corporation shall have perpetual succession, may adopt a common seal and alter the same at pleasure, may sue and be sued, may acquire property for corporate purposes by grant, gift, purchase, devise or bequest, and hold or dispose of the same subject to such limitations as may be prescribed by law, may sell, transfer, lease, mortgage or otherwise dispose of such property, whether held in trust or otherwise, without obtaining leave of any court, may borrow money and secure the same by mortgage or otherwise, shall be competent to act as trustee in respect to any gift, devise or bequest pertaining to the objects of the corporation, may accept contributions to its funds subject to annuity, and may make such bylaws and rules for the management of its affairs as may be consistent with law and with its constitution which shall be adopted and may be altered from time to time by or under the authority of the General Conference of The Methodist Church, and shall have all the general powers and privileges of a corporation organized under the corporation laws of the state of New York.

§ 5. Said corporation is organized exclusively for charitable, religious and educational purposes and not for profit. Extracts Relating to the Woman's Division of Christian Service

¶ 1171. ARTICLE 3.—BOARD OF MANAGERS. The management and disposition of the affairs of the board, the making and administration of appropriations, and all other activities shall be vested in a Board of Managers.

¶ 1172. The Board of Managers shall be composed as follows:

1. Eighteen effective bishops of The Methodist Church resident in the United States, elected by the Council of Bishops; and in addition six bishops serving overseas, designated by the Council of Bishops, who shall have the status of members of the board in meetings which they may be able to attend, subject to such travel regulations as are provided in the Discipline for overseas bishops.

2. Members elected quadrennially by the Jurisdictional Conferences as follows: one minister and three lay members, two of whom shall be women, from each jurisdiction for each 600,000 members, or major fraction thereof, in the jurisdiction; provided that no jurisdiction, in addition to the bishops, shall have fewer than two ministers and six lay members, four of whom shall be women and two men. In nominating and electing such members, the Jurisdictional Conference shall have as a basis for choice the following: (a) one minister and one layman designated by each annual conference of the jurisdiction, on nomination of its Conference Board of Missions; (b) six additional names nominated by the College of Bishops of the jurisdiction; (c) twice the necessary number of laywomen, designated by the jurisdiction Woman's Society of Christian Service from three members nominated by each conference Woman's Society of Christian Service of the jurisdiction. Vacancies among these members shall be filled by the bishops of the jurisdiction in which the vacancies occur ad interim, having regard to the various classifications of members.

3. Twenty-seven lay men, at least four from each jurisdiction, elected quadrennially by the board on nomination of the Council of Bishops, to serve as members at large of the board, and to be assigned as nearly equally as possible to the Divisions of World Missions and of National Missions.

4. Twelve women, two from each jurisdiction, elected quadrennially by the board on nomination of the Woman's Division of Christian Service, to serve as members at large of the board and this Division.

5. Six youth members twenty-three years of age or under at the time of their election, representing all jurisdictions and divided between youth and student groups, elected quadrennially by the board on nomination of the National Conference of Methodist Youth, which, in consultation with the appropriate staff of the board, shall have considered suggestions of nominations by conference Methodist Youth Fellowships and state or regional units of the Methodist Student Movement. Vacancies shall be filled by the board on nomination of the National Conference of Methodist Youth.

6. The chairman of the program area of Christian Outreach of the National Methodist Youth Fellowship Commission.

¶ 1173. The term of office of all members whose election is provided for in ¶ 1172 shall begin, and the board shall organize, at a meeting to be held within ninety days after the adjournment of the last meeting of the several jurisdictional conferences held after the adjournment of the General Conference.

¶ 1174. The board shall elect quadrennially a president, who shall be the presiding officer, four vice-presidents (the nominees being the presidents of the three divisions and the Joint Section of Education and Cultivation), a recording secretary, and such other officers as it may need. Their duties shall be those usually performed by such officers. The board may also elect annually such committees as may be necessary to carry on its business.

¶ 1175. The board shall elect quadrennially, upon nomination of the respective divisions, a general executive committee of thirty-eight members: nine from the Division of World Missions, two of whom shall be women; nine from the Division of National Missions, two of whom shall be women; nine women from the Woman's Division of Christian Service; five women and five men from the Joint Section of Education and Cultivation; and the president of the board, who shall be chairman. A majority of the members shall constitute a quorum. This general executive committee shall exercise the powers of the board ad interim.

¶ 1176. ARTICLE 4. DUTIES.—The duties of the board shall be:

1. To have the general oversight of the missionary and church-extension program of The Methodist Church, with special reference to its development and expansion.

2. To determine the broad lines of policy and program and, through the respective divisions, to carry out the program.

3. To safeguard for each division the fullest measure of autonomy consistent with presenting a united front and a mutually supporting program.

4. To foster, as between the respective divisions, united fellowship, planning, and action.

5. On recommendation of the divisions, to determine fields to be occupied and the nature of the work to be undertaken; to secure, appropriate, and expend money for the support of all work under its care; to build and maintain churches, hospitals, homes, schools, parsonages, and other institutions of Christian service; and to enlist, train, and support the workers.

6. To elect, on nomination of the divisions, the executive officers of the respective divisions.

7. To receive and properly administer all properties and trust funds coming into the possession of the board as a board for missionary or other purposes, except as hereinafter provided.

8. To assist in the organization of and in the maintenance of cooperative relations with the boards, committees, and other agencies of the General Conference; also with the jurisdictional, central, and annual conference boards, committees, and agencies; likewise with interdenominational and other missionary agencies in the home and foreign fields.

9. To make a report of its activities during the quadrennium to the General Conference and the Jurisdictional Conferences.

¶ 1177. The board shall provide for the correlation and harmonization of the work of its various divisions, departments, and bureaus. It shall do any and all things consistent with its constitution and charter to accomplish the purpose of The Methodist Church in establishing missionary and church-extension work in home and foreign fields.

¶ 1178. ARTICLE 5. DIVISIONS.—1. The board shall conduct its activities through three administrative divisions—namely, a Division of World Missions, a Division of National Missions, and a Woman's Division of Christian Service—and a Joint Section of Education and Cultivation.

2. In constituting the membership of its divisions the board may elect from the membership of the Divisions of World Missions and National Missions, respectively, to the Woman's Division of Christian Service a number not to exceed the number of members which the Woman's Division of Christian Service has on the Division of World Missions and the Division of National Missions. (See ¶¶ 1195, 1210, 1240, Sec. 3)

¶ 1179. ARTICLE 6. GENERAL AND EXECUTIVE SECRETARIES.—1. The board shall elect quadrennially one or more general secretaries each for the Divisions of World Missions and of National Missions, two general secretaries (one man and one woman) for the Joint Section of Education and Cultivation, and one or more executive secretaries for the Woman's Division of Christian Service, with such assistants as the needs of the work may require. Said secretaries shall be nominated by their respective divisions, and shall be elected by the board.

2. The general and executive secretaries shall be subject to the direction of the board and of their respective divisions. On recommendation of the divisions their salaries shall be fixed and paid as the board may determine. They shall be employed exclusively in the work of the board, promoting its activities as the board may approve.

3. One general secretary from the Division of World Missions, two general or executive secretaries from the Division of National Missions, three executive secretaries from the Woman's Division of Christian Service, and two general secretaries from the Joint Section of Education and Cultivation shall be members of the board, but without vote. (See ¶ 1103.)

¶ 1180. 1. The board shall elect the editors, men and women, of its periodicals and literature in the Joint Section of Education and Cultivation on nomination of the joint section. They shall be subject to the direction of the board and of the joint section.

2. The board shall also elect such other secretaries, treasurers, directors of departments, and other officers, on nomination of the respective divisions and sections concerned, as the board may require.

¶ 1181. All officers, whether elected quadrennially or annually, shall retire on reaching the retirement age fixed by the board's pension plan.

¶ 1182. ARTICLE 7. TREASURERS.—The board shall elect quadrennially one of the divisions' treasurers as the treasurer of the board. He shall receive and handle general funds of the board not belonging to any one division and shall act as the legal financial representative of the board in matters affecting the board as a whole. It may also elect one or more assistant treasurers.

¶ 1183. The treasurer of the board and the treasurers of the divisions shall be responsible for receiving the funds of the board and of the respective divisions, holding the same in a safe depository and disbursing them according to the regulations of the board or the respective divisions on proper order. The board, on recommendation of the divisions, shall designate depositories for their funds. The treasurers shall also be charged with the responsibility of receiving and holding all trust funds, endowments, and securities of the board and the respective divisions and properly disbursing the returns therefrom according to the regulations of the board and the respective divisions, and shall further be responsible, under the direction of finance committees, for the investing of said trust funds, endowments, and other permanent funds, excepting such funds as shall be available for loans to churches to be administered by the secretary of church extension.

¶ 1202. ARTICLE 3. Foreign Field Committees and Estimates.—In a foreign mission field of the board each annual or provisional annual conference shall have a Field Committee composed of the presiding bishop and wherever possible an equal number of national and missionary members. The national membership, which should wherever possible be an equal number of men and women, shall be elected by the annual conference. The missionary membership, which should wherever possible be an equal number of men and women, shall be nominated by the missionaries within the bounds of the conference and approved by the Division of World Missions and the Woman's Division of Christian Service. On authorization by the Central Conference, the annual or provisional annual conference may add the district superintendents as ex officio members without vote. The duties of the committee shall be:

1. To elect its chairman and secretary; to forward its minutes promptly to the respective divisions of the board, and the report of its recommendations to the divisions for approval.

2. To study and coordinate the work of the Division of World Missions and the Woman's Division of Christian Service.

3. To consult with the board through the respective divisions on all matters of mutual concern.

4. To receive and transmit to the board reports from all the institutions and agencies of the church which receive aid from the board.

5. To prepare estimates of funds requested from the board for aid to work in the annual or provisional annual conference and for aid to institutions and other projects; except the financial requirement for missionary support, which is the direct responsibility of the board.

¶ 1203. In a mission field where there is a Central Conference in which there is an executive board or council of cooperation constituted, the estimates for the maintenance and development of the work, prepared by the various Field Committees, shall be presented to the Division of World Missions and to the Woman's Division of Christian Service after approval by said executive board or council of cooperation. The estimates shall be presented, conference by conference, and by projects within the conference. These estimates shall be prepared and submitted separately for the two divisions in such form as may be required.

¶ 1204. In a Central or Provisional Central Conference where there is no executive board or council of cooperation, the estimates shall be sent direct to the Division of World Missions and to the Woman's Division of Christian Service from the Field Committee of each annual conference or provisional annual conference.

¶ 1205. Wherever desired by an affiliated autonomous Methodist church and the missionaries working in relation to such church, there shall be a joint council composed of members of the affiliated autonomous church and missionaries of the board working in that field, under a constitution approved by the board. This joint council shall be the agency through which the board shall cooperate with such affiliated autonomous church.

Extracts Relating to the Joint Section of Education and Cultivation

¶ 1268. The Joint Section of Education and Cultivation shall undergird with education and cultivation the total program of the Board of Missions. It shall be composed of six bishops, one from each jurisdiction; six men and two women from the Division of World Missions, elected by that division; six men and two women from the Division of National Missions, elected by that division; eight women from the Woman's Division of Christian Service, one of whom shall be the president of the division, elected by that division. In all these selections there must be due regard to equitable representation from the jurisdictions.

¶ 1269. The joint section shall elect quadrennially a president, one or more vice-presidents, and a recording secretary. It shall also nominate for election by the board two general secretaries (one man and one woman), and other secretaries, directors, a treasurer, who shall be the director of one of its departments, and such other officers as it may determine. The treasurer of the Woman's Division of Christian Service shall be treasurer of the Woman's Section. Vacancies shall be filled by the same procedure. The joint section shall determine the powers and duties of its officers and staff and shall recommend the remuneration of its employed officers and workers.

¶ 1270. There shall be an annual meeting of the joint section, and it may meet at such other times as the chairman may designate.

¶ 1271. The joint section shall edit, publish, sell, and circulate books, literature, and periodicals for the work of the board and shall be responsible for editing and preparing the same. It shall cooperate with the Board of Education and all agencies of The Methodist Church and with interdenominational agencies in the preparation and distribution of missionary literature.

¶ 1272. The joint section shall promote missionary councils, conventions, institutes, an Annual Week of Prayer, and other meetings throughout the church for the purpose of developing a missionary spirit, spreading missionary information, and acquainting the church with the plans and policies of the board. It shall seek the cooperation of jurisdictional and annual conferences, district superintendents, pastors, missionary societies, and other agencies of the church.

¶ 1273. The joint section shall have charge of all plans for cultivating missionary giving, and for promoting the missionary program of the church; provided, however, that all such plans shall be subject to and in harmony with the general financial system of The Methodist Church as adopted by the General Conference.

¶ 1275. The joint section shall cooperate with schools of theology and departments of missions in the conduct of missionary institutes in such institutions, and shall develop other plans for affording missionary information and inspiration to students.

¶ 1276. 2. The secretaries and editors of the woman's section of the joint section shall carry out the plans and policies of the Woman's Division of Christian Service for the various age groups, including the promotion of organizations for women in local churches, districts, conferences, and jurisdictions; in providing missionary education for children, youth, students, and women; in creating, editing, and publishing such periodicals, books, and leaflets as the work may necessitate. The joint section shall give guidance in those local church activities that will strengthen the total life and work of the local church and shall cooperate in all plans necessary for the efficiency of the Woman's Societies of Christian Service in the jurisdictions, conferences, districts, and local churches.
